Oneida Seven Generations Corporation's efforts to collect $21 million from the city of Green Bay hit a roadblock when federal judge William Griesbach dismissed OSGC's lawsuit on June 6. OSGC was seeking damages after the Wisconsin Supreme Court ruled in May of 2015 that the city of Green Bay improperly revoked a conditional use permit (CUP) for Oneida Seven Generations Corporation's (OSGC) waste to energy project.

The lawsuit, filed December 23 of last year, stated, "The city's irrational decision to revoke the CUP based on manufactured rationale shocks the conscience and constitutes a violation of OSGC's constitutional right to due process. The city has left OSGC no choice but to bring this lawsuit seeking to recover the significant damages it incurred as a result."

OSGC felt they were owed lost profits, out-of-pocket expenses plus attorney's fees.

Judge Greisbach didn't agree.

"The city's action caused a delay in the project; it was apparently a change in other factors over which the city had no control that caused OSGC to abandon it," Griesbach's ruling said.

The waste to energy facility was designed to take municipal waste that would otherwise be placed into a landfill, sort it, and put nonhazardous, non-recyclable materi-

Aquaponics project safe, state-of-the-art

Wetlands Project Manager Tony Kuchma inspects the progress of vegetable seedlings in the Aquaponics greenhouse. The seedlings are in a Nutrient Film technique Table (NFT) with a shallow film of continuously flowing water which supplies nutrients to the seedlings. As the roots begin to emerge from the cubes they will be moved from the NFT table into the Aquaponics raft system until they are fully grown and harvested for consumption.

The Oneida Nation's Aquaponics project, which has been up and running for a few months now, is showing signs of healthy vegetable production in the greenhouse located next to the Oneida Veteran's Office on Riverdale Drive.

Nelson and Pade, Inc.,

the aquaponics company the tribe is partnering with on the project, is a worldwide leader in aquaponics systems research and production.

"This Nelson and Pade system is state-of-the-art," Tony Kuchma, Wetland Project Manager for Oneida's Environmental Department, said. "They've been doing the research, engineer-

As the summer months finally arrive in Northeast Wisconsin, the tantalizing smell of brats and burgers cooking on grills can be found throughout the Oneida Reservation on nearly any given day of the week. At the Oneida Nation Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post 7784 that day of the week is Wednesday.

For the fourth year straight volunteers from the VFW are hosting their brat fry events each Wednesday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. from now until the last week in August. All of the proceeds raised during these events are used to assist area veterans in need.

Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic to offer youth clinic and veteran benefits

The inaugural Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic is proud to announce the addition of the Military and Veterans Pavilion presented by Oneida ESC Group. In addition to Active, Retired, and Reserve Military and Veterans gaining complimentary grounds admission during tournament week, there will be a hospitality structure at the 16th Green specifically for Military and Veterans plus one guest.

"We are proud to work with Oneida ESC Group and offer the Military and Veterans a private hospitality area in addition to complimentary admission to the tournament," said Kelly McAnally, Tournament Director. "This pavilion will offer great views of championship golf in addition to complimentary snacks and beverages to show our appreciation to these men and women who have served our country."

All Active, Retired, Reserve Military and Veterans must show a government-issued ID or provide some form of proof of service at Admissions to receive complimentary access to the event and the Military and Veterans Pavilion.

For non-military attendees, a variety of advance ticket sale options are still available through the tournament website including Single Day Grounds Tickets ($25), Weekly Grounds Tickets ($70), Single Day Clubhouse Tickets ($60), Weekly Clubhouse Tickets ($150.00). There will be an increase in ticket prices at the gate. Children 17 and under are admitted to the tournament free of charge when accompanied by a ticketed adult.

Junior Golf Clinic Offered

The Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic and Oneida Youth Leadership has partnered with the Wisconsin Public Service Foundation to host a Junior Golf Clinic on Saturday, July 8th from 1:00pm – 3:00pm. The Junior Clinic is open to 100 girls and boys of all skill levels, ages 6 to 17, and will be an afternoon of fun activities that includes swinging stations, putting stations, crafts, games and interaction with LPGA players.

"Wisconsin Public Service Foundation is proud to partner with Oneida Youth Leadership to sponsor the Junior Golf Clinic at the Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic this summer," said Karmen Lemke, Manager of Community Relations for Wisconsin Public Service. "We are excited to help young golfers throughout our area develop their skills in a sport people of all ages can enjoy." Registration for the Junior Golf Clinic is free; however parents or guardians will need a Single Day Grounds ticket for entry to the Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic.

"One of the truly incredible things about the LPGA Tour is the interaction that parents and children can have with the best golfers in the world," said McAnally. "Together with the Wisconsin Public Service Foundation, we are so excited to welcome families to the tournament and offer kids the opportunity to learn about the game of golf from the pros."

For more information about the Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic and to register for the Junior Golf Clinic, please visit www.thornberrycreeklpgaclassic.com.

Activist prepared to take pipeline protest case to trial

By Blake Nicholson

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP)

— An American Indian activist and former U.S. congressional candidate accused of inciting a riot during protests against the Dakota Access oil pipeline says he has no qualms about taking the case to trial, even though he could face more than five years in prison if convicted.

Chase Iron Eyes maintains his innocence and pleaded not guilty in March to the felony charge and also misdemeanor criminal trespass.

He is scheduled for a one-day trial on Feb. 8, 2018, in Mandan, just west of Bismarck.

Iron Eyes' attorney also represented Hollywood actress Shailene Woodley, who signed a plea deal earlier this year that kept her out of jail in another high-profile protest case. Unlike Woodley, Iron Eyes said, he still lives and works in the area where the protests occurred and has "a huge and sincere concern about the administration of justice."

"If it takes that we have to go to trial to achieve those goals, then that's a good thing," he said. "That's what our system of justice is designed to do."

Iron Eyes and 73 others were arrested on Feb. 1 after erecting teepees on land that authorities said is owned by pipeline developer Energy Transfer Partners. Protesters maintained they were peacefully assembling on land they believe rightfully belongs to American Indians.

Iron Eyes hasn't disputed his involvement, but he says he wasn't the leader of the effort and had no authority to stop it.

Prosecutors did not respond to requests for comment from The Associated Press. But authorities have alleged in statements and court documents that Iron Eyes helped lead a "rogue group" of "aggressive" protesters who set up the short-lived camp, and that he negotiated with law officers on behalf of the camp, "holding himself out as the new camp's leader."

Dave Archambault, chairman of the Standing Rock Sioux tribe, which led opposition to the pipeline, condemned the group's action at the time, saying it undermined legitimate protests.

The pipeline protests in southern North Dakota ended in February, after President Donald Trump's administration and the courts allowed construction on the $3.8 billion project to wrap up. The line went into service this month, transporting North Dakota oil 1,200 miles (1,930 kilometers) across South Dakota and Iowa to a distribution point in Illinois.

Iron Eyes, a member of the Standing Rock tribe, made an unsuccessful bid for North Dakota's lone U.S. House seat last year.

He said he considers himself a part of an informal "reconciliation process" that involves people from the reservation normalizing relations with people in the Bismarck-Mandan region, where protests often disrupted businesses, farmers and motorists.

"The pipeline brought out the ugliness on both sides. There was no shortage of that," he said. "We just need to take it slow and rebound. I wouldn't have run for Congress in North Dakota if I didn't have confidence in North Dakota, and in Standing Rock."

WI CASA Launches Recruitment Effort

(Green Bay, Wis.) Wisconsin CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates) has launched a statewide campaign to recruit more volunteers in order to help children in Wisconsin's foster care and child welfare system. "Every year, more than 6,400 children in Wisconsin find themselves in foster care or in the child welfare system, and less than 700 of them have an advocate," explained Sue Schwartz, Wisconsin CASA Executive Director. "No child should have to go it alone through the court system. The CASA advocate plays an incredibly important role by helping a child navigate through this uncertain time in their life, knowing that a trusted, adult volunteer is standing by their side. CASA wants to provide an advocate for every child, but we need help; we need volunteers."

That is why WICASA has launched a statewide, "I Am

For the Child" campaign, to draw awareness to the need and the program. "We welcome volunteers from all walks of life but, in particular, we need male volunteers, Native American volunteers and volunteers from rural areas," said Schwartz. "Our volunteers find out that by spending a little bit of time with a child, on a regular basis, they can make a huge difference in helping that child get through a difficult time. It is one of the most significant ways someone can make a positive difference in a child's future."

The awareness campaign includes a number of outreach efforts, including:

- A PSA by Green Bay Packers President and CEO, Mark Murphy (Murphy and his wife have served as foster parents and Murphy's father was a CASA volunteer)
- A focused social media campaign

- Speaking engagements
- Media outreach

"Volunteers are the life blood of our organization," Schwartz added. "Thousands of children have been able to find safe, permanent homes because they have a CASA advocate working in their best interest. We want to see the number of children helped by CASA volunteers continue to increase."

CASA volunteers are recruited, screened, trained and supervised by professional CASA staff and all work is performed under National CASA practice standards. Volunteers conduct weekly, face-to-face visits with their child (or children), making independent, objective observations about the child's safety and well-being, and communicate the child's wishes and situation to the court.

Latest Oneida Retail expansion underway

The Oneida Nation is acquiring the Grand Central Station property located on the corner of Pack-erland Drive and West Mason Street. A total of 18 new jobs are anticipated. The gas station will briefly close upon purchase to replace the aging underground storage tanks, pumps, and to rebrand the store as an Oneida owned gas station. The projected completion date of all the renovations is set for mid-September. Moving forward, Oneida Retail Enterprise will continue to examine the market for additional sources of revenue to contribute to the Nation's growing enterprises.

Food Program Offers FREE Meals throughout Summer Break

GREEN BAY, WI – Stressing the importance of offering nutritious meals to children during the summer months, the Green Bay Area Public School District announces the sponsorship of the Summer Food Service Program.

The Summer Food Service Program (SFSP), which is funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and is administered by the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, provides nutritious meals to children during the summer, when free and reduced-price school meals are typically unavailable. Free meals will be made available to children 18 years of age and under. Persons over 18 years of age who are determined by a state or local public educational agency to be mentally or physically disabled and who also participate in a public or private non-profit school program during the regular school year may receive free meals as well.

The following locations will be serving free meals this summer (refer to site list for locations and times below). Meals are provided to eligible children regardless of race, color, national origin, age, gender or disability and there will be no discrimination in the course of meal service.

“This program fills a void created when school lunches are not available,” said Lynette Zalec, Director of Food Services. “Helping parents meet the nutritional needs of their children is the strength of this program.”

The daily food service schedule for each park day beginning June 14 through August 18 (no July 4 and 2, August 1 meals), Monday through Friday, is as follows:

Medications ...What Else Works?

Those who have Alzheimer's disease or other dementia often take prescription medicines. Some folks notice a difference in their memory and cope better and some don't. There are other treatments you may want to try that aren't medical that may be helpful to aid memory and reduce stress. While nothing can reverse the course of Alzheimer's disease, quality of life can be improved so these ideas are worth trying.

Pets - Just being around an animal can be soothing and being able to cuddle, pet, feed, or watch a pet can provide relaxation and entertainment. This doesn't mean you run out and buy your parent or spouse a pet. Your family member is highly likely to be unable to care for it. But visits from pet owners or a visit to the Humane Society may be very enjoyable.

Spiritual activities - This may include prayer, going to a worship service, speaking with a spiritual leader, reading meaningful stories/passages aloud, looking at an old hymnal or songbook, etc. For many who had a religious up-bringing the rituals and traditions offer comfort and peace.

Music - Listening to familiar music is both enjoyable and comforting, especially the tunes from the good old days. Music can bring back memories and even engage a person who doesn't communicate much by singing the lyrics, smiling, or tapping a foot. Attending a concert may be enjoyable.

Art - Painting, drawing or coloring helps engage a person in conversation and can bring out their creativity even if they weren't artsy. You can have adult pictures to color or paint or blank pages to be creative. Visiting a favorite museum may also be an enjoyable activity. You can visit many times and see something new each time.

Storytelling - This activity can be led by a caregiver or companion. The idea is to look at a picture, a postcard, a magazine, or a calendar and ask open-ended questions about it to create a story. You can begin by stating, "Let's make up a story about this funny picture." "What do you suppose that little girl in the picture is thinking?" Avoid asking questions that feel like a test such as, "What's that?" There are no right or wrong answers.

Reminiscing - This is different from storytelling. Reminiscing is encouraging the use of long-term memory by telling stories about family and life experiences from younger days. The person with Alzheimer's can be proud to share family history and family members get to learn things they never knew.

Massage - Massage can help with muscle tension, anxiety, and better sleep. It can be done by a therapist or a family member. It is best to start with hands, foot, or back rubs and see if it is relaxing. Some people with Alzheimer's can be hypersensitive to touch and if that is the case, massage would not be recommended.

Aroma - Some scents can be very comforting and relaxing. Baking bread, chocolate chip cookies may bring back happy memories. Essential oils can be added to baths or placed in a diffuser to reduce anxiety, calm nerves or stimulate the mind. Lavender, peppermint and rosemary are good scents to try.

You may not be able to change the course of Alzheimer's or dementia but you might be able to influence quality, comfort, and care. Why not give these a try?

Community Health Services – Population Based Programming

By Carol Torres & Amber Webster

The Population-Based Programming team is located in the Community Health Nursing area within the Oneida Health Center and is one of the 4 Community Health Services departments. The others are: WIC/Nutrition, Health Promotion/Disease Prevention and Case Management Services.

Our Mission: To empower the Oneida community by providing quality programs & education which will protect, promote and improve health while respecting cultural values.

We have ten staff on our team and they include an Administrative Assistant, 2 Healthy Start Staff workers, the School Nurse for the Oneida Nation School Systems, the Head Start Nurse, 2 Community Health Nurses, the Prenatal Care Coordinator Nurse, a Maternal Child Health Care Aide, and a Nurse Supervisor.

We are a public health department with a wide range of programs that provide education to benefit the health & safety of community members from infancy to elders, some which include:

• Car Seats program -

We offer new car seats at reduced cost from Infant up to Booster to community members. Education is provided with hands on practice to install the seat.

• Communicable diseases – Our nurses provide education for prevention of Communicable diseases.

• Healthy Start – This program provides prenatal/maternal health education through an evidence-base curriculum, Family Spirit, tailored to meet cultural needs of the community. Healthy Start works with families before pregnancy offering family planning, screening for diseases, well-woman care, and insurance enrollment assistance. During pregnancy the program offers prenatal care, nutrition counseling, childbirth education, smoking cessation and partner involvement. After pregnancy, Healthy Start offers newborn screening, postpartum care and breastfeeding support, depression screening, well-baby care and vaccinations. Healthy Start is a free program that honors our community's children and families through nurturing support and educational services that promote maternal and early child health.

• Immunization Clinics - Held regularly by appointment for children & adults to protect against vaccine-preventable diseases. We also offer the Community Flu Clinics every year at the Oneida Nation Elementary School.

• Prenatal Care – Prenatal Care Coordination (PNCC) is a free program for pregnant women in need of support during and after pregnancy. Pregnant women receive help to gain access to medical, social, educational, vocational and other services related to their pregnancy. PNCC helps identify needs and goals, develop a care plan, provide health education, transportation to appointments and help connect with local resources. The overall goal of PNCC is to improve birth outcomes or increase the number of healthy babies by educating and supporting pregnant women who identify areas of need.

• Preparedness – We partner with Brown Co. Health & the City of De Pere to plan/prepare the community how to be safe in the event of a public health emergency or catastrophic event.

• School Nursing for Head Start and Oneida Nation School systems – Our nurses advocate Well Child Exams and provide screenings for vision & hearing as well and oversee dental screens. They monitor health issues & management. They also monitor immunization compliance and inform parents when their child is due. We also have team members who teach “Choosing the Best” curriculum to 6, 7, & 8 grades. CTB classes encourage abstinence as well as health and relationship education. Kids get incentives for reaching learning goals.

You can often find our staff at various community events where they either have planned the event or are participating and providing education & outreach.

If you or someone you know is interested in any of the listed programs please do not hesitate to call Community Health Services for more information. (920)869-4840. Also, watch for future crossword puzzles for a chance to win a free prize.

Oneida Business Committee

As I have put myself on a path to collect knowledge, I have only begun to learn about the relationship of all things to one another. Not just only in the natural world, but also in business, our government, and to each other. Once we begin to understand our relationship and our responsibility to everything around us, we will begin to have a greater respect for ourselves, each other, and our mother the earth

– Daniel Guzman-King,
OBC Candidate

“I am truly grateful for the love and support of my family throughout all of my endeavors and for their continued support in my run for elected office.”

Strengthening Our Nation's Sovereignty

Priorities

- Land – To reacquire our original land base.
- Water – To Protect our water resources.
- Food – To enhance our local food systems.
- Healthcare – To attain a sustainable healthcare system.
- Economy – To move toward economic self-sufficiency through diversification.
- Education – To ensure optimal educational opportunity for all eligible Oneida citizens.
- Language and Culture – To support and promote language and cultural revitalization.
- Youth and Elders – To strengthen the intergenerational relationship.

Tribal Governance

We possess the inherent right to govern ourselves and our lands. But with that inherent right comes great responsibility.

Effective tribal governance is our responsibility.

As an elected councilman, my primary duty is to promulgate the Tribe's laws, codes and ordinances.

- Constitutional Reform – An opportunity exists to create a culturally relevant governing document.
- Organizational Restructure – An effective restructure that will promote revenue generation and efficient delivery of services.

and studying of this system for about four decades. So, this system is truly the pinnacle of all of their hard work.”

The system is being implemented in Oneida to provide fresh, leafy greens to the Oneida School System and as their needs become more clearly defined the greenhouse will adjust their vegetable growing accordingly.

“Basically, this is a very elegant ecological system,” Kuchma said. “We have fish that we are raising for food. The fish are being fed and are producing nutrients in the form of their waste. That waste is then converted, using naturally occurring bacteria, from ammonia and nitrite into nitrate which is a form of nitrogen that the plants can use just as one does in a garden. Except in this case the plants are growing with their roots submerged right in the water and acting to clean that water up.

“So the water is cycled from the fish to a clarification tank where the nitrogen is converted,” Kuchma said. “The water is sent to the plants, they take up the nutrients, clean up the water, and the water is recycled back to the fish and the cycle repeats itself over and over again.”

Concerns about Styrofoam being used in the filtration process and causing health issues are unfounded. “This is not an accurate concern,” Kuchma said. “The material being used is called polystyrene which is the same material that food services and cafeterias use for hot and cold drinks, and it’s the same material the trays are made of when you buy meat from the grocery store.”

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulates polystyrene because of the very remote chance of the various food packaging getting into the food product itself. “When looking at just the polystyrene it has been proven time and time again over many years of research that it is food safe,” Kuchma said. “The reason it’s regulated is because of that remote chance that the food packaging may migrate and become part of that food product. We use polystyrene because it is absolutely certified as food safe.”

Rebecca Nelson, co-founder of Nelson and Pade, Inc., also firmly stands behind her company’s product safety. “Please be assured that food safety is of great concern to our customers and our company,” Nelson recently wrote in a statement. “The rafts are made of food-grade dense polystyrene and there is nothing toxic in them. The trays that hold meat or vegetables in the grocery stores are of the same ‘safe-for-food-contact’ certification. The risks of contamination that you find in field-grown produce are greatly reduced due to our methods, materials, bio-security proocols and standard operating procedures. Even the PVC pipe that we use is rated for potable water distribution.”

Now, with Oneida Nation’s Aquaponics system up and running, the tribe’s school system stands to benefit greatly from the freshly grown, clean vegetables being produced. “We will be producing between 10-15,000 heads of lettuce year-round,” Kuchma said. “We also have about 800 fish in here at various growth stages so we will also be harvesting Tilapia about every six months. We can also grow other foods like cucumbers and tomatoes but that’s well down the road. Right now we’re focusing on the leafy greens.”

through a gasification process. It was to generate power, which would have been sold to Wisconsin Public Service.

The plant received the CUP from the city in March of 2011. After growing disapproval and public pressure, the city rescinded the permit in October of 2012.

OSGC sued the city in November of 2012 after the permit was revoked and in January of 2013 Judge Hammer ruled that OSGC misrepresented plans for their waste to energy facility when obtaining the CUP from the city. OSGC filed their appeal two months later.

In March of 2014 a State

Appeals Court ruled the city improperly pulled the CUP after Brown County Circuit Court Judge Marc Hammer sided with the city. OSGC's plant was to be located at 1230 Hurlbut Street on the city's northwest side.

It is unclear what the next step is for the Oneida Nation and OSGC. The General Tribal Council (GTC) voted to dissolve OSGC in December of 2013. That process has yet to be completed.

The embattled tribally owned corporation had faced tumultuous times as it focused on a proposed waste-to-energy facility. The plant temporarily found homes in Hobart, Ashwaubenon, Green Bay, and Oneida before ultimately being shelved after the GTC voted it out of reservation boundaries.

OSGC fully owned and operated seven limited liability companies (LLC) and had partial ownership of five others. Between those 12 LLCs there were 15 properties under OSGC management.

Michigan weight lifter, 74, still sets world records

By Perry A. Farrell
Detroit Free Press

DETROIT (AP) — Ray Fournier was nearing retirement from the Detroit Public Schools, spending his last year at Detroit Osborn, and he wanted to stay healthy.

His dad, Alexander, retired at 65, got sick and a year later died of cancer. His mother, Lena, also retired at 65 and due to complications from diabetes, died when she was 72.

At 70, Fournier decided to take up weight lifting — and he was serious. Now 74, he's one of the best power lifters in his age group.

In early April, he set four world records at the 2017 Amateur Athletic Union North American Powerlifting Championships in Laughlin, Nevada. He managed 286 in the squat, 201 in the bench press and 419 in the deadlift for a total weight in the three categories of 906.

The Detroit Free Press (<http://on.freep.com/2qyIDtp>) reports that the Plymouth Township resident eclipsed the mark he had set a year earlier in Las Vegas. Last year, he set just three records.

“You reach 30 and people say you are over the hill. You reach 40 and you are way over the hill, and then things start to go. I started out at age 70 doing this and I've been going up ever since,” he said.

Fournier said he only he gets sore when he goes too many days without lifting.

His advice to people who want to stay healthy: Motivation.

“When I retired I made the commitment so it wouldn't be short-lived or I'd be sick. All people really have to do is stay active. It doesn't matter what you do, but stay active, watch your diet and don't be a couch potato.”

The retired teacher and former head of the American Indian program at Cornell University grew up on the Oneida Indian Nation's homeland in central New York. He now splits time between Michigan and Pigeon Forge, Tennessee.

“I was living in Tennessee at the time when I got started,” he said. “I was working out in a community center.

“I wasn't really interested in lifting at first. I thought I was too old. I dismissed it for a while, then I went online and looked some of the lifting organizations. I didn't want to get into anything that was drug related; no performance-enhancing drugs. I looked into it and I saw what the people at my level were doing and I said, ‘I could be competitive.’”

His first meet in Tennessee was a successful one in 2013.

“I won the event; it was the Tennessee State Championships,” he said. “That was the year I turned 70. That qualified me for the national championships in Orlando. I signed up for that, went down and won that. As a result of winning that competition I was eligible for the world championships.”

That event was in South Africa. His sponsor, the Oneida Indian Nation of New York, helped pay his expenses.

His success hasn't gone unnoticed.

“It has been good for the family, too,” said Renee Romeo, his daughter.

“He has been working out since I can remember. He has always had a consistent workout routine: just power lifting, but just being on a health kick. Always eating an apple a day.

“My grandparents never really focused on exercise or even eating well. He has been a great example for me, my husband. ... Working out consistently and watching what we eat. Honestly, we just had a high school reunion and everyone was talking about their parents. My husband's father is in a nursing home. He's only four years older than my father. He was saying, ‘What did I do wrong?’ He didn't do anything wrong. Maybe it's more of maybe what he didn't do right.”

Re-Elect Sherrole Benton for Oneida Land Commission

Oneida General Election on July 8, 2017

The land is important to our nation for many reasons, like sovereignty, a thriving economy, homes & neighborhoods, and preserving or restoring the natural environment.

The GTC approved of the plans to acquire more land for the reservation and for our people. I'm proud to be part of the team accomplishing that goal. I would be honored to continue this good work and strive to balance our needs for good land for homes, recreation, businesses and conservation.

"This is a big deal," Steve Reilly, one of several VFW volunteers, said. "These guys are out here volunteering week after week after week. These guys are like a Timex watch and they work very hard. They're here early in the mornings getting this stuff up and running and they do it because they care about their fellow vets."

Last year's brat fry events saw a record amount of funds raised. "Our weekly brat fry is our main source of revenue," Reilly said. "Last year we netted just under $10,000 for the season. It was a banner year for what we do and that money goes directly to veterans in distress and veteran's families in distress. And it isn't just for Oneida veterans. It's for veterans in general."

In addition to the weekly brat fry event the VFW volunteers also host a coffee drive and 50/50 raffles to assist their brothers and sisters in need. "We may not be able to help every individual or their family at 100 percent but we make every effort to do what we can," Gary Maddix, another VFW volunteer said. "We help with food, gas tickets, and try to find housing for them. We will do everything we can to help out fellow veterans without embarrassing them because, let's face it, as vets we have a lot of pride."

Weekly brat fry volunteer and VFW Post 7784 Life Member Charlie Thies is proud of the work his post does for veterans in need. "We try our best to help everybody that we can if we can," Thies said. "Our brothers and sisters are very important to us. This is what we do and what we stand for."

Thrivent Financial has been a key player in contributing to the success of these events. "I am a member of Thrivent and I found out they have this program," Reilly said. "So I submitted an application at the end of last year and was surprised to find out they were willing to donate $250 for these events, and then they informed me that they will be donating another $250 later this year. So, Thrivent Financial is a huge part of our success."

To help out area veterans in need and enjoy some delicious brats and burgers, visit the Oneida Nation VFW Post 7784 located at 2980 E. Service Road each Wednesday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. If you are interested in volunteering to assist the VFW during any of their area events, feel free to contact the post at (920) 869-7784.

Court fight over local restrictions on large-scale farms

BAYFIELD, Wis. (AP) -A northwestern Wisconsin county plans a court fight to defend a local ordinance that places more restrictions on large-scale farms to protect water quality.

Bayfield County passed an ordinance last year requiring concentrated animal-feeding operations near the South Fish Creek watershed to provide a minimum of 540 days of manure storage.

But the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources rejected the ordinance, and the county plans to argue its case against the state agency in court next month, Wisconsin Public Radio reported.

Iowa-based Reicks View Farms has proposed building a farm for about 26,000 hogs near South Fish Creek. The farm is expected to produce around 10 million gallons of manure every year.

The state attorney general's office said in court documents filed in the fall that the ordinance doesn't provide reductions for existing phosphorus sources.

In a response filed in May, Bayfield County Attorney Linda Coleman argued the department couldn't "rightfully argue that preventative regulations are unnecessary to achieve water quality" when the department also employs a proactive approach.

Oral arguments are scheduled for July 10 in Washburn.

Sheku community members!

The upcoming month is filled with excitement and anticipation of many prominent events in the Oneida Community. I am thankful and proud of the volunteers and organization wide community members who are dedicated to our collective efforts. The Oneida Nation is hosting the LPGA Classic at our premier Thornberry Creek at Oneida golf course. The annual Oneida Powwow is a great venue for tribal communities to show case our cultural values and the performance of champion dancers that incorporate inter tribal social festivities. In addition the Woodland Indian Art Market will provide great artisan activities including a juried art show. Father's Day is around the corner I hope that all our male relatives and family members are embraced and encouraged by your families. Happy Father's Day and may your loved ones enjoy your company and celebrate the gift of family.

Most recently I was invited to attend a grant making meeting hosted by the Shakopee Mde-wakanton Sioux Community (SMSC). This gathering was hosted by Native American Rights Fund (NARF), First Nations Development Community and SMSC. The gathering included a tour of the SMSC enterprises and community projects. The meeting gave participants the opportunity to engage in the collective power of investing in Native community, raising awareness of philanthropic contributions of Native communities and advancing the movement of investing in Native communities. As tribal resources become limited and the federal commitments are being diminished; we as leaders need to recommit and reevaluate our ability to maintain our infrastructure both politically and financially while still engaging our collective values.

An invitation has been extended to discuss the Associated Bank's Cultural Awareness Network (CAN). Ms. Toleka Melchert, Branch Manager at the Green Bay office recently visited my office. Their goal is to build relations and promote cultural diversity through education and training. The CAN initiative includes an annual cultural event that is hosted by Associated Bank. They are interested in developing a program to increase Native American values and more specifically Oneida. The meeting provided an opportunity to share resources and broaden our mutual interests to collaborate going forward. I am also proud to say that Ms Melchert is an Oneida individual who has made her way and progressed through the Associated Bank's corporation.

In an E-poll on 6/7/17 of the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) there was a majority support to cancel the 6/20/17 GTC meeting. I did not support this action and did not agree that it was "good financial sense", a GTC "deferral pattern" and due to cost or "fiscally responsible". In my view there was not sufficient nor a justifiable reason to cancel the 6/20/17 meeting. A substantial amount of planning by administrative staff and the petitioner went into this GTC meeting regarding health center issues. The main objective of the OBC is to follow through with GTC directives especially when a time frame of 120 days is given.

Based on principal, respect for GTC and as my duty as the Oneida Nation Chairwoman I could not support this E-poll request.

In general I do not support E-Polls (electronic polling through an email) because they are not transparent and are over utilized. When an E-poll is conducted only the OBC and staff are privy to the information. There is an SOP for E-polls but they are to be for time sensitive issues that can't wait for the next BC agenda.

This OBC administration has probably conducted more E-polls than any other administrations. I am anticipating using my authority as Chairwoman to address these matters. It will be subject to a few technical and administrative logistics to call the meeting. Meanwhile, I am hopeful this matter will be resolved sooner than later and will seek the support of everyone involved.

In closing there are many positive aspects to our community, our Nation's viability, our Oneida family values and business ventures to be reminded of. As we go forward it is my heartfelt thought and appreciation for our Elders, our past leadership and the forethought of the GTC. May the creator continue to bless us!

Class of 2017

I want to congratulate the latest members of our community who have attained their high school diploma and welcome them into our workforce or continuing education as they pursue further education initiatives. These members should be proud of all they have accomplished during these past four years and the many honors that have been bestowed upon each and every one.

For those continuing to further their education, I wish you the best as you take on more and exciting fields of furthering your knowledge in whatever degree program you aspire to continue in.

For those who are not inclined to further their education at this time, the world is ready for you to join the ranks of the employed and remember your work ethic as you find employment in the local area or if you choose to venture away from Oneida.

I want to thank all the parents and grandparents who have worked long and hard putting in many hours to help your children attain this momentous occasion and know that your dedication to getting them out of bed; pushing them out the door; making sure they catch the bus or driving them to school each day when they miss the bus; giving them lunch money or making sure they have packed their lunch to help them through the day; attended the many school functions such as concerts, plays, PTA meetings, football practice, soccer practice, lacrosse practice, dance recitals or whatever else needed your attention; and everything else that goes into taking a young child getting ready to enter the world of adulthood. You as parents should be proud of your accomplishment as well as your graduate.

Oneida One Stop

This past April saw the Retail Division acquire a new location to place another Oneida One Stop in the prime retail corridor of West Mason Street and Packerland Drive. Some renovations are needed, but in the near future this establishment will open for operations and will be another diversification of our economic growth in the community.

Thornberry Creek

The Thornberry Creek Golf Course at Oneida will be hosting the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) tournament from July 3-9. This is an inaugural event for the LPGA and we are expecting a great turnout for this event. Volunteers are still needed to help with some of the logistics for this event and you can register for some of the many needed positions at www.thornberrycreeklpgaclassic.com.

Travel to Washington DC

In late April I had the opportunity to attend the Wisconsin Republican Night event with several of our elected leaders including Mike Gallagher, Paul Ryan and Ron Johnson. I had several discussions with these leaders as well as with state representatives from Wisconsin on increasing funding to the Oneida Nation and the need to look at self-governance funding as well as the Oneida-UWGB budget funding issue.

GTC Meeting

On Wednesday June 7th the Oneida Business Committee decided to cancel the General Tribal Council meeting scheduled for June 20th, both for fiscal as well as end of term reasons.

During the past two GTC meetings it seems the membership is not quite happy with some of the decisions the current Oneida Business Committee has made in terms of passing new legislation as well as revising some of the old laws we have on the books. Motions have been made in both April and May to table GTC agenda items till after the elections in July so that the new OBC can take up these matters. In the May meeting a motion was made shortly after the meeting started and the meeting was adjourned just 15 minutes after it was called to order. In light of this possibly happening again on June 20th, the Business Committee, as well as myself, thought it would be in the best interest to cancel the meeting and reschedule it after the July elections and the new BC has a chance to review the information to be presented. I know this may not sit well with some of the membership, but in the interest of being fiscally responsible as these meetings cost approximately $250,000, it needed to be done so as not to expend tribal funds for another meeting of 15 minutes or less.

Oneida Pow Wow

The 45th Annual Oneida Pow Wow is scheduled for June 30th to July 2nd behind the Norbert Hill Center.

Again I want to thank you, the general membership, for taking the time to read these articles and as always I am available to meet with you, should you so desire. I can be reached at 920-869-4482 or you can e-mail me at djordan1@oneidanation.org.

Jana Kramer to kick off Country Fest 2017

Listen up, Fox Valley country music fans: This summer's Country Fest in Freedom will be fueled by female recording artist, actress, and songwriter Jana Kramer. The "I Got the Boy" and "Why Ya Wanna" singer will take the Country Fest stage Saturday, July 22, at the St. Nicholas Church grounds, W2035 Hwy S, Freedom.

Kramer was named 2012 Best New Female Artist by the Academy of Country Music. She is also known for her role on One Tree Hill and for making it to the finals of the 2016 Dancing with the Stars season.

Opening for Kramer are Hurry Up Wait at 5 p.m. and Zach Linley and the Rebel Daredevils at 7:30 p.m. Gates open at 4 p.m.

Concert tickets are on sale now for $40 each, VIP reserved; $25 each, general admission (plus convenience and other fees) at www.stnicholascountryfest.com. Tickets can be purchased at the gate the night of the concert for $60 each, VIP reserved; $40 each, general admission.

Ticket buyers can save by purchasing tickets in advance with no additional fees at the following locations: St. Nicholas Parish Office, Freedom Foods, Capital Credit Union (Freedom location only), and at all area East Wisconsin Bank locations. Both VIP reserved and general admission tickets are available at the St. Nicholas Parish Office; the other locations listed have general admission tickets only.

Looking for affordable, family-friendly fun?

Sunday, July 23, is family day at Country Fest. Admission is free.

An outdoor polka mass with the band Sugar Bush Boys starts off family day at 10:30 a.m. After mass, children's games, an interactive petting zoo, and wagon rides will keep the kiddos entertained. Hungry Country Fest-goers can enjoy hamburgers, chicken tenders, hot dogs, and more.

Family day will also feature performances by the Freedom High School Band and the St. Nicholas Praise and Worship group. Children's raffles and silent auction items are sure to have something for everyone. Plus, the live auction will include crafts, handcrafted woodwork, and more.

For more information about the event, including sponsorship opportunities, go to www.stnicholascountryfest.com.

Downsizing Utah monument pleases Republicans while angering tribes

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke's recommendation to downsize the new Bears Ears National Monument in Utah was applauded by the state's top Republican leaders but marked a stinging setback for a coalition of Western tribes that pushed for protection of lands they consider sacred.

Zinke, a former Republican congressman from Montana, said Monday he's committed to make sure Native American culture is preserved and vowed to push for Congress to approve legislation granting tribes legal authority to "co-manage" some of the Bears Ears site.

The scenic swath of southern Utah with red rock plateaus, cliffs and canyons is on land considered sacred to a coalition of tribes and is home to an estimated 100,000 archaeological sites. But President Donald Trump and other Republicans are critical of former President Barack Obama's late-term creation of the 1.3 million-acre Bears Ears National Monument. They say it's an unnecessary layer of federal control that hurts local economies by closing the area to new energy development. They also say it isn't the best way to protect the land.

Zinke said he discussed the idea with the tribes and that they came away happy with the plan. "I have enormous respect for tribes," Zinke said. "This is working hand-to-hand with the tribes as I said I would do."

Several tribal leaders balked at that characterization, saying they weren't briefed on the plan and consider the idea to be an attempt to temper their criticism. They joined environmental groups in vowing to file lawsuits if Trump accepts the recommendation and shrinks the monument.

"This was really just a cynical effort to distract Indian country from the devastating blow of reducing the size of the monument," Natalie Landreth, an attorney at the Native American Rights Fund. "Bears Ears is not for sale. It's not up for trade."

Ethel Branch, Navajo Nation attorney general, said the lands within Bears Ears are essentially holy lands that hold critical plants, minerals and powers that members of many tribes rely on to heal and strengthen themselves.

"Protection of these lands are non-negotiable," Branch said.

Trump signed an executive order in April directing Zinke to review the designation of 27 national monuments on federal lands, calling the protection efforts "a massive federal land grab" by previous administrations.

Zinke made the Bears Ears recommendation as part of an interim report to Trump. He said he will issue a final report in late August, when he is due to make recommendations on Bears Ears and 21 other national monuments on federal land in 11 states, including Grand Staircase-Escalante in Utah, Giant Sequoia in California, Nevada's Basin and Range and Katahdin Woods and Waters in Maine.

The review also targets five marine monuments in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Zinke toured Bears Ears last month on foot, horseback and helicopter and met with Utah Gov. Gary Herbert and other state leaders who opposed Obama's December designation of Bears Ears monument.

"There is no doubt that it is drop-dead gorgeous country and that it merits some degree of protection, but designating a monument ... where multiple-use management is hindered or prohibited is not the best use of the land," Zinke said.

Zinke did not specify how much of the 1.3 million acres should be trimmed.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, called Zinke's announcement "an unquestionable victory for Utah."

Noting the contentious nature of the monument designation, Zinke called on Congress to approve a land-management bill for Bears Ears and other federal lands. The Republican-controlled Congress has failed to approve a significant public lands bill in recent years, but Zinke said that was because of veto threats by Obama.

Utah rancher Zeb Dalton was among monument critics who wanted Zinke to recommend rescinding the entire monument. He and other cattle ranchers fear that their grazing rights will be impacted even though the government had said the monument designation will allow grazing to continue.

Dalton said he'll await the new boundaries to find out how much of his land is included.

"Everybody says it needs to be protected; it's already protected," said Dalton, while adding. "I guess reducing the size is better than nothing."

Oneida Business Committee Candidates

Editor's note: Jennifer Webster's article for the June 1, 2017 OBC Council Candidate Forum was submitted on time for the last issue, but unfortunately it was missed. The Kalihwisaks staff apologizes for the omission.

Sagoli & Greetings,

I am a candidate for Oneida Business Committee "Council Member" and would greatly appreciate your support. I will have completed my first term on council and am excited for the future of our great Nation. I have been employed with the Nation for over 30 years, this includes Bingo, Gaming Accounting, Business Committee staff and Finance/Purchasing/Travel. I bring extensive knowledge of the structure, processes & practices of the Oneida Nation. I was elected to three terms on the Oneida Appeals Commission. Currently, I serve on Legislative Operating Committee, Vice-Chair of Audit Committee, Finance Committee, and Community Development Planning Committee. I bring Leadership, Management, Communications, and Business skills. I own a business with my husband "Web's Kustom Touch Auto Body" of 16 years. My education includes UW-Oshkosh Small Business Management & Marketing Certification Program and Omega Travel Agent

Jennifer Webster

Series. A lifelong resident of Oneida,

I'm married to Don Webster for 27 years, 3 grown children, 1 daughter in law, 2 grandchildren and joyfully awaiting a third grandchild. My parents are Gordon & Betty McLester, Grandparents; Pearl McLester and the late Lee McLester, and the late Ted & Mamie Benson. I am a responsible and productive member of our community and believe our language and strong culture base is what define us as a Sovereign Nation. I believe in Fiscal responsibility and Accountable spending. I believe in creating stronger laws to help build a stronger Government that increases our sovereignty as a Nation. With my personal and professional dedication, determination and knowledge, I humbly ask for your vote. I am committed to this community, committed to Public Trust and I would be honored to have your vote for "Council Member" on July 8.

$3.8 billion Dakota Access oil pipeline begins service

By Blake Nicholson
Associated Press

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — The $3.8 billion Dakota Access pipeline began shipping oil for customers on Thursday, as Native American tribes that opposed the project vowed to continue fighting.

Dallas-based Energy Transfer Partners announced that the 1,200-mile line carrying North Dakota oil through South Dakota and Iowa to a distribution point in Illinois had begun commercial service. The Dakota Access pipeline and the Energy Transfer Crude Oil Pipeline from Illinois to the Gulf Coast together make up the $4.8 billion Bakken Pipeline system, which ETP said has commitments for about 520,000 barrels of oil daily.

“The pipeline will transport light, sweet crude oil from North Dakota to major refining markets in a more direct, cost-effective, safer and more environmentally responsible manner than other modes of transportation, including rail or truck,” the company said in a statement.

Four Sioux tribes in the Dakotas are still fighting in federal court in Washington, D.C., hoping to persuade a judge to shut down the line. Tribes and environmental groups fear it might pollute water sources. More than half a year of protests in North Dakota resulted in 761 arrests before President Donald Trump’s administration and the courts allowed the pipeline to be completed earlier this year.

“Now that the Dakota Access pipeline is fully operational, we find it more urgent than ever that the courts and administration address the risks posed to the drinking water of millions of American citizens,” Standing Rock Sioux Chairman Dave Archambault said in a statement. “This pipeline became operational today, yet it has already leaked at least three times.”

The leaks came as the line was being prepared for service. The Dakota Access pipeline and a feeder line leaked more than 100 gallons of oil in western North Dakota in separate incidents in March, and the Dakota Access line leaked 84 gallons of oil in northern South Dakota in April. No waterways were affected.

Demand for skilled construction workers rising in Wisconsin

Ashland, WI (AP) —The construction industry is struggling to find skilled workers as home construction is rising in Wisconsin.

Wisconsin Public Radio (<http://bit.ly/2sjrmDH>) reports that the Wisconsin Indianhead Technical College in Ashland has teamed up with the Northwest Wisconsin Workforce Investment Board to offer a new construction training course to meet the demand.

Almost 30 students are on track to receive a short-term technical diploma through the nine-credit course. The credits can also be applied to a technical degree if students continue their education.

Eric Lockwood, project manager of continuing education with the college, says the course has been offered to students at the Clayton School District, WITC-Ashland and Lac Courte Oreilles Community College.

“It focuses on construction framing where they learn about safety ... using power tools, building materials, plans, codes, building layout — things like that,” he said.

Andrea Huggenvik, sector and strategies coordinator with the Northwest Wisconsin Workforce Investment Board, said they teamed up with WITC to offer the course because the area is slated to a 17 percent increase in construction workers over the next seven years. The Chequamegon Bay region had 1,148 construction laborers in 2014, which is expected to grow to 1,346 by 2024, according to the workforce board.

Vote David “Fleet” JORDAN on July 8, 2017

Shekoli, My name is David “Fleet” Jordan and I am a candidate for the Oneida Business Committee. My parents are Doyle and Grace Jordan and my wife is Alice Jordan. For the past 17 years, I have owned and managed a successful small business here in Oneida where I have lived my entire life. From 2011 to the present, I loyally served as your council member. I wish to continue to serve you, the Oneida people.

My achievements while in office include:

- Working to pass multiple laws while on the Legislative Operating Committee (LOC), including Per Capita Law Amendments, Community Support Fund Amendments, and assisted in drafting the Budget Management Control Act.
- Currently serve as a member of the Audit Committee. Assisted with the implementation of Nation wide Performance Assurance Audits to ensure departments have the tools they need in order to be successful;
- Currently serving as liaison to the Personnel Commission;
- Assisting with the completion of the Oneida Lake Project;
- Supported conversion of the old HRD building to house the new Judiciary;
- Worked to create the Comprehensive Housing Division;
- Repealed the Oneida Sole Source Policy to save the Tribe millions;
- Attended all Business Committee and GTC meetings, except those which I was on medical leave, business-related travel, or on scheduled personal time off;
- Sponsored the FY 2017 pay increase change from 3% to $40 across the board along with the new Per Capita Plan;
- Worked to pay down tribal debt;
- Supported the creation of Elder specific housing.

As your candidate for the Oneida Business Committee I promise to:

- Work towards implementing Tribe-wide department staffing models to reduce redundancy;
- Enforce/promote Indian Preference and require a competitive bidding process;
- To continue to support our Elders, youth, and everyone when it is fair and equitable for all tribal members;
- Promote fair and equitable housing initiatives, including emergency housing and the possibility of researching a partnership with a local homeless shelter. I feel those members who want housing should be afforded the opportunity to rent from the Nation.

Oneida Tribal Members,

Please feel free to contact me with any questions you may have by phone at 920-362-0271 or by email at gaslight2@new.rr.com

I look forward to speaking with you.

Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic Announces Two Additional Sponsor Exemptions

European Star Carly Booth, Wisconsin Native Casey Danielson join Selanee Henderson as invitees to inaugural tournament

Oneida Reservation WI – Tournament officials today announced that Ladies European Tour player Carly Booth and Wisconsin-native Casey Danielson have received the final two sponsor exemptions for the Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic. Danielson will be making her professional debut in Green Bay following a stellar collegiate career at Stanford.

The inaugural $2 million Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic will be played July 3 to 9, 2017 at Thornberry Creek at Oneida. Booth and Danielson join Symetra Tour player Selanee Henderson as exemptions.

"We are delighted to provide this opportunity for Carly and Casey, and to allow Casey to make her professional debut in her native Wisconsin," said Kelly McAnally, Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic tournament director. "Both of them have proven themselves as elite players and great ambassadors for women's golf, and we look forward to welcoming them next month at our tournament." Booth, a native of Scotland, is a two-time winner on the Ladies European Tour. She will also play the 2017 U.S. Women's Open, held the week following the Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic, after qualifying last month.

"I am really happy to accept an invitation to this new prestigious event," said Booth. "I cannot wait to get across to Wisconsin and play in front of the Green Bay crowds. A week before the US Open too; absolutely perfect preparation."

Danielson, a native of Osceola, Wisconsin, will make her professional debut at the Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic. Like Booth, she has also qualified to play the U.S. Women's Open.

At Stanford, Danielson was team captain and a member of the 2015 NCAA Champion team. She also received the Dinah Shore Trophy, recognizing the most well-rounded female college golfer in the country.

"My roots are deep in the state of Wisconsin," said Danielson, a four-time Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) Champion (2009-2012). "I grew up swinging a golf club in my backyard, sometimes even in the snow. Playing in the Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic in Wisconsin is an exciting way to launch my professional career. I look forward to the opportunity to tee it up and help grow the game in my home state."

"We couldn't be more excited to have a great representation in Carly, Casey and Selanee," said Josh Doxtator, COO for the Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation. "All have the skillsets to win and we look forward to cheering them on throughout the event. Having representation Tribally, statewide and internationally was important; we achieved just that."

A variety of advance ticket sale options are still available through the tournament website including Single Day Grounds Tickets ($25), Weekly Grounds Tickets ($70.00), Single Day Clubhouse Tickets ($60), Weekly Clubhouse Tickets ($150.00) and Tickets for The Deck at 17 Green where ticketholders are rewarded with discounted beers and brats when an LPGA player makes a birdie on the par 3, 17th hole. There will be an increase in ticket prices at the gate. Children 17 and under are admitted to the tournament free of charge when accompanied by a ticketed adult.

For more information about the Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic and to volunteer or buy tickets, please visit www.thornberrycreeklpgaclassic.com.

I believe our Nation needs a major overhaul. We need mature, professional, responsible, respectful and courteous governmental officials that will represent the best interests of our Oneida people at every age.

We need leaders that will be open, honest, and forthright with all information relevant to the day-to-day operations of the tribe and all other aspects that relate to our tribal resources. We need leaders that know how to communicate effectively and in a timely manner, not after the fact. We need leaders that are going to include everyone in the decision making processes upfront, not after the fact or not at all.

I know what it is like to not have the things I need and/or my family needs to survive from day to day, so I can understand and can relate to the hardships our people experience.

I do not like the way the past and current government officials create and impose laws onto our people that are not in the best interest of our people. Their actions actually strip us of our rights and authority. I would strive to create standards, rules and laws that protect our existing rights and amend existing laws to re-establish our rights, power and authority as General Tribal Council, the supreme governing body of the Oneida Nation. I will ensure that poor, less fortunate, elders and disabled tribal members are acknowledged and respected at all times. I will tell you the truth about our tribal dollars and tribal resources. I will also work hard to ensure information is brought to your attention in a clear, concise and timely manner.

I would like an opportunity to use my knowledge, skills, education and experience to better the lives of all of our people, to improve the quality of life for everyone, not just a select few.

I respectfully ask for your support at the polls on Saturday, July 8, 2017

Excavations in Wisconsin reveal Mississippians' artifacts and history

TREMPEALEAU, Wis. (AP) - Danielle Benden has been uncovering artifacts in the Trempealeau area for the past decade, but the thrill of the find never gets old. "It's still equally as exciting now," said Benden, archaeologist and co-owner of Driftless Pathways with husband and fellow archaeologist Robert "Ernie" Boszhardt. "Digging up something in the dirt that hasn't been touched in 1,000 years ... it's an amazing feeling."

It's an experience Benden has shared with many over the course of the Trempealeau Archaeology Project, a community-wide quest to uncover the history of the Mississippians, a group of 100 to 200 people who left the city of Cahokia, a 2,200-acre tract near what is now St. Louis and paddled 500 miles up the Mississippi River to the "Mountain Whose Foot is Bathed in Water," the La Crosse Tribune reported. Benden and Boszhardt, both formerly with the Mississippi Valley Archaeology Center, recently developed the Trempealeau Interpretive Path: TRIP initiative to share the wealth of discoveries.

TRIP includes curriculum resources, with activities and breakdowns of their findings, and a three-part exhibit. An artifact display at the Shirley M. Wright Memorial Library includes historical illustrations and artifacts collected during both the group digs and by local individuals.

Early records of the mounds were composed by surveyor T.H. Lewis in the 1880s, and Benden, Boszhardt, UW-Madison students and dozens of locals ranging in age from 7 to 70 have continued to uncover the symbolic platform mounds, the base for religious temples, as well as excavate the village below, digging in yards for artifacts and remnants.

When the Mississippians, known for their building skills and corn farming, arrived, they brought their culture with them, including their bright red pottery, stone tools and religious practices. The parameters of their religion are unknown, but is believed to involve sun worship, as the mounds are aligned to the cycles of the sun and moon.

"Your world would end if that fire goes out," Boszhardt said. "You don't want that eternal flame to blow out."

The flame could be seen by the commoners residing below the bluff, as the vegetation was sparse at the time, the lack of trees offering a 270 degree view of the Mississippi.

Artifacts and carbon dating indicate the Mississippians only stayed in the area for half a century, later settling in Aztalan in southeast Wisconsin.

While the reason for their departure is unknown, it is not believed to be caused by conflict, as the lack of walls and barriers indicate they lived peacefully with the neighboring locals.

"The community plan is much bigger than we thought," Benden explained. "We want to try to put boundaries on it. Every year we continue to to excavate. It's science _ we're extrapolating and compounding on what we know."

Benden and Boszhardt will lead their next excavation this summer, unearthing the lawns of modern day residents for traces of dwellings long ago.

"The Driftless area is a special place to live now _ it has been for 1,000 years," Benden said. "There's something about knowing where you come from. Perhaps these findings can help people connect and feel ownership over the place they live, and a provide as sense of stewardship over the land. These are places definitely worth preserving."

ENDORSEMENT from Childhood

Once upon a time, over fifty years ago, two Oneida kids were on the same school bus: Cletus Ninham was a track star and wore his West De Pere Letter jacket, and Yvonne Metivier wore her uniform for the girl's school. Later, Cletus fought in the Vietnam War and was a hero for our country and our tribe.

By Yvonne Metivier, Candidate for OBC

Yvonne has worked for the past 20 years as a busy tribal member participating in the Tribe's government and has served as a volunteer advisor to past Chair, Ed Delgado. The one thing that I know about Yvonne is that a tribal member goes to her for help, she will stand up for you, and she has the courage to stand up for our Tribe. Yvonne Metivier has my endorsement for the Oneida Business Committee.

Mexico Mishap

I am an elder Oneida Tribal member. I have much to be thankful for due to the assistance I recently received from Oneida Contract Health aka Purchased Referred Care, especially Rhonda Cadotte.

I was injured in Mexico, admitted to a hospital and required surgery there. I broke my hip at a resort in Mexico on April 5th but didn't have surgery for it until April 11 because the hospital said they needed insurance confirmation first. This happened on a Friday night and due to the language barrier (the hospital had no interpreter) and the weekend, it was hopelessly difficult to coordinate the required insurance information between Mexico and the USA.

Then my granddaughter, who was with me, contacted Rhonda Cadotte of Oneida Contract Health and things finally began to move forward. After my surgery in Mexico, I was flown back home and had to have more surgery here.

If not for Rhonda's diligent efforts, I would have remained in Mexico, in their hospital, with an even longer delayed surgery.

I am now rehabbing at Anna John Resident Care Center and hope to be going home soon.

Again, all my gratitude to Rhonda and kudos to Contract Health for their efforts on my behalf and the Oneida community at large.

Charlene Smith

OEB troubles

I am writing to let the membership know that I submitted a Candidate's Application to run for the Oneida Business Committee Vice-Chairman position. I submitted my application in a timely manner, which was by 4:30 PM on Friday, March 31, 2017. I also submitted an application for the Trust & Enrollment Committee position. The Election Board called me on Monday, April 3, 2017, and left a message on my daughter-in-laws voicemail telling me that candidates for the any Oneida Business Committee could not run for any other elected position, and asked me to contact them by Thursday, April 6, 2017 at 4:30 PM to choose one position. I tried numerous times to reach the Election Board, but the phone rang and rang and I was never talked to anyone on the Election Board. In the midst of this, I experienced an unforeseen and extenuating medical circumstance that caused me to be admitted into the hospital on Tuesday, April 4, 2017. I was not allowed to be discharged from the hospital until the afternoon on Thursday, April 6, 2017. I was given medication while I was in the hospital and also sent home on and with medication. I felt weak, exhausted and felt drained from the whole ordeal, but I still tried to reach the Oneida Election Board while this was going on. I could not get through to anyone. I am now appealing at the Oneida Judiciary. I have not received any response from the Judiciary.

Cathy L. Metoxen

Put Metoxen on Ballot

I am writing to express my concern regarding the Oneida Election Board's decision to remove Cathy L. Metoxen's name from the Election Ballot. The decision is clearly biased, arbitrary, and capricious as there are no written rules that govern the process they imposed; they failed to take into consideration Ms. Metoxen's unforeseen and extenuating medical circumstance during the timeframe in which they demanded a response; and two of four Appeal Hearing Officers are direct conflicts of interest due to them both having a history of harassing and bullying, Ms. Metoxen. Ms. Metoxen proved her hospitalization via the presentation of her hospital paperwork during the appeal hearing conducted by Election Board Members Racquel Hill, Gina Powless- Buerostro, Candace Jordan-House and Sunshine Wheelock. In this instance, the Election Board heard and decided a decision made by the Election Board and upheld their own decision. This is a total conflict of interest and violates Ms. Metoxen's due process rights. Ms. Metoxen had no choice but to appeal to the Oneida Judiciary. The matter has been sitting at the Judiciary awaiting an Initial Review. Meanwhile, these delays strip Ms. Metoxen of a fair and equal opportunity to present herself to Oneida Voters for their consideration because the Kalihwisaks has refused to include her campaign information. The Judiciary's failure to handle the matter in the required expeditious manner continues to cause irreparable harm to Ms. Metoxen as each day passes. This is not fair or just. It actually looks like election tampering.

PUBLIC MEETINGS

TO BE HELD

MONDAY, JUNE 29, 2017 at 12:15 p.m. in the OBC CONFERENCE ROOM
(2nd FLOOR—NORBERT HILL CENTER)

In accordance with the Legislative Procedures Act, the Legislative Operating Committee is hosting these Public Meetings to gather feedback from the community regarding the following legislative proposals:

ADMINISTRATIVE RULEMAKING AMENDMENTS

This is a proposal to amend the Administrative Rulemaking Law which would:

- ◆ Clarify that a rule developed pursuant to this law shall not conflict or supercede a law, policy, or rule of the Nation or a resolution passed by the Oneida Business Committee or Oneida General Tribal Council [see 106-4-1(b)].
- ◆ Provide that if the authorized agency provides a service to a defined base of customers or individuals the authorized agency may make reasonable efforts to provide additional notice of the public meeting to that base of customers or individuals that may be substantially affected by the proposed rule [see 106.6-2(a)].
- ◆ Require additional public meetings to occur if substantial changes are made to the proposed rule after a public meeting [106.6-6].
- ◆ Clarify what requirements the Legislative Operating Committee must ensure are met before certification of the proposed rule [see 106.7-2].
- ◆ Provide that after certification by the Legislative Operating Committee, the proposed rule must be adopted by the Oneida Business Committee before it may become effective [see 106.8 and 106.9].
- ◆ Require an authorized agency to conduct a review of each adopted rule every two (2) years after the rule is adopted [see 106.12].

NEW LAW: CHILD CARE DEPARTMENT CONSUMER COMPLAINT LAW

This is a proposal to create a new Child Care Department Consumer Complaint law which would:

- ◆ Describe the process for filing a complaint against the Oneida Child Care Department [see 902.4].
- ◆ Provide for a complaint coordinator to receive and handle all complaints alleged against the Oneida Child Care Department [see 902.5], and describe the complaint coordinator's responsibilities [see 902.6].
- ◆ Provide guidelines for how the severity of a complaint and who will investigate the complaint will be determined [see 902.8].
- ◆ Provide a process by which complaints will be investigated [see 902.9 and 902.10].
- ◆ Allow for investigation results to be appealed [see 902.11].
- ◆ Describes how video surveillance footage will be maintained [see 902.12].
- ◆ Provide requirements for employee reporting [see 902.13], reporting to the Oneida Business Committee [see 902.14], enforcement [see 902.16], and the development of a Parent-Teacher Organization [see 902.15].

COMPREHENSIVE POLICY GOVERNING BOARDS, COMMITTEES AND COMMISSIONS AMENDMENTS

This is a proposal to amend an existing Tribal law which would update various requirements for the Nation's boards, committees and commissions, including:

- ◆ The appointment process
- ◆ The requirements for what must be contained in each entity's by-laws
- ◆ Adding new language to address what happens when a person is elected or appointed to an entity but then fails to meet the qualifications required for members
- ◆ Adding a detailed process for reporting to GTC
- ◆ Updating requirements related to posting for vacant positions
- ◆ Removing language that overlaps with requirements already found in the Code of Ethics and Conflict of Interest Policy.

NEW LAW: GENERAL TRIBAL COUNCIL MEETINGS

This is a proposal for a new Tribal law which would:

- ◆ Create a schedule for GTC meeting dates [see 118.4].
- ◆ Outline the petition process [118.5].
- ◆ Set a general agenda for GTC meetings [see 118.8].
- ◆ Set standards of conduct for attending GTC meetings [see 118.9].
- ◆ Outline the duties of those preparing and assisting with GTC Meetings [see 118.9].

PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD OPEN THROUGH FRIDAY, JULY 7, 2017

During the Public Comment Period, all interested persons may submit written comments and/or a transcript of any testimony/spoken comments made during these Public Meetings. Written comments may be submitted to the Tribal Secretary's Office or to the Legislative Reference Office in person (2nd floor, Norbert Hill Center) or by U.S. mail, interoffice mail, e-mail or fax.

To obtain copies of the Public Meeting documents for these proposals or to learn about the LOC public meeting process, please visit the Oneida Register online or contact the Legislative Reference Office.

Fewer Weeds, but More Algae at Osnúhsa? Lake

By Melis Arik
Water Resource
Specialist

Anglers and others enjoying Osnúhsa? Lake this spring may have noticed a reduction in nuisance plant growth compared to recent years.

In April, the Water Resources team hired a contractor to tackle the curly-leaf pondweed problem. Curly-leaf pondweed (CLP) is an invasive aquatic plant that tends to crowd out most other plants and to obstruct fishing and recreation until July, when it begins to die back. Future treatments should get this invasive plant under control and support the growth of beneficial native plants such as pond lilies.

An aerial view of Osnúhsa? Lake shows the non-toxic algae bloom.

Unfortunately, this year we are challenged by unsightly mats of filamentous algae floating around the shoreline and possibly weighing down your hook. Some level of algae growth is normal in a lake with a surplus of nutrients, as is the case for water bodies that receive inflow from a stormwater pipe like Osnúhsa? does at the eastern end of the lake. However, lake managers around the state have noticed more algae than usual this spring and have suggested that the milder-than-usual winter may be responsible. If climate scientists' prediction of milder, wetter winters is indeed correct, early-season algae growth just doesn't look nice, there's no cause for alarm, as filamentous algae is not an inconvenience and it is a health hazard.

1st Annual Garlic Mustard Pull

Friday, June 16, 2017
9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. at Norbert Hill Woods

Meet at: Behind Norbert Hill Center
Light lunch will be provided after the event
Rain or Shine

First annual Garlic Mustard Pull in Oneida! – Garlic Mustard is an invasive plant that's taking over our woodlands. It crowds out our beautiful native wildflowers and endangers forests by preventing tree seedlings from growing. And, none of our North American insects or wildlife eat it! Help the Oneida Invasive Species Program remove this invader from the Norbert Hill Woods, and keep our natural areas healthy. Our goal is to remove 1,000 pounds of Garlic Mustard!

Event Notes: Please dress for the weather and the work! Where garlic mustard grows, we may also run into poison ivy and mosquitoes. Close-toed shoes, long pants and long-sleeved shirts are highly recommended. Bug repellent, garbage bags, and gloves will be provided.

Fish, Smiles, and Sunshine at 18th Youth and Elder Fishing Day

Top: Environmental Health and Safety Project Manager Tony Kuchma helps children bait hooks for the 18th annual Youth and Elder Fishing Day. Anglers of all ages caught largemouth bass, bluegill and rainbow trout.

The US Fish and Wildlife Service provides 1000 rainbow trout every year to stock the lake for the event.

By Melis Arik
Water Resource Specialist

Despite below-average temperatures and a threat of rain, 100 community members enjoyed the 18th annual Youth and Elder Fishing Day at Osnúhsa? Lake. As usual, the lake was stocked with 1000 “catchable” rainbow trout averaging about 8 inches long. In addition to trout, quite a few good-size panfish and largemouth bass took the bait, offering community members a lively morning and perhaps a few meals as well.

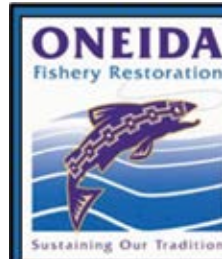

Youth and Elder Fishing Day is the Oneida Water Resources Program’s largest community outreach event. The event was started as a way to showcase fishing opportunities on the Reservation while encouraging young people to take up this wholesome pastime. The event soon evolved with an intergenerational focus, bringing extended families together for a day of fun. The first “Youth Fishing Day” took place in 1999. At that event, one young angler hooked an eight pound, 24-inch largemouth bass – a legendary opening foretelling many years of good fishing ahead.

The event requires a lot of coordination across departments and partnership with outside agencies. We couldn’t do it without the help of the expert grillmasters from the Environmental Resources Board; community members who volunteer for “dunk tank duty;” assistance with set-up from the Conservation staff; and many others who volunteer their time to make this event happen. We receive 1000 trout for the event each year from the US Fish and Wildlife Service -Genoa Fish Hatchery in Lacrosse. Past years have also featured an aquarium on loan from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, providing a close-up view of the fish of Osnúhsa? Lake.

If you missed Youth and Elder Fishing Day this year, or just didn’t get the monster catch you had hoped for, keep trying. Perhaps they’re just holding out for the tastiest bait they can find. Maybe they will find it on the end of your line!

Black belt testing held in Oneida

Six Oneida Family Fitness (OFF) Tae Kwon Do students successfully tested for their black belts on June 3rd at the OFF gymnasium. Those earning their black belts are Jackson Lester, Matthew Lester, Adam Krawczyk, Ayden Krawczyk, Mike Retel, and Nevaeh Clayton.

Saturday, June 3rd Oneida Family Fitness had a Black Belt Testing held in their Gym. There were 45 Tae Kwon Do students ages 9 and up who were testing for First, Second, and Third Degree Black Belts.

Testing started with the physical requirements of a mile run, 100 pushups and 100 sit ups. Then students put on their Tae kwon do uniform and must perform blocks, kicks punches, forms, board breaking, sparring, and self Defense techniques for about 4 hours. The students must also demonstrate their knowledge of Martial Art history, theory, and scientific approaches.

There were 6 students from Oneida Family Fitness who tested for their 1st Degree Black Belt, Adam Krawczyk, Mike Retel, Nevaeh Clayton, Jackson Lester, Matthew Lester, and Ayden Krawczyk. All these students through their hard work and dedication to Tae Kwon do achieved their black belt and are to be congratulated.

All the students train with Master Kevin Schoenebeck at Oneida Family Fitness Center and have been training for many years. Most of the students start when they are 6 or 7 years of age. If you have a child who might be interested in the benefits of Martial Arts stop by Oneida Family Fitness and talk with Mr. Schoenebeck. There are beginning classes starting soon.

Wisconsin hospital takes steps to address food insecurity

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - One Madison-area health care provider will begin asking patients of all ages about hunger.

The Wisconsin State Journal reported that on Tuesday UW Health providers in Madison will start asking all emergency room and hospital patients if they're worried about having enough food. Patients who are experiencing food insecurity will then be directed to food pantries and other assistance.

"Individuals with food insecurity and chronic hunger have more poor health," said Cassie Vanderwall, a clinical nutritionist and dietetic internship program manager at UW Health.

The hospital will also start providing children with free meals during the summer. The U.S. Department of Agriculture will reimburse the hospital for the food. The meals will be offered daily for pediatric outpatients and siblings or children or inpatients until Aug. 25.

No registration or income check will be required to qualify for a meal.

"We are assuming that if they ask for a meal, they need a meal," Vanderwall said.

According to hunger relief organization Feeding America, about one in nine adults and one in six children in Dane County have food insecurity.

"Adults are also very vulnerable to food insecurity," said Anne Gargano Ahmed, coordinator of the HungerCare Coalition at Second Harvest Foodbank of Southern Wisconsin. "Oftentimes, it's the parents who skip meals so the kids can eat. Seniors are particularly at risk of food security, and it can have a lot of health effects."

2014 - 2017 Legislative Term in Review

So far, this has been a very successful and productive term for the Legislative Operating Committee; with many new laws being adopted and several existing laws being amended. Although much has been accomplished, there are still many legislative items that the LOC is still working to complete before the end of the term; and there is much to prepare for the 2017-2020 term.

21 Laws Amended This Term

So far this term, the BC and GTC have amended 21 different laws—and five laws were amended twice.

- ☑ Election Law (4/23/17)
- ☑ Endowment Fund (4/12/17)

The 2014-2017 term Legislative Operating Committee

(Left to Right:)

- David P. Jordan (Councilmember)
- Fawn Billie (Councilmember)
- Brandon Yellowbird Stevens (LOC Chair)
- Jennifer Webster (Councilmember)
- Ron "Tehassi" Hill (LOC Vice-Chair)

8 New Laws

So far this term, 8 new laws have been added to the Code of Laws:

- ☑ Budget Management & Control (2/8/17—but not effective until 10/1/17)
- ☑ Oneida Nation Seal and Flag (1/11/17)
- ☑ Eviction and Termination (10/12/16)
- ☑ Landlord-Tenant (10/12/16)
- ☑ Mortgage & Foreclosure (8/10/16)
- ☑ Administrative Rule-making (2/24/16)
- ☑ Furlough Policy (11/10/15)
- ☑ Leasing (5/13/15—but this will not go into effect until 30 days after it has been approved by the Secretary of the Interior—we are still awaiting approval.)

Pending

The LOC is currently nearing completion on several legislative items, and it is anticipated that many, if not all, of these items will also result in new laws or amendments to existing laws by the end of the term or shortly thereafter. These include:

New Laws Nearly Completed

- ☑ Workplace Violence law
- ☑ Business Committee Meetings law
- ☑ Children's Code
- ☑ Child Care Complaint law
- ☑ Sanctions & Penalties for Elected and Appointed Officials
- ☑ Vehicle Driver & Fleet Management
- ☑ GTC Meetings law (this will be sent to GTC to consider adopting, so it may not be adopted by the end of the term, but by the end of this term, it should be finalized and hopefully placed on an upcoming GTC agenda)

Amendments Nearly Completed

- ☑ Cemetery Law
- ☑ Administrative Rulemaking
- ☑ Domestic Animals
- ☑ Comprehensive Policy Governing Boards, Committees and Commissions

The Oneida Code of Laws now has 97 Chapters

In addition to processing all of the proposals to create and amend laws, the LOC has also been working on various other projects. One of the main efforts this term was to overhaul and reorganize the Code of Laws. Now, the Code of Laws has been divided into nine "Titles" - and each law is a chapter within a specific title. The new titles include:

- Title 1—Government and Finances
- Title 2—Employment
- Title 3—Health and Public Safety
- Title 4—Environment & Natural Resources
- Title 5 – Business
- Title 6—Property and Land
- Title 7—Children, Elders and Family
- Title 8—Judicial System
- Title 9—Education

In addition, existing policies have also been merged into the Code of Laws—policies were adopted in the same manner as a law and have the force and effect of law—this change did not change the legal status of duly adopted policies.

The LOC also maintains legislative information on the Oneida Register—including public meeting notices, information about past public meetings, the Code of Laws, certified rules, and more. To learn more, visit the Register at www.oneida-nsn.gov/register, or contact the Legislative Reference Office.

Podcast aims to find 'lost' voice for Native Americans

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Gabriel Night Shield sees the same repeating stereotypes of Native Americans.

"It's one of the two: the drunk living in the streets," Night Shield told the Argus Leader (<http://argusne.ws/2qP0iLv>). "Or the guy that's living in the teepees."

What he doesn't see is his story. The Sioux Falls resident, who grew up in Rosebud, is a musician, a businessman and father. Millions of other Native Americans lead similar lives, but don't see it reflected in the media, Night Shield said.

He's taking matters into his own hands, releasing a new podcast next month to focus on the lives of Native Americans in urban settings.

The "Urban Indianz" podcast will premiere June 12 with three episodes on iTunes, SoundCloud and other outlets.

Night Shield, who lived in Boston and Seattle before settling in Sioux Falls 17 years ago, envisions the podcast as one with a national audience. He and his two co-hosts, Levi Hansen and Char Green-Maximo, will tackle one topic in each episode, drawing from their own lives for inspiration.

Moving between reservations and large cities can be overwhelming for Native Americans, Night Shield said. Life away from home can be isolating, and that's often what causes people to move back and live closer to their family.

He hopes to provide them and other listeners with a new perspective on current events, and talk about what it's like to work and raise a family in a city away from the reservation.

Each episode will also have a segment on art and end with Native American hip hop. Night Shield is a music producer and locally-based rapper who has won multiple national awards.

The show will be produced by the Sioux Empire Podcast Network, with a new episode every two weeks.

Green Bay Southwest's Gavin White honored with All-Conference award

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks Sr. Reporter
nwisnes@oneidanation.org
@NateWisneski

Gavin White works hard and prides himself on doing things the right way not only on the field but also in life and has been rewarded with his second all-conference honor from the Bay Valley Lacrosse Association.

He was named All-Conference Honorable Mention Face-Off Specialist as his senior season at Green Bay Southwest closed. He was named All-Conference Second Team Midfielder his junior year. Along with lacrosse, White played four years of football and two years of basketball.

White started playing the game he loved at a young age.

"I started playing lacrosse at tribal school in third grade. We passed the ball around a little and then I really got into it in about 6th grade. I really started snowballing," said White.

Football taught White many things but lacrosse taught him how to lead and accomplish goals.

"Lacrosse really taught me how to be a leader. In football and basketball I wasn't the guy. I learned what I need to do and what I needed to work on and work hard to earn my spot," said White. "After I would work out, I would go outside and do wall ball, work on my shots and work on face-offs. I wanted to be the best."

White looks up to his dad, Sid White, and points to him as person who taught him the value of high school athletics.

"My dad taught me how to act and what to do in certain situations. I heard all this stuff about how he was a great basketball player and he really taught me discipline," said White.

Sid is glad the lessons stuck with his son.

"He really is a fine young man who does things the right way. He is humble and works hard. He encourages his teammates to improve and get better. He always displays proper sportsmanship," said Sid.

White is weighing his options regarding secondary education and the prospect of playing lacrosse at the next level. As he waits, he hasn't lost his connection to the game.

"It feels different than any other sport. Everything else around me is irrelevant. My homework or the test didn't matter, I just want to play the game and play my best. I do it for the creator," he said.

Trump puts focus on Wisconsin's growing apprentice program

By Scott Bauer

Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - Gov. Scott Walker once told then-candidate Donald Trump "we don't need an apprentice in the White House."

But on Tuesday the president and his daughter Ivanka Trump joined Walker to tour Waukesha County Technical College and talk about the importance of providing on-the-job training to workers in industries that sometimes struggle to find qualified people.

Wisconsin was the first state in the country to pass a law establishing apprenticeship programs in 1911, the same year what is now the technical college system was created. Now there are 11,000 adults and 3,500 high school students in apprenticeship programs overseen by the state.

LDI Industries always struggled with larger companies poaching its workers for slightly higher pay, but saw investing in apprenticeship programs as a way to attract and retain more workers, said John Lukas, the company's vice president of manufacturing.

"We're really using that as a marketing tool to say everyone isn't cut out for a four-year college," Lukas said.

Interest in the state's apprenticeship programs is growing. Adult participation is up 6 percent from 2015 and includes participation from 2,400 employers. The goal is to double or triple those numbers, said state Department of Workforce Development Secretary Ray Allen.

Walker has long touted Wisconsin's apprenticeship programs as a way to address workplace shortages. Wisconsin's unemployment rate of 3.2 percent is the lowest it's been since 2000, but there are about 97,000 job openings posted on the state website.

"There aren't enough people to fill the jobs and the people applying don't have the skills necessary," said Conor Smyth, spokesman for the Wisconsin Technical College System. The shortages cut across multiple job sectors, including agriculture, manufacturing, information technology and health care, he said.

The state's technical colleges work closely with the Wisconsin DWD to create programs where there is need in the industrial, construction and service sectors.

Participation in Wisconsin's apprenticeship program in the 16 technical colleges has increased 36 percent since 2013, according to the technical college system's most recent annual report released in January. There were 669 graduates statewide in 2015 and of those 409 worked in construction, 204 in industry like electricians and mechanics, and 56 in services like cosmetology.

The annual median salary for those who had completed the apprenticeship program statewide as of 2015 was about $67,600.

While Walker and Trump will be touting the value of apprenticeships together on Tuesday, that wasn't always the case. Walker used Trump's past job on the television show "The Apprentice" against him when they were both running for president in 2015. That's when Walker told Trump at a Republican presidential debate that the country didn't need an apprentice in the White House.

Their relationship has improved since then.

Walker went on to endorse Trump for president and after Tuesday's technical college tour the president planned to host a $1,000 per-person fundraiser for Walker's re-election campaign. Photos with Trump cost $10,000.

Native American Foster Homes Needed

Oneida Nation Foster Care Program is a state licensed, tribal run Child Placing Agency developed to facilitate out-of-home placements for Oneida Children when family is unavailable. In Wisconsin, there are more Native American children in foster care than there are licensed Native American foster parents. Without your help, children are at risk of being placed outside of their communities and/or away from their tribes, thus creating more barriers to reunification.

Oneida youth lacrosse teams bring home bling

Submitted by Kelly Johnson

The Oneida Community Lacrosse program finished up their 2017 Spring Season with a big win at the Badger State Games. The program had four teams registered in the Badger State Games in Wausau. The U9, U11, U13, and U15 all played at least three games on Saturday and Sunday, June 3-4.

The Oneida U11 team went undefeated through the weekend and going on to win the championship. They played a total of five games, beating teams from all over Wisconsin like Kimberly and Wausau Wolfpack and moving on to win the championship game against Green Bay. Oneida U11 beat Green Bay 16-12 and was the gold medal winners!

Oneida U15 won third place, U13 won third place, and the Oneida U9 won fourth place. The U13 were undefeated on Saturday, playing for a spot in the championship round. They ended with a devastating loss to Wausau. U15 had one loss and one win against Wausau going on to play for a spot in the championship game. They played three games with only one sub going up against teams who had six to seven subs and were still able to win third place.

The Oneida Community Lacrosse Program would like to thank everyone who has helped support our efforts. Your continued support is much appreciated.
