Kivimaki finds his passion in the medical field

The University of Wisconsin (UW)-Madison's Native American Center for Health Professions (NACHP) continues to provide the Oneida Community Health Center (OCHC) with the highest quality interns from the university's medical programs. The most recent intern to complete a rotation is Alex Kivimaki, a senior medical school student, who will graduate in May.

Kivimaki, 25, is a member of the Ho-Chunk Nation who grew up in the Tomah area. Like many other young people he wasn't sure what he wanted to do with his life when he got to college. "I didn't have a clue about what I wanted to do for a career," Kivimaki said. "I had gone to a Wisconsin Badgers hockey game when I was in high school and loved it so I knew I wanted to go to Madison. I thought it would be a fun time so I focused my attentions on getting into UW-Madison."

Kivimaki considered himself to be research-minded so he contemplated a biochemistry career until an internship he participated in his sophomore year dispelled that idea. "I took a job out in Salt Lake City doing some research working with vascular physiology and blood vessels in mice and I hated it," Kivimaki said. "I realized it wasn't for me and I was in a lab by myself for most of that time. I'm a little more social than that so I took a subsequent internship shadowing different doctors in the hospital and I realized what I wanted to do for the rest of my life."

Following a challenging junior year that saw him take the Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) and recover from a serious car accident, Kivimaki had found his niche. "I realized this was really happening for me when I received my score and I found out I did really well," Kivimaki said. "There was a certain amount of reassurance in there for me."

Upon entering UW-Madison's School of Medicine and Public Health Kivimaki soon discovered the rigors that lay ahead. "Medical school was beautiful, chaotic, awful, and wonderful all at the same time," Kivimaki said. "I loved it. After we got into the clinic by my third year things felt right. You're actually seeing patients and you remember why you're going through all the craziness that's involved. There were certainly times where I didn't do so well but I just always did my best to keep an upbeat attitude and kept on moving forward."

Human trafficking, drug recognition training held

On March 21 the Wisconsin Department of Justice (DOJ), in partnership with the Wisconsin Native American Drug and Gang Initiative (NADGI) and the Oneida Police Department (OPD), conducted anti-human trafficking and drug recognition training for more than 500 Oneida Nation employees. The training, held at the Radisson Hotel & Conference Center, is designed to increase awareness of these issues among casino and hospitality workers.

"This training came about as the result of a conversation with the Brown County Human Trafficking Task Force," Oneida Chief of Police Rich VanBoxtel said. "Anecdotally we think there's an issue with people involved in this going from the casino to the hotel but we're not sure because a lot of the staff didn't know what to look for. We spoke with the casino and hotel management and decided to bring in the resources of the DOJ and bring this training to staff members."

Because the training was already going to be held for Wingate and Radisson Hotel staff it was decided to bring in other departments as well. "It made sense for us to open this up to casino surveillance and security, Comprehensive Housing, Retail, Environmental Health and Safety, and all of our police officers are here as well," VanBoxtel said. "We know there's a drug issue but is there a huge trafficking issue on the reservation? We're not really sure yet but by getting all these folks trained we'll have that many more people able to recognize what they're looking at and be able to make that report. It doesn't make sense for us to just sit back and wait for something to fall in our lap when we have the resources to be proactive about it."

"Our mission is to increase the number of people that understand what trafficking looks like so that when it's in front of them they recognize it and know how to report it," Julie Braun, Policy Advisor for the Wisconsin Department of Justice, said. "The statistics around human trafficking are difficult to quantify because it's a hidden crime. That's why we're expending a lot of energy to look at the dynamics of trafficking and traffickers all over the state so we can help people identify and report it. As that increases our ability to quantify those numbers will get better."

Hospitality workers are in a unique position to spot and report illegal activities, Wisconsin Attorney General Brad Schimel said in a statement. "This training provides law enforcement hundreds of partners in keeping a watchful eye on their community and removes the advantage traffickers and drug networks have when members of the public don't know how to recognize and report these crimes to law enforcement."

Victims of human trafficking are often addicts without the financial means to support their habit, according to NADGI Task Force Commander Bryan Kastelic. "Unfortunately, within that realm individuals are often forced to traffic drugs, commit burglaries or robberies, white collar crimes, and possibly traffic humans," Kastelic said. "As long as there are individuals pushing these highly addictive drugs there will always be that

"I don't have the same familiarity with the Wisconsin tribes as I do with tribes in Montana," Zinke said. "But they're very kind people and Oneida's business model stands beyond the casino. We talked about how they're doing financially and we discussed the opioid crisis. It was very interesting and encouraging coming into Oneida to see the reminder and their recognition of the fact that there's an opioid problem. Oneida is looking at what we can do to assist given the fact that the president is laser-focused on this issue."

"It was a great opportunity for us to share our ideas with Secretary Zinke and have him visit our reservation," Oneida Nation Chairman Tehassi Hill said. "He was able to see some of the work we've been doing here and the complexities of our nation."

Hill is encouraged with Zinke's willingness to work with Oneida. "He seemed to really want assist tribes to deal with this issue by providing additional law enforcement and key people in the Justice Department on the criminal side of it," Hill said. "We would obviously have to work with other federal departments to deal with the mental health and addiction aspects of it as well."

Hill was also encouraged by the discussions regarding self-governance. "On the self-governance issue it sure seemed like it was aligned well with what he's proposing to do with the Interior Department," Hill said. "I think this is a good avenue for us to be able to work well together."

The Department of the Interior (DOI) is exploring a number of options to help Native tribes hit the opioid problem head on. "We have a number of different law enforcement agencies from different bureaus working with tribal police to run a task force to go after drug dealers," Zinke said. "In many cases the drug dealers aren't on reservation lands but are supplying them from other cities like Milwaukee in this case. Doing intelligence up front with a task force with multiple agencies including tribal police will help in going after those suppliers."

Recognizing that each tribe is unique and their individual needs vary is important to the DOI. "Different nations are unique among themselves," Zinke said. "We're looking at community rehabilitation, drug treatment, and awareness programs that make sense and get some flexibility on these issues given the different cultures involved and where an individual tribe stands. We need flexibility in Indian Country and be respectful of cultural differences because one size does not fit all."

Zinke says the DOI is aware of its obligations to work with all tribal nations including Oneida. "We should be the champions of Indian nations because that's my honored role," Zinke said. "I care deeply about the nations. I grew up with the Blackfeet in Montana where everybody pretty much knows each other. We need to honor our treaty obligations and work with the tribes as partners nation-to-nation and that hasn't always occurred."

"It's not often that somebody at that level in the federal government takes the time to visit Indian reservations across the country," Hill said. "This is a great opportunity for tribes to show that they are dealing with the issues and no matter how complex we are we're striving to make positive changes."

"I'm happy to be in Oneida," Zinke said. "They're wonderful people and this is what an Interior Secretary should do. I should be spending my time in the field listening and learning."

Eagle feathers, plumes at graduations now protected in law

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) ~ Gov. Dennis Daugaard has approved protections in South Dakota law for students who want to wear eagle feathers or plumes at school graduations.

The Republican governor on Thursday signed the tribal regalia law, which requires state and local officials to let people wear eagle feathers and plumes at school honoring or graduation ceremonies. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service operates the National Eagle Repository to provide Native Americans with eagle carcasses, parts and feathers.

Secretary of Tribal Relations Steve Emery told a state Senate panel earlier this month that a person coming back from war would receive an eagle feather.

"I think it's very important as a culture we recognize the accomplishments and achievements of people that do great things," Emery said. "Graduating high school is a great accomplishment for many of our children, and I think this bill needs to go forward to recognize and honor those accomplishments."

Democratic Rep. Shawn Bordeaux, the bill's sponsor, said before the measure was signed that it's a "great way" to allow tribal members to express pride in who they are. He said South Dakota is becoming a "better place each and every day."

Daugaard listed the legislation as an accomplishment in a recent column about the 2018 legislative session. With his signature, it will take effect July 1.

Child Abuse Prevention Month

April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month

Did you know?

"There are currently over 2.1 million American Indians and Alaska Natives (AI/AN) under the age of 24 living in the United States" (Center for Native American Youth 2014). We must continue to keep the culture and resiliency in our children alive and sacred. Each of us has the ability and responsibility to advocate for our families. So, please encourage the whole community – parents, children and elder's, to become involved in keeping our children and families safe and strong!

Resilient for Our Children,
Our People and
Our Future...*

Oneida Family Services . . . would like the community to come together to make sure our children are strong and resilient. We hope that by promoting healthy relationships between parents and children through activities, we can create awareness.

Here's What's Planned...

Wear Blue Day (April 6th)

- Wear blue to show your support for and awareness for Child Abuse Prevention Month and to keep our community Strong, Resilient and Indigenous.

#Pinwheels4Prevention Campaign

- Our plans are to 'illuminate' Oneida with pinwheels and have tags on them. On these pinwheels, children from the Oneida Nation Schools will express their thoughts on what it means to be strong and safe... We hope to create gardens of these around Oneida.

Social Media Movement

- Oneida Family Services will use #GreatChildhoods and #strongresilientindigenous to promote and provide information on parental resilience and the knowledge and importance of parent-child relationships. Stay Tuned!

Thursday, April 26th Prevention Glow Walk, 5-7pm

- At night, walk together with the Oneida Singers as a community to promote resiliency and protective factors for our children and families. Social Dance and Food to follow.

Glow Sticks for the walk are sponsored by Oneida TANF

De Pere Style | Spring Fashion Show

De Pere, WI – Definitely De Pere is excited to announce a new spring fashion show and shopping event hitting downtown De Pere. The De Pere Style Spring Fashion Show will be held Friday, April 27 from 5:00 – 7:00 pm at Broadway Theatre. The cost to attend the fashion show is $15.00.

De Pere Style offers a first look at local boutique spring and summer fashions with a night of shopping to follow. Included in the $15.00 ticket is an array of heavy hors d'oeuvres from local eateries along with a signature drink. Broadway Theatre will be hosting a cash bar serving cocktails, beer, and wine. Attendees will also receive a swag bag with exclusive in-store discounts to use that evening. Deals such as a free gift with purchase, $10 off coupon, 25% off purchase, and more will be offered. Every guest will also receive a special free gift from a local retailer such as a scarf, candle, earrings, or accessories.

"This event is brand new to De Pere and we are really looking forward to making it a staple to downtown," said Definitely De Pere Executive Director Tina Quigley. "There are such great storefronts, new and long-standing, that have unique finds for clothing, shoes, accessories, and gifts. This event will highlight the options people have to shop small in their com-

Tickets are on sale online through the Definitely De Pere website:

<https://definitelydepere.org/de-pere-style-spring-fashion-show/>

Those who are unable to attend the fashion show are still invited to shop the night away! Stores will be having in-store specials, refreshments, and extended evening hours.

"De Pere business owners are incredibly supportive and provide customers with an individualized shopping experience. We hope shoppers make it a full night by grabbing something to eat and exploring downtown along the way."

Definitely De Pere is a 501(c)(3) non-profit nationally accredited Main Street Program and a Business Improvement District. The purpose of the organization is to improve quality of life through assisting in the revitalization of the downtown. Definitely De Pere does this through economic development, promotions, special events, design and beautification.

College of Menominee Nation Names New President

Dr. Paul Trebian
President of CMN

Dr. Paul F. Trebian has been named President of the College of Menominee Nation (CMN), an accredited tribal college with campuses in Keshena and Green Bay, Wisconsin. He assumes the post on May 15, 2018. Dr. Trebian is a native of Alaska and a member of the Tlingit Tribe.

He will replace Interim President, Dr. Diana Morris. Morris will continue as the College's Chief Academic Officer, a position she has held concurrent with the Presidency since the retirement in 2016 of CMN's founder, Dr. Verna Fowler.

The announcement by the College's Board of Trustees follows a 14-month national search. Board Chairwoman Virginia Nuske calls Dr. Trebian "an excellent fit for the College and the communities we serve." She notes the value of his professional work with both traditional and online institutions of higher learning and in corporate and small business environments.

The President-Elect holds a Doctor of Education degree in Educational Leadership and Master of Business Administration with a Technology Management emphasis from the University of Phoenix, and Master's and Bachelor of Science degrees in Architecture from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. His scholarship and service activities have focused on faculty development, the improvement of student-faculty interaction, student retention, information and media technology, strategic planning and project management.

Dr. Trebian has held administrative and faculty positions at Cardinal Stritch University's College of Business and Management, his most recent post, and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, and teaching positions with the University of Phoenix and Navajo Technical College. Outside of higher education, he has worked in technology management in healthcare, family services, manufacturing, and aerospace engineering and with architectural firms.

Creative Native launched by CNAY

Calling all artists! The Center for Native American Youth (CNAY) is launching Creative Native—an exciting new opportunity developed as part of the Generation Indigenous National Native Youth Network. With Creative Native, we hope to support, promote and develop young Native artists within our youth network, and that means you!

The Call for Art asks youth to create an original work of art that explains what Generation Indigenous means to them.

You can start submitting your artwork April 11, 2018.

There will be one winner from each age category (5-9 year-olds; 10-14; 15-19; and 20-24). Winners will receive a cash prize, art supplies and have their work featured in CNAY's State of Native Youth Report.

One submission will be selected to serve as cover art for the State of Native Youth report. As a grand prize, the cover artist will be flown to Washington, DC in November, where they will join CNAY for the report release event. Artists must be at least 14 years old to be considered for the grand prize. All artists will be added to the Generation Indigenous National Native Youth Network and receive ongoing opportunities to engage.

Facebook Reaches Oneida Community

By Mark Powless
SEOTS Director

Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) attempts to communicate through many different channels with the Oneida community. Communications include upcoming events, updates on previous events, programs and services, and much more.

In addition to the Kalihwisaks, SEOTS communicates through direct mail, e-mail, flyers, occasional newspaper ads, word-of-mouth, and Facebook.

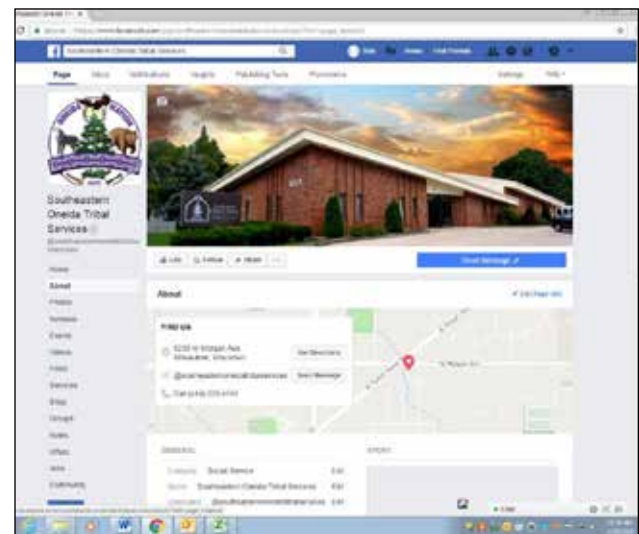

Facebook is a social media and social networking platform, available for free to online registrants. The social networking platform allows users to keep in touch with friends and family and provides other perks. In addition, Facebook users are allowed to freely browse the pages of millions of organizations, including SEOTS.

Users who would like updates from the SEOTS page (the page can be found by typing 'Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services' into the search bar) can 'like' the page by clicking on the 'Like' button found on the SEOTS page. Currently, more than 1,500 users like the SEOTS page.

SEOTS provides regular updates and general information via their page. Occasional photos of recent events and flyers of upcoming events are posted. Users can also interact by posting comments, asking questions, or liking and sharing content.

INDUSTRIAL HEMP

Good for the Economy, Environment & You

History

At one time, industrial hemp was an important crop in the U.S. It was made into products including paper and textiles.

After the passage in 1937, of the Marijuana Tax Act, growing hemp became synonymous with marijuana and drug use.

Growing hemp began to decline. The last crop was grown in Wisconsin in 1958. By 1970, it was illegal to grow industrial hemp.

Today

Many products are still made from hemp today. But it is grown in Canada, Europe, and China.

Environmental Benefits

- Grows in many different climates and soil types -Resilient to most pests
- Is able to outcompete weeds
- Requires fewer chemicals than wood

- Needs less water for irrigation than cotton
- 1 acre of hemp can make the same amount of paper as 4.1 acres of trees

Economic Benefits

Hemp can be made into hundreds of different products. In 2012, the U.S. hemp industry was valued at $500 million in annual retail sales. According to the Hemp Industries Association, all hemp products sales are rising.

Health Benefits

- Slows digestion, which can prevent spikes in blood sugar
- A source of polyunsaturated fat (the good fat) which can reduce the risk of cardiovascular disease.

The Future

Hemp can help the U.S. move toward a more sustainable agricultural system.

Sixth grade students learn to make good decisions

Article submitted by the instructor of the curriculum, Mary Burns BSN, RN, Oneida Community Health Nurse.

With the mutual support of ONES and the Oneida Community Health Center, Choosing the Best, an evidence-based health curriculum was taught to another group of 6th grade students this 2017-2018 school year. All sixth grade students received six lessons at ONES during study hall time.

The focus of the 6th grade curriculum is on making good decisions, building character, healthy versus unhealthy relationships and respecting yourself in a relationship as well as respecting others. The risks involved in sexual relationships are discussed along with the need to set boundaries and be assertive. The main focus of this curriculum is providing students with age appropriate insight into the changes that are taking place both emotionally and physically. It teaches delaying having sex until marriage or in a long term relationship.

I thoroughly enjoyed working with the 6th grade students who were active participants and asked lots of very interesting questions!

Family Fun Night 2018 was Kid-Friendly and Jedi-Approved!

By Brittany
Nikolich, RD, CD

The “force” was with hundreds of children and their families February 21st, for the annual Family Fun Night at the Oneida Nation Elementary School. “May the Fitness be with You” was the Star Wars theme for this year’s event, complete with “light saber” battles, nutritious “Star Wars Salsa” snacks and photo opportunities with Star Wars characters.

Family Fun Night has been a staple in the Oneida community for over a decade. The event was sponsored by the Oneida Comprehensive Health Division and the Special Diabetes Grant for Indians.

With representatives from various health departments, Head Start, Oneida Family Fitness, Oneida Adventures, Early Intervention, Early Head Start, FACE and Healthy Start, families could obtain free information on programs and services offered throughout the community. Meanwhile, children enjoyed participating in the various activities offered at each educational booth for Star Wars-themed prizes, drumming with Drums Alive, and jumping in the large inflatable bouncers.

The aim of Family Fun Night is always to provide education and resources for Oneida families on leading a healthy lifestyle – with a focus on physical activity; and this year’s event was no exception. With tips, recipes, tools and recommendations for adults, and educational games for children of all ages, Family Fun Night 2018 proved to be a fun event for the entire family!

The ONHS Academic Bowl Team competed in the M&O Conference competition on Monday, March 19. The Academic Bowl is held one evening each year. The ONHS team is directed by Jeanne Lillich and Lystra Clausen and consisted of Tiara Barber, Shania Barber, Ciah Danforth, Sadie Schuman, Alyssa Noriega, CJ Summers, and Iselena Torres-Mejia.

The eight member team is divided into two person slots that are assigned to compete in math, language arts, science and social studies. Students take two 45-minute tests, separated by a snack break.

The tests are scored and awards presented the same night. Individual awards go to students in the top 3 places, and a trophy goes to the team with the high-

With this year's experience at the competition behind them, the entire team agreed that while they did not place this year, they are looking forward to competing again next year.

ITA Applications In

By Iselena Torres and Thunderhawk Times Staff

Hey Freshmen!

Want free help with school, a free computer, a trip to Madison, oh, and a free four-year scholarship to one of the finest colleges or universities in the world?

That's what you get when you are accepted into the ITA-Oneida program sponsored by the DoIT program with UW-Madison. ITA stands for information technology academy. It's a technology program that also has focus on academics.

According to its own website, in "2013, ITA Oneida was established and in 2017 the first cohort graduated."

"Participation in ITA Oneida requires a significant time commitment. Incoming ITA Oneida students attend a two-week, summer technology day camp held in the Lac du Flambeau community. Students who successfully complete the camp are inducted into the three-year program.

"Over the three years of the program, ITA Oneida students develop a technology portfolio, receive tutoring and mentoring, and participate in leadership and outreach events.

"Each year in early February, ITA Oneida accepts applications from eligible ninth graders until an early March deadline. It is a competitive program and only accepts 15 students per year."

This year, at least two ONHS freshmen applied to the program. Good Luck to them.

one of my favorite things to laugh because of her, or to see her laugh.

One time she was on the arm of the couch and on the bottom were 3 12-packs of coke. She fell off sending one box flying forward and her head back onto the side of the couch and we all laughed, including her.

Sometimes we do things like spin her in a computer chair and then make her walk, she loves to do that but it's funny to us.

Laughter is not the best medicine, laughing because of Olivia, or Olivia's laughter, you could say, is the best medicine.

Students Services Team

By Tiara Barber Thunderhawk Times

Every Friday morning, a team of ONHS staff members and others meet during third hour to discuss student concerns and develop strategies for assisting ONHS students and families.

In attendance at those meetings is ONHS principal, Artley Skenandore; guidance counselor, Tom Kenote; ATODA Coordinator, Melissa Sanders; Family Coordinator, Denis Gullickson, Resource Officer Justine Mehojah and Yet Program Coordinator, Sarah Wunderlich. Also in attendance are Fay LeMense, ONSS special education coordinator; Jessica De Groot, Youth and Adolescent worker with Oneida Social Services and others.

According to Denis Gullickson a lot of good comes from the meetings. "The meetings are valuable because the many people there, coming from their different perspectives, can often brainstorm solutions for particular challenges facing students and their families."

ONHS Skiers Make an Impression

By Thunderhawk Times Staff

Thursday, March 22 was the date for the annual ONHS ski trip. 21 students went on the trip with staff members Greg Holder, Kara McCarthy and Denis Gullickson. Also accompanying the group was Pine Mountain ski instructor and National Ski Patrol member Mike Mogan.

Students on the trip were Natavia Adams, Shania Barber, Tiara Barber, Ottawa Brown, Eliciah Danforth, Evan Danforth, Justin Hill, Kevin House, Kaleigh Johnson, Jordan Metoxen, Ariana Mora, Charlene Peters, Joseph Powless, Noemi Ramirez-Gilsoul, Yelih Rodriguez, Akia Stevens, Hattie Summers, John Summers, Richard Summers, Iselena Torres-Mejia, Uanet Torres-Mejia and Tianna Tovar-Penass.

mance in academics, attendance and behavior.

The group skied at Pine Mountain Resort in Iron Mountain, MI.

Gullickson said that the group received many compliments on how they conducted themselves from everyone at the resort.

One of the best parts of the trip according to many students on the trip, besides the skiing, is being able to eat in the resort's restaurant.

"The restaurant actually bans student ski groups from eating in the restaurant," said Gullickson, "because most kids don't seem to behave when they are there. But our school is welcomed by the restaurant staff because they are so well-behaved."

Learning to ski isn't always easy. It takes a lot of work and determination, especially if you've never done it before.

"The head of the 'Learn to Ski' program made it a point to tell me as we were leaving," Gullickson added, "that the ski instructors all agreed that ours was 'far and away' the best ski group of the entire season in terms of good attitudes, trying to master the skills and listening to instruction."

It was all smiles for the ONHS ski group as many of them tried skiing for the very first time on Thursday, March 22. Later, some ONHS students also did some snowboarding. It was a great day and there were no injuries.

Third Quarter Ends

By Thunderhawk Times Staff

ONHS students and staff returned from Spring Break on Monday, April 2 with two days left in the third quarter, which ends on Tuesday, April 3.

However, a big snow-storm predicted for April 2-4 had everyone wondering just how that might impact the end of one quarter and the start of the next one.

The annual Maple Luncheon is set for Thursday, April 5. That day will also feature an expression of appreciation to NWTC staff and students who helped design and build the new "sugar shack" that proved to be such an upgrade this season.

Other upcoming items on the calendar include "Tornado Awareness Week" April 9-13 and a half-day for students on Friday, April 13 with staff development in the afternoon.

Earth Day is Sunday, April 22.

Also coming up is Band Competition at Manitowoc Roncalli High School on April 25. ONHS's very own clarinetist Alyssa Noriega will be participating in that competition, so watch for details on that coming up in a future issue of "Thunderhawk Times."

The Dream of Seeing Metallica

By Jesse Montoya Thunderhawk Times

Do you have that one band or performer that is on your "I've got to see them in concert someday" list?

For me, that band is Metallica.

The reason for that is I grew up listening to them. Ever since I heard their music I always liked it.

And like a lot of "older" bands, Metallica isn't going to be around forever.

The ages of the members run over 50 years old.

Some facts about Metallica:

- They were formed in October 1981
- They have sold over 100 million records around the world
- They have 14 Grammy Awards.

The good news for this writer... Metallica will be swinging through Milwaukee this October.

home. Born April 8, 1947, in Green Bay, he is the son of the late Jacob and Genevieve (Pecore) King. Chuck graduated from East High School, Class of 1965. He married the former Linda Wondrash on Oct. 14, 1967. Chuck was a dedicated employee of George-Pacific for over forty years, retiring in 2008. He was an avid outdoorsman who especially enjoyed hunting and fishing. He cherished times with his family, playing cards and attending his grandchildren's horse riding lessons and shows.

Chuck is survived by two daughters; Jenny (Eric) Vandeveld of Casco and Angie King of Mandan, ND; grandchildren, Shawn (Rachel), David (Katlynn), Kendal and Erika; one great-grandson, Jackson; sisters-in-law, Marilyn King and Rena King; brother-in-law, Joseph Greatens, and many nieces and nephews.

He was also preceded in death by an infant son, David; siblings, Marie (Gordon) Heimke, Harriet (Larry) Vanden Heuvel, Marlene Greatens, Donald (Jackie), Larwin, Wayne (Sallie), Gerald, Glen, and Sharon King; former wife and friend, Linda King Willman.

Per Chuck's wishes, no funeral service will be held.

Malcore (East) Funeral Home is serving the family. Visit www.malcorefuneralhome.com to share a condolence with the family.

Chuck's family extend a special thank you to Dr. Flood at the Oneida Health Center for his many years of dedicated, caring service.

Chuck will be remembered for his dedication to his family; he freely shared his many life-lessons and his entire being with all those he held dear.

Braaten, Kelly R.*January 14, 1963 – March 17, 2018

Kelly R. Braaten, 55, Oneida, passed away unexpectedly surrounded by family on Saturday afternoon March 17, 2018. She was born January 14, 1963 to Alfrieda Grignon and the late Lester Braaten.

Lewis, Jason

July 4, 1973 – March 15, 2018

Jason Lewis, age 44, of Green Bay, passed away Thursday, March 15, 2018 at his home, surrounded by his family. He was born July 4, 1973 in Green Bay to Sheryl (Dan) Skenandore and Robin (Laura) John.

Sheila (Nick) Pamonicutt, Little Robin John, Matthew John, Megan John, Michael John and Bailey Krause; special nephews: Joseph, Matthew, Shane and Nicholas; many aunts, uncles, other relatives and friends.

Jason and his friend, Robert Cadmus started Elf's Gifts, where Jason worked for many years as the CEO of the company.

He was preceded in death by his grandparents Irving and Leona John.

Jason's passion was riding motorcycles. He also enjoyed camping and traveling with family and friends. His family will dearly miss his sense of humor. He used humor to lighten even the most difficult situations.

Visitation was held at Newcomer Cremations, Funerals & Receptions (340 S. Monroe Ave., Green Bay), on Sunday, March 18, 2018 from 5 to 7PM. A funeral service followed at 7PM with burial in the Oneida Sacred Burial Grounds. To leave an online condolences for the family, please visit www.NewcomerGreen-Bay.com.

Jason is survived by his children, Andrew and Ariel Lewis and their mother, Marsha Tourtillott (and grandpa, Stanley Ostrenga); his parents, Sheryl (Dan) Skenandore and Robin (Laura) John; grandmother, June Janssen; brothers and sisters:

Jason's family would like to extend a special thank you to Dr. Neu as well as the nurses at St. Vincent dialysis for their many years of excellent care and support.

In Loving Memory

The staff of the Oneida Higher Education Department is saddened, by the passing of John E. Powless. We gratefully acknowledge his momentous contribution to education and specifically to the creation of the Oneida Higher Education grant which has made it possible for so many tribal members to earn degrees in many different fields. His vision and devotion to providing access for all tribal members to Higher Education has changed the lives of so many members in the Oneida community and across the nation. We are grateful for his concern and insight in helping to build a stronger Oneida Nation.

Secretary's Forum

Government to Government Relations

There is much activity going on with congress this term and it seems like every day there is something in the news which makes us question the motives of this administration. Despite this perception, or whether our congressional representatives are Republican or Democrat, we must find ways to work together. The relationships we foster helps put Oneida in the forefront of issues along with conversations affecting Indian Country; items such as Indian Child Welfare.

On March 20, 2018, the Oneida Nation received a visit from the Department of Interior, Secretary Ryan Zinke. The Oneida Nation does not receive visits from top federal government officials very often and this visit was a welcomed surprise. We took this opportunity to give Secretary Zinke a tour of our health facility and the Anna John Resident Centered Care Community. This was a historic event for Oneida to have the Secretary of the Department of Interior visit our Nation. Topics we discussed with the Secretary included the opioid epidemic impacting our community and the importance of Nation to Nation relationships. Secretary Zinke recognizes the need to improve the federal government consultation process with

Lisa Summers
Secretary

Indian Nations when making decisions. We will continue to work on building our Federal relationships.

I have some great news to share on our relationship with the state. I reported, a few articles ago, the Special Committee on State-Tribal Relations was working on some state legislation for Wisconsin Tribes. This group of tribal leaders has been working on legislative changes for the past couple of years. I am pleased to announce four (4) state Bills will be signed into law this month.

On Tuesday, April 3rd, Wisconsin Governor, Scott Walker is signing the Burial Mounds Bill and the Tribal ID Bill. The Tribal ID Bill requires Wisconsin businesses to recognize Tribal Identification Cards. This is a huge win for Indian Country. Until now, this was optional. Later this month, there will be two(2) more Bills signed into law recognizing Tribal Governance. These Bills pertain to Treatment Alternatives and Battery to Tribal Court Representatives. The state recognizes our Nation's inherent sovereignty and supports the Oneida Nation through the allocation of resources and parity. The new Bill will provide protections to our court Judges and personnel.

As your elected body of the Oneida Nation, it is important to remember that we are tasked with handling government to government relationships with local, state and federal government offices. We continue to exercise our Tribal Sovereignty through these relationships. Our continued effort to work with the state on these Bills demonstrates our commitment to the Oneida Nation.

This is a great success for Indian Country.

Thank you for taking the time to review these important updates. I will continue to provide updates through these articles and on Facebook. As always, if you have questions, please contact me at 920-869-4478 or via email at lsummer2@oneidanation.org, you may also contact Lisa Liggins at 920-869-4434 or lliggins@oneidanation.org.

year of medical school they are given a certain amount of latitude regarding elective classes and can branch out into their specialized areas of medicine. "I decided to go into Native health after my residency," Kivimaki said. "This is something I'm definitely passionate about and Native communities certainly need it also. I did an internship at the Ho-Chunk clinic in Baraboo and I loved being able to work with my own people and helping as much as possible."

By the beginning of his fourth year in medical school Kivimaki had secured an internship at the OCHC with the help of NACHP. "I got to work in the clinic in Oneida and did most of my work with my preceptor Dr. Kennard," Kivimaki said. "I got to bounce around and learn different styles from different doctors and I saw a lot of patients which is why I'm doing this. I had an absolute blast in Oneida and the people are incredibly nice and welcoming. I even got to try some bison chili recently so the food's been great as well."

Upon graduating from medical school in May, Kivimaki will still be required to train in residency for three more years before being able to practice on his own. "I'm going into family medicine which entails pediatrics, internal medicine, geriatrics, and obstetrics and gynecology, so it's a variety,"

Kivimaki said. "For my residency I'm matched in with the Seattle Indian Health Board in Seattle. That was my number one pick because it's amazing what that clinic does for native communities in the Northwest. It's going to be a beautiful experience."

With a bright future ahead of him, Kivimaki has some sound advice for any Native American youth considering a career in the medical field. "Branch out and take advantage of the resources that are available to you," Kivimaki said. "Most tribes have an education office so let them help you look through the education process and don't count yourself out. It's a difficult process, for sure, but it's not impossible. Just make sure this is for you and go for it."

"I want to send a huge thank you to the Oneida community for the hospitality and welcoming me," Kivimaki said. "I really appreciate everything across the board that the people I've worked with and in the community have done for me. I highly recommend this for other people because this has been a wonderful experience."

Kivimaki is the son of Verdie and Tim Kivimaki of Tomah.

Wisconsin college creating degree programs for Foxconn jobs

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — A southeastern Wisconsin college is finalizing two new degree programs to train workers for the planned Foxconn electronics manufacturing complex.

Bryan Albrecht is president and chief executive officer of Gateway Technical College in Kenosha. He told the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel that Gateway will work with other state technical colleges and universities to complete the curriculum. The goal is to avoid duplication and strengthen what's already being offered at other colleges.

"We're really excited about it," Albrecht said. "It gives us a great opportunity to advance our programs and to bring new skill sets to our students with the automation and robotics that are leading this industry reform. It certainly positions Gateway and other technical colleges right in the mix for some of that training."

The programs will focus on advanced manufacturing technology and supply chain management. Final approval of the curriculum could come in May.

Foxconn offered the Wisconsin Technical College System support in January. Gateway will be a "strategic partner" in creating a pipeline to meet on-going employment needs, the company said.

The company expects to hire almost 240 employees with advanced manufacturing degrees and around 50 employees with supply chain management skills during the first five years of production.

The $10 billion manufacturing center in Mount Pleasant could employ up to 13,000 workers. The Taiwan-based company plans to manufacture advanced liquid crystal display panels for commercial and consumer uses, including televisions.

vulnerable set utilized for those purposes. Drugs are often used to control victims.”

Entertainment districts such as hotels and casinos are often hotbeds for these types of illegal activities. “If we can give enough information to industry workers and the public then we’re on the right track,” Kastelic said. “It is truly the eyes and ears of the community that will see the crime long before law enforcement will.”

Kastelic also says this training may even assist in opening up meaningful dialogue with young people. “Mothers, fathers, grandparents, and aunts and uncles can have that candid conversation to discuss the worries of drug addiction and the fact that there are monsters out there that will prey upon them if given the opportunity,” Kastelic said.

NADGI and the DOJ are hoping to bring this training to all tribal communities across the state of Wisconsin. “The more that we can harden the target and make these communities non-favorable environments for these people to set up shop in the better it will be for all,” Kastelic said. “Sex trafficking is definitely occurring here in Wisconsin and it happens every day. It’s amazing that no matter how many sting operations and take downs occur we still see adults come from all over to meet what they perceive to be children or their future sexual partners.”

“Everybody has a role to play in understanding what this is and reporting it,” Braun said. “We want people to understand that victims of this crime are often lured into trafficking and are kept in by manipulation or affection which can turn to violence or coercion. This is not an easy crime to spot but there are definite indicators that can be helpful to law enforcement. We want more eyes and ears out there as force multipliers to assist us so we can help victims sooner.”

GTC hears Radisson info at special meeting

By Christopher Johnson

The Oneida General Tribal Council (GTC) convened a special meeting at the Radisson Hotel & Conference Center on March 19. There were 1,618 council members in attendance for the agenda that included a carry-over item from the Jan. 28, 2018, Annual GTC Meeting as well as new items.

The first agenda item addressed was Accept the 2018 Annual Land Acquisition report which was a carry-over item from the Jan. 28 meeting. During the discussion GTC member Mary Graves made an amendment directing the Oneida Land Commission to bring a plan to the 2018 Semi-Annual meeting for the development of an LLC for the purpose of developing and building apartments, condos, or townhouses that are one, two, and three bedrooms in size. After some discussion the agenda item and amendment was accepted and passed by show of hands.

The GTC then heard presentations pertaining to the Treasurer's report regarding financial position, status, and needs of Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation (OAHC). The OAHC and a representative from Aimbridge, their management company, were present to answer questions regarding the financial and operations updates for the Radisson and Wingate Hotels. One of the hot topics that led to some lengthy discussion was the 33 rooms that have been unavailable for customer use at the Radisson since 2013.

The reasons given for the rooms still being out of service include the decision-making process of the previous hotel board and management, the rooms were not up to Radisson standards, and the lack of funds across this five year period to renovate them. The financial updates for the hotels eventually led to an amendment by Nancy Skenandore for a review of the completed, unredacted audits for the past five years on the Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation to be brought back to GTC in 60 days. The motion carried by show of hands. The main motion to accept the Treasurer's report on OAHC also carried by show of hands.

The final agenda item entertained by the GTC was to accept the Treasurer's report regarding the financial position, status, and needs of the Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation. Thornberry Creek at Oneida Chief Operating Officer Josh Doxtator addressed the GTC and provided an update on the facility's financial status and upcoming 2018

LPGA Classic.

Discussion on the Oneida Golf Enterprise topic led Nancy Barton to motion that documentation, information, resolution, and contract information about gaming restrictions and property taxes for Thornberry Creek at Oneida's golf course be brought back to GTC at the 2018 semi-annual meeting in July. The motion carried by show of hands.

The GTC then voted by hand count to accept the Treasurer's report regarding the Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation and to recess the Special GTC Meeting for sixty days and to continue the next meeting where this one left off.

Coffee with the Planners - need for gathering place

By Ronald Melchert
Planner

On Thursday March 15, the Oneida Nation Planners held the monthly "Coffee with the Planners" session. Topic of discussion was the second round of the Oneida Community Recreation Complex.

Many of the elders from the ONCOA board attended bringing some good input. They had some concerns and questions as to how the facility would be designed and be responsive to elder and youth needs, stating that the youth are an important group. They had asked during the development of the HWY 54 One Stop that a small dining area be included. It was a real loss of a gathering place when the BP

Grandma's dinner was discontinued. The elders stated that they often met their regularly. They had asked for a similar place to be included at the new service station. Unfortunately it was not added and it had left a bad impression on them, as elders, as to whether they are listened to or not.

Information on elder's population was shared.

There are currently 1113 elders living on the reservation and a total elder population of 4362. There is a national trend to help keep elders in their homes. With the statistics on our baby boomers reaching elder hood, we need to be mindful of the types of programs and services that we look to offer. In consideration of the length of time that it may take this project to progress into realization we also need to be aware of what the millennials will desire and the decreasing population of elders.

Other issues such as location of the development and potential programming to be offered were discussed. Location is just one of the complex issues that really need input and an understanding by all members of what it is hoped to be attained over the long term. Demographics show that a large population of members lives in the Green Bay city limits on the east side. Most studies would say you locate your services where the population base exists, but we have to consider some factors such as, is the population base transitory - rental based, invested in property - ownership or not able to find housing on the reservation. On the other hand a community development goal is to strengthen our Central Oneida core. Strengthen the area of Oneida that was once a thriving central gathering and market place within the community. To accomplish this we need to anchor some of our community based services back within our central community which in turn may serve to draw back our members. This does not mean to relocate or abandon our community facilities out at Site I, Site II, or Three Sisters, but we could compliment them. We also need to consider the potential relationship of the services to be offered with other existing service areas of the community. Areas such as schools and neighborhoods could benefit immensely with additional shared community based resources.

The "Coffee with the Planners" sessions have been a good vehicle to get input on planning efforts, we anticipate trying to schedule some of these future events out in the community on weekends and evenings when parents are home and not at work. A similar concern was voiced with hours of the recreation centers and family fitness facility. It is desirable to have accommodating hours for all groups of users.

Kansas governor signs bill protecting tribal regalia rights

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) ~ Kansas Gov. Jeff Colyer has signed a bill protecting the right of native Americans to wear tribal regalia and other cultural objects at public events.

The Lawrence Journal-World reports that the bill was sponsored by Rep. Ponka-We Victors. The Wichita Democrat is a member of both the Ponca Tribe of Oklahoma and the Tohono O'odham Nation in Arizona.

She contends some states have enacted similar laws in response to policies enforced at events like high school graduations where officials sometimes insist on strict dress codes.

The new law bars any state agency, school district or local government from prohibiting any individual from wearing tribal regalia at events or meetings.

Tribal Oriented Policing Strategies (TOPS)

April 10-11, 2018 | Green Bay, WI

Hosted by Oneida Nation and U.S. Attorney's Office, Eastern District of Wisconsin

About the Training

Explore strategies to enhance collaboration between law enforcement agencies and the community to reduce crime and improve community quality of life. Practice working in organized problem-solving teams through interactive exercises to develop an action plan using community policing principles to address specific public safety threats in your community.

TOPS key topics include:

- Community policing
- Team building and group development
- Building community partnerships
- Problem solving
- Identifying resources
- Police and community relationships

What will you gain?

After completing TOPS, you will be able to apply the core principles of community policing to address key community safety concerns and develop action plans using information, tools and resources from the training. Past participants accomplished some of the following through their community policing action plans:

- Developed an awareness campaign on prescription drug abuse and established a safe prescription drug drop-off program
- Developed a Gang Resistance and Intervention Program
- Co-sponsored a wellness conference with 6 other agencies to develop action plans focused on domestic violence, child sexual abuse, and youth prevention programs

Is this training right for you?

A variety of disciplines and stakeholders are encouraged to participate in this training together, including:

- Law enforcement
- Education
- Community leaders and professionals
- Elders and community members
- Courts
- Victim service providers and child welfare
- Tribal government
- Behavioral health and treatment

New film - "An Indigenous Response to #MeToo" is an engaging conversation starter

SYRACUSE, N.Y. ~ "An Indigenous Response to #MeToo" is a new half-hour Rematriation Magazine film featuring a group of cultural change-makers from Haudenosaunee Six Nations territories and the Guachichil de La Gran Chichimeca. The film's purpose is to share a culturally grounded and relevant response to address the #MeToo movement in Indigenous communities, to start group conversations and to lean into culturally based solutions.

Recently, more than 70 Indigenous people from across Haudenosaunee territories and communities around the world met for the 2018 launch of Rematriation Magazine - "Returning the Sacred to the Mother" at Syracuse University S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications. Rematriation Magazine, an Indigenous women's online publication, will include feature stories, videos, podcasts, interactives and other multimedia offerings focusing on topics important to Indigenous women. During the meeting, the women and men also discussed the #MeToo movement and how it has differed in Indigenous communities across Turtle Island from the mainstream. "An Indigenous Response to #MeToo" was a result of this discussion.

"The #MeToo movement has taken the country by storm and this is why I asked a group of Indigenous people to come together to discuss what is - and what is not - going on so that we can extend the conversation into our communities and take control of the narrative," says Michelle Schenandoah, chief executive officer and editor in chief of Rematriation Magazine. "We are not part of the mainstream society; yet knowing how pervasive sexual abuse is in our communities, this film provides a backdrop to explore this issue in our own way."

"The mainstream trend has been to outcast prominent men accused of sexual harassment, but what does #MeToo look like for Indigenous people?" asks Schenandoah. "There is no recourse for both men and women in the mainstream and there really hasn't been much direction beyond this point for the movement. As Indigenous people, we've been working to address sexual abuse a lot longer than in the mainstream."

"This film is intended to start group conversations within our Indigenous communities. We highlight examples of women and men who've created change by leaning into traditional teachings and ceremonies - and the impacts have been profound," says Schenandoah. "Acceptance of the mainstream does not have to be our response; it's not the healthiest option for our communities and we have our culture to help guide us."

"An Indigenous Response to #MeToo" makes an important, vital and timely contribution to the conversation on sexual and other forms of gender violence," says Hayley Marama Cavino, Ph.D., Māori: Ngāti Pūkenga/Ngāti Whitikaupeka, professor of Native American and Indigenous Studies at Syracuse University. "I was particularly struck by the assertion that our communities have long grappled with these issues, as well as how proximate we are to them - a particularly poignant moment in the film comes when one of the participants points out that we are talking about the behavior of fathers and brothers and relatives," says Cavino.

"One of our elders at home - Mereana Pitman - says that when you violate women and children you violate everyone, including yourself, because of the ways we are interconnected through genealogy," says Cavino. "Sexual violence is never - for us - only about what happens to the individual, but rather is an assault against the blood - against our ancestors, our children to come, and all with whom we are connected in present time and place."

sponsored this film for free-of-charge viewing by Indigenous nations, organizations, health care providers, educators, community members and those interested in joining the conversation. You may access "An Indigenous Response to #MeToo" on Vimeo by clicking here. To support similar projects, Rematriation is accepting online contributions at rematriation.com/donate. The Producers are also available for community screenings with discussions.

The film was produced by Indigenous Concepts Consulting for Rematriation Magazine. Executive Producer is Michelle Schenandoah; Co-Producer is Neal Powless; and Director is Katsitsionni Fox. The film features an all-Indigenous cast of community leaders and includes music by Joanne Schenandoah and "The Women's Power Song" written by the Akwesasne Women Singers.

Improve Your Life with Improv

By Marena Bridges

Community Education

When we think of improv (short for improvisation), we might think of comedy shows where comedians banter back and forth on a stage. It's true that most people you'll find in improv classes are aspiring professionals who want to improve on their craft. But, at least one-third of people who take improv classes are self-described as shy or anxious and hope that improv might help them overcome their social anxiety.¹

Those people might have come to the right place. The Panic/Anxiety Recovery Center (PARC) recommends improv classes to help with anxiety. According to their website, "Improvisation sets up a safe and fun environment for a person to undergo experiential self-directed learning. This personal growth results in not only being a better improviser, but a person is able to transfer this learning to every area of their life."² Some psychologists believe that improv can work as an effective complement for therapy for those suffering from anxiety. A psychologist from PARC argues, "Social anxiety is all about inhibition and self-censorship, and that's exactly what improv helps flip around."³

As if that wasn't enough reason to check out a local improv class, it can also help improve your career. Both MIT's Sloan School of Management and the Richard Ivey School of Business in Toronto have offered improv classes to their students. Billy Connelly, a comedian and career advisor, describes some of the career benefits of improv saying, "You are forced to collaborate, you have to let go of judgment, and you become a better listener."⁴ Improv can also help you embrace thinking on your feet and quickly shifting your perspective as the information you learn changes, both benefits in any work environment.⁵

If you're interested in reaping some of the benefits of improv for yourself, the Oneida Nation Arts Program is currently offering "Theatre Games", a free, day long introductory Improvisational Theatre workshop. Food will be provided. You can register online at <https://oneidacommunityeducationcenter.org/product/theatre-games/>.

Spring Events 2018

Sunday Biking on the East River Trail

Celebrate Earth day with Oneida Adventures! An exciting opportunity awaits you as you join us for a brisk bike ride along the East River in Green Bay. Using our bikes and helmets, or your own, we will wind amongst nature and take in the sights that this area has to offer. After a brief talk on safety, we will ride along the east river where we will stop along the way to have lunch in the great outdoors. Observe the beginning of spring as the earth comes to life! The Adventure is weather dependent.

When: Sunday, April 22, 10:00-2:00

Cost: Free for Native Americans and Employees, Sponsored by SDPI Grant. We have adult bikes only.

For Adults 18 and up. Youth age 9 and up are permitted with family/own bike. Call for more information!

Mindfulness Walk/Bike Activities

Join us in getting active at noon! We will be offering a mindfulness hike/walk or bike ride to provide an opportunity to center your mind and get active. Participants learn thoughtful/ healthy ways to use your time, and appreciate the wonders of the outdoors. Biking level is beginner to intermediate.

When: 12:00-1P; Mindful walk: April 12; Biking: April 17, May 10, 17

Cost: Free for Native Americans and Employees, Sponsored by SDPI Grant.

Helping prepare an economic development strategic plan for the Oneida Nation

Wednesday, April 11, 2018, Oneida Police Department, 2783 Freedom Road, Oneida, 5:00 p.m. – 6:30 p.m.

The Oneida Nation's most recent economic development plan was completed in 1997. A lot has changed in the last 20 years. The US and global economy endured the largest economic downturn in generations and technological advances and other disruptive forces have transformed entire industries. At the same time, entirely new business opportunities have emerged. As these trends have unfolded nationally, Northeast Wisconsin has been buffeted by structural changes in the economy. In the effort to keep pace, new planning initiatives have sought to strengthen the regional economy. These plans include the Greater Green Bay Chamber's economic development strategic plan launched in 2017 and Driving the Future: A Strategy for Fostering Collaborative Economic Development along the Interstate-41 Corridor completed in 2018 for the area from Green Bay to Fond du Lac.

In response to these new challenges, the Oneida Nation engaged TIP Strategies, an Austin-based economic development consulting firm, to help prepare an economic development strategic plan. This plan is intended to guide the Nation's growth over the next 10 years. The consulting team is working through the Discovery phase, the first in its three-phase approach—Discovery, Opportunity, and Implementation—to evaluate the Nation's position from an economic development perspective. Input from the tribe is an important part of the Discovery phase. If you are interested, please join us for the community meeting to learn about the plan and provide your input.

Help Stamp Out Hunger in Oneida on May 12

Saturday, May 12th marks the 26th anniversary of one of America's great days of giving — the National Association of Letter Carriers Stamp-Out Hunger Food drive. Letter carriers walk and drive through the Oneida community every day, often coming face to face with a sad reality for too many....hunger.

So, each year on the second Saturday in May, letter carriers across the country collect non-perishable food donations from our customers. These donations will go directly to your local Oneida Emergency Food Pantry.

Last year, we collected over 75 million pounds of food nationally, feeding an estimated 64 million people. Over the course of its 25-year history, the drive has collected approximately 1.6 billion pounds of food, thanks to a postal service universal delivery network.

The need for food donations is great. Currently, 49 million Americans—1 in 6—are unsure where their next meal is coming from. Thirteen million are children who feel hunger's impact on their overall health and ability to perform in school. More than 5 million seniors over age 60 are food deprived.

By springtime, many pantries are depleted, entering the summer low on supplies at a time when many school breakfast and lunch programs are not available to children in need.

Participating in this year's Letter Carrier Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive is simple. Just leave a non-perishable food donation in a bag by your mailbox on Saturday, May 12th and your letter carrier will do the rest.

The Oneida Post Office is proud to partner up with Marlon Skenandore and the dedicated volunteers at the Oneida Emergency Food Pantry. For more information on the food drive and how you can help, please contact Bruce Cole at the Oneida Post Office or Marlon Skenandore at the Oneida Emergency Food Pantry.

Muehl Library raising funds

The Muehl Public Library in Seymour has begun fundraising for an expansion project. The library is planning to add onto the existing building at 436 N. Main Street. This expansion will include a large multifunctional project area called a Makers Space Area and study rooms for meetings, sound recording and test taking.

The current space used for such activities as story time, Friday night movies, author visits, crafts, adult book club, summer reading program, and learning workshops is rather limited in size. The expanded area would allow for more event and space to hold more people. There will be greater capacity for exploration of ideas and projects for young children, teenagers and adults. A fundraising "thermometer" has been placed outside the library to display the progress of the fundraising.

The Muel Public Library has an extensive collection of books, movies and music and is also a member of Infosoup and the OWLS network (patrons can request materials from other libraries with the network and pick them up at our local library). Wireless and internet computers and other services are available as well. There is something for every age group offered at the Muehl Public Library and even more will be available with expanded space.

Current offerings include:

- Children: story time, summer reading program, authors, special programs/guests, Friday movie nights
- Teens: Anime, Thursday Go nights, authors, computers, WiFi, summer reading program, special programs/guests including a return visit by Carlos Nieto III on anime drawing, Friday movie night, Playaways, music
- Adults: reading club, computers, WiFi, multipurpose room/meetings, authors, field trips/programs, InfoSoup: books, movies, music through OWLS

Library staff are available to show you around or answer questions. At present, we have raised $30,000 toward the ultimate goal of $1,000,000. Plans are to build on in 2019 when the current structure will be celebrating 25 years. All monetary gifts are appreciated. Naming rights are negotiable for the two study rooms. For those rooms we are encouraging substantial gifts.

Thank you for dreaming with us. To make a donation to the library, or for more information please see: <http://www.muehlpubliclibrary.org/> support

Native fiber exhibit call for art

The Wisconsin Museum of Quilts and Fiber Arts is working with Oneida artist, Karen Ann Hoffman, to curate a Native Fiber exhibit opening January of 2019.

The exhibit "Native Fiber" takes a very inclusive definition of fiber. Cloth yes, but also plant fiber, quilts, beadwork, cordage, basketry, fur, leather and more...

"Native Fiber" will showcase the astonishing ways Native Americans work with these extraordinary materials to produce objects of great beauty and cultural content.

The exhibit is seeking original, Native made fiber fine art ranging from traditional to contemporary.

Tribes see improvements, hurdles as they charge non-Natives

By Felicia Fonseca

Associated Press
FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) ~American Indian tribes have taken greater control over prosecuting non-tribal members who commit some violent crimes in Indian Country five years after Congress passed a key law, a new report shows.

But gaps remain after the Violence Against Women Act allowed tribes to bring criminal charges against non-Natives in domestic violence cases. For example, it doesn't extend to violence against children or other family members, and tribal prosecutors are urging lawmakers to expand the law to cover everyone in a household. Tribal land was long known as a safe haven because U.S. authorities would only prosecute the most serious offenses and tribes lacked the ability to charge those who weren't Native Americans. Since the law passed in 2013, tribal communities are empowered to report wrongdoing, governments are better collaborating and tribes are updating their laws, public safety advocates say.

"It really has changed the culture in some of these tribes around domestic violence in a way that many people there report as overwhelming evidence," said Elizabeth Reese, a project attorney for the National Congress of American Indians.

The group released a report last month that shows the impact of the tribal provisions of the Violence Against Women Act: 143 arrests of non-Natives, leading to 74 convictions and five acquittals among 18 tribes in 11 states. About 90 percent of the victims are women.

The majority of cases are being tried within four tribes: Pascua Yaqui near Tucson, Arizona; the Eastern Band Of Cherokee Indians in western North Carolina; the Tulalip Tribes north of Seattle; and Fort Peck Tribes in northeastern Montana. The United States has 573 federally recognized tribes.

The Violence Against Women Act allows tribes to charge non-Natives for domestic violence against intimate partners or spouses and when protection orders are violated. The authority doesn't extend to violence against children, family members or law enforcement and doesn't include crimes by non-Natives who don't know their victims or crimes by tribal members against non-Indians.

"If you arrest a non-Native for domestic violence and the guy fights the cop, I wouldn't be able to charge that," said Scott Seifert, Fort Peck Tribes' chief prosecutor.

"And I wouldn't be able to charge if he had a baggie of dope in his pocket, or if he beats his child."

Tribal prosecutors also cannot charge property crimes, sexual misconduct, false imprisonment, threats, trafficking or stalking things they say limit their ability to make plea deals with offenders.

Legislation pending in Congress seeks to address some of those holes and ensure tribes have the financial resources to implement the law the most substantial hurdle for tribes, Reese said.

The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, for example, had to pay an unexpected $60,000 in medical care for a defendant in tribal custody, the report said. At Pascua Yaqui, unexpected costs came in funding Spanish interpreters and transporting defendants to detention facilities.

The National Congress of American Indians and others have called on Congress to give tribes full authority over all criminal offenses on land, regardless of the ethnicity of those involved.

A 1978 U.S. Supreme Court decision stripped tribes of criminal authority over non-Natives. Which police agency responds depends on whether the victim, suspect or both are Native American creating a complicated jurisdictional maze that sometimes results in no response, tribal officials say.

"It seems to be that perhaps our federal partners want to take more of a piecemeal approach that's evident by what's occurring here and consistent with some of the concerns that were initially voiced," said Oscar "OJ" Flores, Pascua Yaqui's chief prosecutor. "I'm anticipating it will probably happen in that fashion. Hopefully the increased pieces of jurisdiction will get larger as we go along."

Deputy U.S. Attorney General Rod Rosenstein has said about 85 percent of the Justice Department's Indian Country investigations relate to violent crime. He said domestic and sexual violence against women and children is pervasive.

"But it is not a reality that we are willing to accept," he said in an address to the National Congress of Americans earlier this year.

Giving tribes some criminal authority over non-Natives wasn't easy to push through Congress, with Republicans worrying about the fairness of tribal courts and not having impartial juries for trials on reservations.

Under the tribal provisions, defendants could seek recourse in federal court but none have, and juries have been made up of both Natives and non-Natives, according to the National Congress of American Indians report.

MLK tackled many issues in his lifetime. Where are we now?

By Russell Contreras

Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) ~ The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

fought for many issues throughout his life as a minister and the leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, speaking out against various barriers holding back blacks, Hispanics, Asian Americans and Native Americans. Fifty years after his assassination, some of these barriers have fallen — but others remain.

Here is a look at civil rights issues King addressed during his lifetime and where they stand now:

Four days after Rosa Parks was arrested for refusing to give up her seat on a Montgomery, Alabama, city bus, King exhorted a crowd at the Holt Street Baptist Church to launch a bus boycott. “Now let us go out to stick together and stay with this thing until the end,” he told the thousands gathered at the church that day in 1955.

A federal court ended racial segregation on Montgomery public buses, elevating King into the national spotlight. Years later, he stood behind President Lyndon Johnson at the signing of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which banned segregation in public places and employment discrimination on the basis of race or national origin.

Still, King’s legacy concerning desegregation remains mixed, according to Gordon Mantler, a professor at George Washington University.

“Yes, the traditional spaces like lunch counters and restrooms were integrated,” Mantler said. “But some lunch counters were shut down and public pools became private.”

And while schools became largely integrated in the 1980s, many have re-segregated. In 1988, for example, about 44 percent of black students went to majority-white schools nationally. Only 20 percent of black students do so today, according to a study examining the nation 50 years after the release of the landmark 1968 Kerner Report.

King’s participation in the 54-mile (87-kilometer) march from Selma, Alabama, to the state capital of Montgomery elevated awareness about the troubles blacks faced in registering to vote.

President Johnson addressed a special session of Congress after marchers were attacked by white mobs and police, successfully urging lawmakers to pass the Voting Rights Act.

Here, Mantler said King achieved a lasting effect. By the 1970s and 1980s, the American South had elected thousands of blacks to various offices, compared to almost none in the 1950s.

Black and Latino coalitions sprouted in Chicago, Los Angeles, New York and Houston to elect people of color to local and federal offices and eventually aided in electing the nation’s first black president.

King was assassinated in Memphis while coming to the aid of striking sanitation workers. He also was in the midst of organizing the Poor People’s March on Washington, a campaign that sought to highlight the economic and human rights of poor citizens of all ethnic backgrounds struggling with poverty.

Former U.S. Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, the last surviving member of the Kerner Commission, said the fight to reduce poverty remains one of King’s most significant unfinished works.

“There are far more people who are poor now than was true 50 years ago,” Harris said. “Inequality of income is worse.”

The percentage of people living in deep poverty, less than half of the federal poverty level has increased since 1975, according to a study marking the 50th anniversary of the Kerner Report. About 46 percent of people living in poverty in 2016 were classified as living in deep poverty — 16 percentage points higher than in 1975.

Rev. William J. Barber II, a Goldsboro, North Carolina, pastor who is leading a multi-ethnic “Poor People’s Campaign: A National Call for Moral Revival” later this year, said tackling poverty remains a moral obligation for the nation.

During King’s lifetime, landlords could refuse to rent to blacks and Latinos, and racial covenants and redlining allowed people of color to be excluded from buying homes in certain neighborhoods.

After King’s assassination, President Johnson asked Congress to pass the long-stalled Fair Housing Act, which banned refusing to rent or sell housing based on race, religion, sex, disability, familial status or national origin.

In the decades after the act’s passage, black homeownership rose by almost 6 percentage points. But those gains were wiped out from 2000 to 2015 when black homeownership fell 6 percentage points.

Harris, the former senator, said blacks were disproportionately affected by the subprime loan crisis of the late 2000s, which contributed to the further racial and economic segregation of neighborhoods, especially in urban areas.

Scammers seeking students seeking work

MADISON ~ Good-bye, spring break...hello, summer! For college and high school students statewide, the summer job hunt starts now, and the Wisconsin Departments of Workforce Development (DWD) and Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP) ask students to be on the lookout for questionable job postings, particularly those featuring too-good-to-be-true employment offers or those asking for upfront payment for training or materials.

"Businesses throughout Wisconsin are on the hunt for good candidates, but mixed within legitimate employment listings are job postings made by scam artists," said Michelle Reinen, DATCP's Director of the Bureau of Consumer Protection. "Students should be on the lookout for 'get rich quick' ploys, fake check scams, phony mystery shopper offers, and work-at-home schemes."

DWD operates JobCenterofWisconsin.com, the state's free online public labor exchange that connects talent with opportunity and currently has over 95,000 job postings. While DWD strives to validate the identity of all employer representatives who post jobs directly on the site, users are also advised to use caution if they opt to search external sites from JobCenterofWisconsin.com.

"At the Job Center of Wisconsin, our top priority is maintaining trust in the security of our system," DWD Division of Employment & Training Division Administrator Chytania Brown said. "We do everything we can to ensure our registered job seekers and employers are protected from any intentional misuse. Even so, visitors to our site must also take responsibility for and carefully examine their own online interactions and activities."

JobCenterofWisconsin.com includes a list of cautions, including many that are applicable to any online employment site. DWD and DATCP offer the following tips to help students protect themselves when they seek seasonal jobs:

- It is not common or normal practice for an employer to ask for your personal information, such as your Social Security number and bank account number (or similar personal financial information) on an initial application. Be wary and use good judgment if unusual information is requested.

- Be suspicious of any job offer that requires an upfront fee. Do not provide credit card or bank account numbers and be careful of requests for payment by wire transfer.
- Any "job" that requires you to cash a check and send any amount of it to another party is a scam.

- Be cautious when dealing with any contacts outside of the United States. It is difficult to pursue any enforcement action against a person located outside of this country.

- Research an organization before making any commitments. Ask for information about the company, including its street address and the name of its owner or chief operating officer. You may wish to call DATCP's Consumer Protection Hotline (800-422-7128) to check on complaints against the business.

- Get the job offer in writing, including any earnings you are expected to make.

- If the interview request or job offer is for a job you did not apply for, it is most likely a scam.

- Scammers often send "spoofed" emails with forged email headers that make the messages appear to have originated from someone or somewhere other than the actual source. If the web address (URL) referenced in the sender's email address does not match the true URL for the business in question, the email may be a scam. The official email address for the Job Center of Wisconsin is JobCenterofWisconsin@dwd.wisconsin.gov.

A common employment scam to watch out for begins with an email request for a "Google Hangout" interview for a work-at-home position. The scammer uses a legitimate company name and claims to have found the job seeker's resume on an online employment site. After a job offer is made during the "interview," the job seeker is sent a check or money order for "office supplies and equipment," is instructed to deposit it into their personal account, and is told to buy expensive equipment from a particular vendor. Unfortunately, the check or money order are fake and the job seeker will be on the hook for the full amount of money withdrawn when the bank discovers the fraud.

For additional information on job opportunities in Wisconsin, visit the Job Center of Wisconsin website. A number of DATCP fact sheets relating to job scams can be found on the agency's consumer fact sheets webpage under the "Employment" heading.

Denny brothers enjoying their time on the rugby pitch

Rugby is a rough and tumble game, and brothers Josh and Matt Denny wouldn't want it any other way.

"The comradery is the best out of all the sports that I've ever played. The respect for the other team, like everybody helps each other. After every game you have a meal with the other team and get to know them," said Josh. "And it's fun to hit people."

"I like to play rugby because it's more constant. It's just going and going and going. There are no breaks in rugby," said Matt.

Josh, a junior at Southwest High School, started playing rugby his freshman year after not being able to play football due to a torn ACL.

"I was watching TV and just flipping channels and the rugby game was on. And it just so happens that one of my dad's friends coached this team, the Leprechauns, and it's all history from there," said Josh.

Josh missed a year of play due to injuries sustained in a car accident.

"I had to work really hard to come back from that," said Josh. "That was terrible."

Josh plays the hooker position, which is a forward, for the Green Bay area high school club team, and played for Badger Selects in a tour-namment in the Nashville Rugby National Tournament March 10-11.

"Getting on the select team is a really good opportunity," said Josh. "We get (college) scouts from everywhere." He plans to play rugby in college, possibly at UW-Whitewater, Lindenwood University, or UW-Stout.

Josh says the key to playing rugby is mental toughness.

"You have to keep going when you think you can't go anymore. If you're running laps and you think you can't go anymore, you have to go that extra step, you got to eat right, you got to work out right, you really have to put all your time into it," he said.

Eighteen-year-old Matt plays the scrum-half position, which is like a quarterback.

"I like running a lot, the scrum-half runs a lot during rugby, so I like running and how fast it got me," he said.

Matt will play for the men's team Green Bay Celtics this summer. He plans on going to NWTC in the fall. Their mother Jean Denny was a little worried about her sons playing this contact sport.

"It's scary at first because there is no padding, but there's such respect among the players that they don't take cheap shots, and I've seen less injuries playing rudy than I have with say football or other sports," she said. It's just such a tight knit family community, and they are always encouraging. The men will always come to help with the youth and the high school, it's amazing."
