On Saturday, May 12, the Oneida General Tribal Council (GTC) reconvened at the Radisson Hotel & Conference Center to complete items contained on the March 19, 2018, agenda. As the meeting commenced 1,178 tribal citizens were on hand to hear agenda items pertaining to the Treasurer's report regarding the financial position, status, and needs of Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation (OAHC) as well as the Treasurer's report regarding the financial position, status, and needs of Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation (OGEC).

The GTC voted to permit Kurt Gresens, an OAHC audit partner, to address the membership in regards to the Treasurer's report regarding the OAHC. The OAHC report, as well as the OGEC agenda item, touched off more than two hours of heated discussions on the floor regarding the accuracy and integrity of these financial reports. Following the floor discussions GTC member Kerry Cornelius motioned to accept the OAHC report which carried by show of hands. However, an amendment to the main motion passed by GTC requires that an update with full details regarding the OAHC audit will be brought back before the GTC when completed.

The OGEC agenda item was handled by Pro Golfers Association (PGA) Chief Operating Officer

Oneida Nation's economic impact on region revealed

The Oneida Nation's economic impact in Brown and Outagamie Counties across a three-year period was shared at a press conference held on May 16 at the Norbert Hill Center. The study, conducted by St. Norbert College, revealed the tribe is annually responsible for about $744 million in output, $214 million in compensation, and 5,465 jobs.

"The Oneida Nation has been in Wisconsin for nearly 200 years," Oneida Nation Chairman Tehassi Hill said. "Fifty years ago Oneida's approved budget was $360 and unemployment was disproportionately high. So that's (how far) we've come in our recent history. Over the past 50 years we've experienced a phenomenal economic growth."

The Oneida Nation is responsible for 2.7 percent of gross regional product, 1.4 percent of employee compensation, and 1.7 percent of jobs in the two counties, Hill said. "Our success has been measured economically," Hill said. "But most importantly it shows the success of our economic partners in Northeast Wisconsin. Our customers, our vendors, and our neighbors have all contributed significantly to our success so we'd like to thank (all of them). Our institutions of higher education, our businesses, and our local and state governments have been great partners with the Oneida Nation so that we've been able to have this economic impact on the region and state. It helps us all when we're all thriving and participating in the economy and education."

The Oneida Nation generates an average of $89 million annually in government revenue with $33.4 million going to the local and state level. These amounts include, but are not limited to, income taxes, retirement taxes, property taxes, sales tax, and compact fees.

Oneida Spirit Canoe construction underway

An Edge of the Woods Ceremony took place on May 10 in the Little Bear Industrial Park directly across from the Oneida Food Pantry on Water Circle Place. The ceremony officially kicked off the construction of the Oneida Spirit Canoe which is being built by, left to right, Josy Thomas, his son Josy, Jr., and Raheem Hajjaoe, from Six Nations, Ontario (Onondaga). Upon completion the birch bark canoe will be placed on display at the 12th Annual Woodland Indian Art Show and Market on June 1-3, 2018, at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center. Construction has been delayed due to issues getting construction supplies over the Canadian border, but is ongoing. To witness the canoe's construction, turn north on Olson Road off Highway 54 and then east on Water Circle Place.

Training for safety in an emergency

By Kaylynn Gresham
Emergency Management
Director

The Oneida Nation participated in an Emergency Operations Center Functional Exercise on Thursday, May 10.

During the exercise the Oneida Nation Emergency Management Department activated the EOC for a simulated response to a severe weather event affecting several areas of the Oneida Reservation.

In attendance at the exercise were several OBC members and several employees from Oneida Nation Departments including OPD, Environmental Health Safety and Land, Transit/Shuttle, Comprehensive Housing Division, Oneida Community Health Center, Oneida Public Health, Elder Services, Planning, MIS, Intergovernmental Affairs and Communications, DPW and Utilities.

Neighboring jurisdictions also attended the exercise to provide assistance to the response: Oneida Fire Department, Red Cross, Brown County Emergency Management, Outagamie County Emergency Management, Brown County Public Health, and local ARES (Armature Radio Emergency Services). The exercise simulated responses from all of the entities involved and played through how each entity would respond in an actual emergency for severe weather for affected areas of the Oneida Nation Reservation.

The Oneida Nation briefly removed its cannabidiol (CBD) products from its retail shelves in response to an April 27 Wisconsin Department of Justice (DOJ) notice. The nation is monitoring the situation as the tribe looks to make its way back into the industrial hemp industry.

The Oneida Retail Division briefly pulled its supply of Cannabidiol (CBD) products from its shelves following an April 27 document released by the Wisconsin Department of Justice (DOJ). However, the removal of the products was short-lived as the Oneida Market returned the items to its shelves as of May 11, according to store supervisor Audra Gardner.

The DOJ document states that products containing CBD, a non-psy-choactive compound found in hemp plants, are illegal to possess and sell in Wisconsin. According to the document, the only legal way to obtain, possess, and use any CBD products in Wisconsin is if it is prescribed by a physician or pharmacy operating with a valid investigational drug permit issued by the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

With the Oneida Nation, and numerous Wisconsin farmers, preparing to re-enter the industrial hemp industry, the timing of the release of the DOJ document created confusion as CBD production plays a large part in farmer's plans with hemp crops. "It doesn't make a lot of sense," Oneida Nation Councilman Daniel Guzman said. "There are already numerous companies within Wisconsin that have been producing and selling CBD products. So it's really put a lot of people in a weird position, including one of our Oneida retail outlets.

"I can't speak for our entire Business Committee at this time," Guzman said. "But I know where a few of us stand on this issue and we are for selling CBD oil. But we will make a decision as a whole within the next

Lay your money down: Court says states can OK sports betting

By Jessica Gresko and Wayne Parry

Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) ~ The Supreme Court cleared the way Monday for states coast to coast to legalize betting on sports, breaking a longtime ban and creating a potential financial boon for states and the gambling industry. The first bets could be placed within weeks.

Despite opposition from the major sports leagues and the Trump administration, the high court struck down a federal law that had barred betting on football, basketball, baseball and other sports in most states. States that want to take advantage of the ruling now will generally have to pass legislation to allow sports books to open. Some, including New Jersey, which brought the case to the Supreme Court, have a head start.

Sports leagues had expressed concerns about any expansion of sports gambling. Their huge businesses could be badly harmed if people thought the outcome of games could be altered by someone who had wagered money on a certain result.

However, the ruling also could be seen as merely bringing an activity out of the shadows that many people already see as a mainstream hobby. Americans wager about $150 billion on sports each year illegally, according to the American Gaming Association. The law the justices struck down forbade state-authorized sports gambling with some exceptions and made Nevada the only state where a person could wager on the results of a single game.

Stock prices for casino operators and equipment makers surged after the ruling was announced.

Gambling on sports could quickly become widely available, with one research firm estimating that 32 states would likely offer sports betting within five years.

The ruling "opens up the floodgates" for sports gambling in any state that wants to have it, said Daniel Wallach, a sports law expert in Florida.

Oneida mother reunites with daughter

The year was 1963, and a young Oneida Nation citizen named Deloris (Dee) Groth had just given birth to a baby girl. Unfortunately, Groth had been raised in foster care and was on Wisconsin welfare which made raising a child extremely difficult. Groth felt the best thing she could do for her infant daughter was place her up for adoption.

At the time, Groth didn't believe she was ever going to see her daughter again. "I was specifically told by the state not to try to look for her or contact her so I didn't think I'd ever see her again," Groth said. "I was told to forget about her. But fortunately, all these years later, she decided to contact the State of Wisconsin and told them she wanted to know about me. Suddenly last year I received a message from the state saying she wanted to meet me."

Groth's reaction to the news is not surprising. "This has been such a haze of happiness," Groth said. "It turns out my daughter, Carolle Duncan, was raised in Illinois and has now been happily married for many years."

"I learned I was adopted when I was about ten years old," Duncan said. "I've wondered about my birth mother most of my life. I wondered who she was, where she was, why she gave up on me, did I have any siblings, did she think of me, and if I resembled her."

Carolle Duncan (left) of Roscoe, Ill., was recently reunited with her mother Deloris "Dee" Groth (middle) and uncle Mike Hill (right). Duncan was placed into adoption as an infant and only recently learned her family history. Groth and Hill, Oneida Nation citizens, were also reunited in the early 1970s after learning they were siblings.

Duncan began the process of trying to locate her mother about a year ago after repeatedly seeing Ancestry.com commercials on television. Her adoptive parents had told her she was part Oneida, but she wasn't sure if that was true. And every time she had an appointment with a new doctor she was asked about her family history and she was unable to provide answers.

"So last year Ancestry.com was offering discounted kits so I ordered one," Duncan said. "It confirmed that I was 34 percent Native American so I began searching for my birth parents. My adoptive parents had told me I was born in Green Bay so I submitted the necessary paperwork with the Wisconsin Department of Children and Families. By October of 2017 I received an email informing me that they had spoken to my birth mother. I was so happy they had found her and that I wasn't too late in finding her."

Duncan says she didn't begin the search sooner because her adoptive mother had told her all of the records had been destroyed in a fire. Now knowing that wasn't true, Duncan holds no resentments because she knows her adoptive mother was just fearful that she would lose her.

Duncan's husband Brian has been fully supportive of her efforts and, like her, wishes she had begun the search sooner. And despite some initial uncertainties, Duncan said she is glad she made this effort. "I was afraid and I had to push myself to reach out to (Dee)," Duncan said. "First by email, then I had to push myself to call her, then I

Dayton vetoes bill repealing wild rice water standards

ST. PAUL, MN (AP) – Gov. Mark Dayton on Wednesday vetoed a bill that would nullify a water quality standard that's meant to protect wild rice, calling it an "extreme overreach" that would guarantee lawsuits.

The legislation passed by the Republican Legislature would have nixed a largely unenforced 1973 law limiting sulfate discharges into water where wild rice grows to 10 milligrams per liter. Supporters argued that standard is outdated and would cost mining companies hundreds of millions of dollars. Opponents argued those standards protect a food that's integral to Ojibwe culture. Lawmakers from the Iron Range introduced bills that would get rid of the longstanding standard while a longer-term solution is worked out, but Dayton said doing so would be going backward. "Wild rice is very special to Minnesota. It is essential to the culture and spirituality of many Native American Tribes in our state," Dayton wrote.

Dayton did acknowledge that recent studies have questioned whether the limit was necessary on all wild rice waters, especially when sulfate treatment can be costly for mining companies and municipalities.

The Democratic governor says lawmakers have enough time to reach a workable compromise before the Legislature adjourns May 21.

Anonymous benefactor buys sacred pipe at auction for Sioux

Worthington, MN (AP) – A clay pipe linked to the U.S.-Dakota War of 1862 and considered sacred by Native Americans in Minnesota is being returned to the Sioux people after being sold at auction.

The Lower Sioux Indian Community unsuccessfully tried to stop the sale. Minnesota Public Radio reports the pipe was auctioned in Boston on Saturday for $40,000, nearly twice its estimated value.

Prairie Island Tribal Council President Shelley Buck says the buyer, who wishes to remain anonymous, wanted to return the relic, and that's being arranged.

The U.S.-Dakota War lasted six weeks and left hundreds of Sioux, settlers and soldiers dead. The pipe was a peace offering for a soldier from Sioux Chief White Dog, one of 38 Sioux hanged in Mankato on Dec. 26, 1862, for alleged war crimes.

Statement on legal win for wetlands

MADISON, WI — Clean Wisconsin, along with the Ho-Chunk Nation through their representative Midwest Environmental Advocates, made the following statement after the Administrative Law Judge ruled to invalidate a permit issued by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources to frac sand company Meteor Timber to fill 16.25 acres of pristine wetland in Monroe County:

“This is a significant victory for the people of Wisconsin, our pristine wetlands, and the integriety of our environmental laws. The decision confirms that DNR did not follow the permitting process required by state law. This decision reinforces DNR’s duty to protect our natural resources for the public. We will continue to defend the public’s right to protection of our natural resources in the legislative, agency, and judicial arenas.”

On behalf of its more than 30,000 members, supporters and its coalition partners, Clean Wisconsin protects and preserves Wisconsin’s clean air, water and natural heritage

The Ho-Chunk Nation is one of the strongest indigenous Nations in the United States. The Nation’s land extends throughout the Midwest, including significant tribal and trust lands in Wisconsin. There are many Ho-Chunk members throughout the state, and their history and culture is tied to Wisconsin. Ho-Chunk members and lands are dispersed throughout the area of Wisconsin most heavily impacted by industrial sand mining. The Nation’s government is dedicated to protecting their people and their lands for this and future generations. The expansive and permanent destruction of the landscape, including wetlands, for industrial sand mines threatens the Nation’s people, land, and cultural heritage.

Midwest Environmental Advocates is a public interest organization that uses the power of the law to support communities fighting for environmental accountability. Learn more about the Midwest Environmental Advocates on the web at midwestadvocates.org, like MEA on Facebook or follow @MidwestAdvocate on Twitter.

Oneida exploring industrial hemp options

THE ONEIDA NATION BELIEVES that agricultural practices have very real consequences for people's lives, including adverse impacts like food-borne illnesses, groundwater pollution and soil depletion. Sustainable agriculture is a way of raising food that is healthy for consumers and animals, does not harm the environment, is humane for workers, respects animals, provides a fair wage to the farmer, and supports and enhances rural communities.

The Oneida Nation is always looking at ways of increasing the nutritional intake of our community members, while decreasing the food related health issues (diabetes, heart disease, obesity) on the Reservation.

According to 2009 Health Risk Assessment data from Oneida employees, 50.6% were in the high to extremely high risk for Body Fat. In 2010, this number grew to 60.6%, a 19.8% increase. The associated increased risk for chronic diseases is also evident. Chronic Disease rates among Wisconsin adults include Arthritis (25.2%), Asthma (12.8%), Diabetes (7.1%), Heart Disease (3.8%), and Stroke (2.0%). Among Oneida Community Health Center patients, diabetes is a staggering 15.6% and metabolic syndrome 4.3%. According to the Indian Health Service, Native Americans die at a higher rate than other Americans from diabetes by 195%.

The Oneida Nation is exploring the viability of producing Industrial Hemp as a healthy food initiative. Industrial Hemp IS NOT marijuana. Industrial Hemp contains below 0.3% THC, while marijuana can contain anywhere from 6 or 7% to 20% or more THC. Here are just some of the nutrition benefits of hemp:

- The protein and fiber combine to slow digestion, which prevents spikes in blood sugar.
- The oil is the richest known source of polyunsaturated essential fatty acids (the 'good' fats).
- It is high gamma linoleic acid, a very rare nutrient found in mother's milk.
- The seed has a substance surrounding it that has proven to prevent epileptic seizures.
- The Omega-3 fatty acids reduce the risk of cardiovascular disease and lowers blood pressure.

Hemp can constitute an important element in nutrition, health, and cosmetics with the prospect of playing a major role in preventing disease and reducing health care expenditures.

- In addition, industrial hemp also has positive environmental and economic factors:
- Uses no pesticides or herbicides-two leading pollutants in ground water.
- Uses ½ the amount of water that cotton does.
- Hemp fabric has 4x the tensile strength of cotton.
- 1 acre of hemp produces as much paper as 4.1 acres of trees.
- 1 ½ acres of rainforest are lost every second due to timber value.

- Taproots bring subsoil nutrients to the surface and protect from erosion.
- Of the 28 native birds studied from 1966-1995, half are in decline. Yet feral hemp, which contains the wildbird food seed of choice, a seed that is sold (imported and sterilized) in pet stores as high-priced parrot feed, is branded a drug plant and a noxious weed.
- Farming only 6 percent of the U.S. with hemp could produce enough energy to end American's dependence on fossil fuels.
- American cropland, 85% of which is stuck on a soil-depleting, chemical-dependent treadmill of corn, wheat and soybean production, could be released and renewed if hemp were used in rotation.
- In England and Hungary, hemp grown in rotation with wheat hiked the wheat harvest 20 percent.
- In one study, hemp grown in rotation with soybeans knocked down cyst nematodes by more than half.
- Anything that can be made out of wood or plastic can be made out of hemp.

Josh Doxtator. Despite being available for questions from the GTC, Doxtator was only directly addressed a few times. Due to ongoing internal matters involving both OAHG and OGEC, the GTC voted to table this item until all completed information could be brought back to GTC in a thorough, comprehensive, and trustworthy manner, however long that process may take.

The next items addressed involved accepting the 2010-2016 GTC Directives update as information only. These items had previously been on GTC agendas since Feb. 2017 and as a result GTC voted by show of hands to remove these items from the table.

The final agenda item addressed was entitled Capital Improvement Plan (CIP) –Government Services for 2018-2023. Oneida Nation Treasurer Trish King provided an explanation of how the CIP process works, however GTC member Madelyn Genskow motioned to recess the meeting for 60 days before action could be taken on this item. The other items pertaining to Tsyunhehkwá and the Dollars for Art Grant Program will also be brought back in 60 days. The meeting then adjourned at 2:15 p.m.

Tehassi Tasi Hill
Chairman

I'd like share information about Oneida's contributions to economic growth and development in the region. St. Norbert College's Center for Business & Economic Analysis recently completed research on the Oneida Nation's economic impact on Brown and Outagamie counties. In addition to the employment and services to our community, the study looked at a variety of ways our Nation contributes positively to the local economy.

Local business activity, jobs and tax revenues increase as a direct result of activities of the Oneida Nation. As one of the largest employers in the area, the ripple effects of our employees using their income to purchase groceries, homes, cars, and services including healthcare and childcare, contributes positively to not only the economy, but also to the quality of life. It is no surprise to any of us, but will serve as a reminder to our neighbors of the significant contributions of Oneida far beyond our reservation boundaries and membership.

We recently hosted a press conference to share the details of the economic impact study of the Oneida Nation and you will be sure to hear more about our Nation's contributions in coming weeks. Oneida's footprint within the greater community in undeniable and I believe this study will showcase our strengths as a Nation.

Tribal leadership continues to work hard on behalf of our constituents. It is a difficult but necessary task to continue to educate legislators of Tribal governments and sovereignty. Last month the efforts of Tribal leadership paid off as two majors bills passed. I traveled to Madison to be in attendance at the Capitol for Governor Walker's signature on two bills that closely affect Indian Country. Assembly Bill, AB118, which you may hear referred to as the Burial Mounds bill, modifies current statutes regarding the preservation of burial sites in Wisconsin and provides more protection to sacred sites. This is a victory for us and all our relatives.

The other bill Governor

Walker signed was Senate Bill, SB488, also known as the Tribal ID Bill. Although the Federal Government has recognized Tribal ID's as an acceptable form of identification, the signing of this bill allows individuals to use their tribal identification cards for more purposes than previously allowed within Wisconsin. Although we are our own Nation, this bill signifies the State acknowledging our rights as a sovereign nation. While these are small wins, there is still much work to do.

The Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council (GLITC) Board of Directors recently had the opportunity to meet with the Wisconsin Department of Corrections Secretary Litscher. We were able to hear the proposed plan to convert Lincoln Hills to an adult facility and to learn of plans to establish juvenile residential facilities throughout the state. Currently nearly 9% of Lincoln Hills' population is Native youth and we want to ensure the needs of our youth are considered in upcoming changes.

With the discussion of youth and corrections, we can't ignore how drugs and alcohol affect the lives of some of our youth. Their lives may be negatively affected by family and community members who are fighting addiction, but sometimes they are battling addiction themselves. Recognizing the need for our youth to receive treatment incorporating cultural principles, GLITC is overseeing a comprehensive feasibility study on the potential of developing an inpatient adolescent treatment facility or a Youth Regional Treatment Center in Wisconsin. Currently the closest location of this kind is in South Dakota. This need has been discussed for some time and I am glad the study is underway and anticipated to conclude in June.

You should have received a survey from the Sustain Oneida Project Initiative in the mail. I encourage each of you to take the time to complete the survey and share your thoughts regarding our Nation's enrollment criteria, benefits and services, and member responsibility. Your feedback is critical in planning how we move forward as a Nation to ensure we are here for generations to come.

As you prepare for the beautiful season ahead, remember to bring your family to On·yote·a·ká Lake this Saturday, May 19. There will be a celebration of earth day beginning at 9:00AM and a tree giveaway at 11:00AM.

'Project Success' Implemented at the College of Menominee Nation

Project Success began fall semester 2017 at College of Menominee Nation (CMN). Its first step was creation of a paid student internship in the Inter-governmental Affairs Office of the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin. The student chosen for the internship is working with the Chairperson's office to help organize meetings and assisting with public service work. The intern currently helps with the tribe's efforts with stopping the proposed Back Forty Sulfide mine along the Menominee River on Wisconsin's Northeast border with Upper Michigan.

Another component of Project Success is a new Emergency Aid Program which so far has paid out over $4,300 to CMN students. This money is reserved through a program called Achieving the Dream. It is designed to help students who face emergency financial obstacles which could force them to withdraw from classes. One student who received financial assistance was able to finish the semester and graduated from CMN in December of 2017.

The College of Menominee Nation Student Services Office coordinates all the campus efforts related to the project. Student Services gathers data to analyze how CMN can adapt specific changes to enhance student success. The data encompasses areas such as enrollment, graduation percentages, race, gender and age groups and their success rates. Student Services tracks the rate students persist from semester to semester and from year to year.

The over-all goal of the initiative called Project Success can be found on the project's website, <https://community.mygreatlakes.org/community/project-success>. There it states, "The U.S. Department of Education's Office of Federal Student Aid (FSA) started Project Success in 2016 to help more students at Minority Serving Institutions (MSIs) complete their degrees."

From this starting point, the project was brought to tribal colleges through the American Indian Higher Education Consortium, (AIHEC), and the Great Lakes Higher Education Corporation & Affiliates to aid students, community colleges, and tribal colleges develop greater success throughout the entire college experience. Project Success has developed programs in key issue areas such as, student loan repayment, student retention and the overall, continued success for each student, focusing on underserved students of color, low-income households and first generation college students.

A major component of Project Success is Achieving The Dream, (ATD). Through the ATD program, Project Success is contributing to CMN and 34 other Tribal Colleges and Universities (TCUs) and four Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) with a suite of proven student success programs. Offerings include a paid internship program, an emergency grant program, financial literacy training and more—all offered free of charge. Some programs were developed by Great Lakes and others by trusted partners including Achieving the Dream, Carnegie Math Pathways and Center for Community College Student Engagement.

High school graduation can affect child support

By Mike Hoeft
Oneida Nation Child Support Agency

With high school graduation season upon us, some parents may see an end to their days of receiving - or paying - child support.

By law, a parent's duty to support his or her child continues until the child turns 18, or age 19 if the child is still enrolled in high school or working on a high school equivalency course. If past-due support is owed, the child support case is still enforceable.

Emancipation notices are sent to both parents 90 days before the child's 18th birthday. The order for current support will end when the youngest child turns 18 unless a parent provides proof to the agency that the child is still attending school or is enrolled in a program to obtain his or her GED. If the child emancipating is not the youngest child the order will continue unless a party requests a modification of the order.

If your child is going to be 18 soon and you have not received a notice in the mail, you should contact our agency to make sure your address is up to date.

Parents may submit the child's graduation date to our agency up to 30 days after the child turns 18. Otherwise, a party will need to file a motion with the court to have the current child support amount reinstated.

If arrears or past-due support is owed when current support ends, child support will continue to be enforced and collected. Income withholding may continue at the same level of collection until arrears are paid in full.

The parents may sign a written agreement (stipulation) reducing or eliminating arrears owed to the custodial parent. The court must approve this agreement. This agreement will not change any support a parent owes to the state.

Oneida Nation Child Support Agency's main phone number is (920) 490-3700. Our offices are at 2640 West Point Road in Green Bay. Our mailing address is P.O. Box 365 Oneida, WI 54155.

Typical questions:

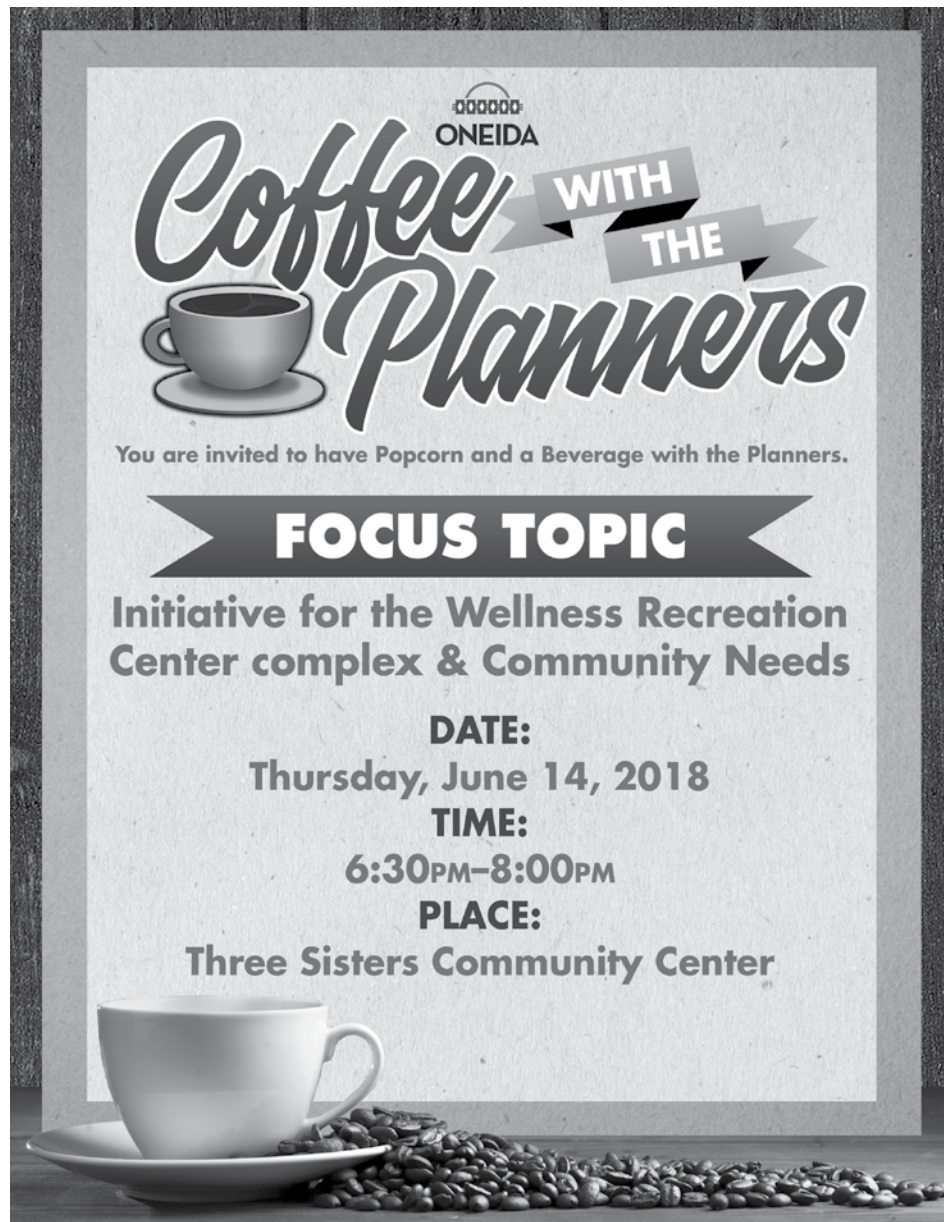

Q. My daughter turned 18 in February, but does not graduate from high school until June. When will my child support order end?

A. Your duty to pay current child support ends during the month that your 18-year-old daughter graduates. Check your child support order to see if the end date for graduation has been provided. If not, and you know your child's graduation date, contact our Agency by calling (920) 490-3700.

Q. My son dropped out of high school and will turn 18 in a few months. When can I stop paying child support?

A. Your order for current support will end when your child turns 18, unless you or the other parent shows documentation to our agency that your child is not yet 19 and has returned to high school or is enrolled in a program to obtain his GED.

May means Culture Days

Culture Day photo from 2017.

By Jesse Montoya
Thunderhawk Times

An annual ONHS tradition as the weather warms up is Oneida Language and Culture Days.

In fact, the first sentence of the Oneida Nation School System's Philosophy reads, "The source of our continued survival emerges from our Oneida cultural beliefs."

That Philosophy ends with "Through the strength of the Oneida Language and Culture, our responsibility to our children and to the generations to come is to prepare our students for leadership roles and positions of responsibility."

Sign-up posters were on the walls the week of May 7 for the various events that make up the day, which is scheduled this year for May 24.

Events include a fry bread making contest,

Oneida singing, Oneida Trivia, Lacrosse and Archery.

For this writer, this year is a little bit different. I am going to be graduating this year, so this is my last culture days as a part of the school. I have always liked having culture days because it everyone gets to show their skills for the events that they can sign up for. Everyone always has a good time.

Graduation Taking Shape

By Ottawa Brown
Thunderhawk Times

Thursday, June 7 is the night set aside to recognize the graduation of the ONHS Class of 2018.

The ceremony will be held at the Radisson Hotel and it begins at 5:00pm.

That night 25 seniors will be receiving their diplomas for the completion of the 23.5 credits required to graduate. Later this summer, 5 seniors will also be completing their 15 credit diplomas and receiving their diplomas from the school board in July.

Some thoughts of this writer on graduation:

Graduation is a requirement, but too many teens who graduate treat it as if it were a life accomplish-

Many students here at Oneida High School have known one another and had been together since young ages. When growing up and seeing your best friends accomplish the same goals as they did to try and make it out of school to live a better life is the best feeling anyone can ever experience.

So, when you see graduate students, just know that they had been waiting for that moment ever since they were kids.

The budget meeting is a meeting that talks about everything money related about the tribe.

As a part of the program, Maya and Dylan presented a PowerPoint to the Treasurer and to the rest of the people at the meeting on why we, as the ONHS students and staff need to revamp our school.

New Bad Wolves and Sevendust Albums Hit Shelves

On Friday, May 11th, both bands Bad Wolves and Sevendust dropped new albums.

Bad Wolves dropped 'Disobey' with the biggest hits being their cover of the Cranberries' "Zombie" and their original hits "Better the Devil," "Learn to Live" and "No Masters."

Meanwhile, Sevendust dropped their album 'All I See Is War' with the hit single "Dirty" and promotional songs "Not Original" and "Medicated."

Disobey was given an average of 8/10 ratings and "All I See Is War" was given an average of 7.5/10.

These albums are said to take many of us back to the 2000's Nu-Metal era, but with a slightly new sound. Many rock and metal fans have been seeing throwbacks in music style, and are currently anticipating more similar music.

During the morning of Tuesday, May 8, ONHS science teacher Dale Halam took students from his Earth Science and Astronomy classes to the Turtle School to plant trees. Even students in his General Science class got involved, because they weren't able to get all the trees planted in a couple of class periods.

They worked with Melissa Johnson from the tribe's conservation or environmental department.

The 35 trees were donated by the Green Bay Packers and planted in front and in back of the Turtle School.

Dale said it was "a good experience" for the students. "Students were able to experience planting trees and see the different soil and growing conditions," he said. They were also "instructed to plant trees with the major

Spring Sports Finally Underway

By Iselena Torres-Mejia
Thunderhawk Times

After a reluctant start, spring weather is finally here and ONHS sports teams are scrambling to catch up.

All the teams had a busy day set for Monday, May 14.

The golf team left the school at 6 am on its way to Oak Crest to face a Niagara High School team. The lacrosse team had a game at Site 2 against De Pere and the softball team had a double header against Crivitz.

Coming up, the track team has a regular meet set for Thursday, May 17 against Lena and Coleman. That's also a date for a home lacrosse game against Metro and home a softball game against Wausaukee. The golf team will be playing host in the Oneida Invitational.

The teams are doing okay this spring. As of this writing, the lacrosse team's record is 4-4. The softball team hasn't won any games but is giving it their best. At its most-recent meet, ONHS track team member, senior Glen Fowler, placed second in the high jump and the team placed 5th overall.

Climbing into the school's SUV were golfers Justin Hill, Billy Doxtator, Lasah Hill, and myself, along with our coach Tony. The day was nearly perfect for a golf outing at Oak Crest Golf Course near Norway, MI as temperatures hit a high of 82 degrees on the partly cloudy day.

The team results were pretty good. We did better than we did the past meets.

LAX Team Hard At It

By John Summers
Thunderhawk Times

Now that spring sports are in full swing, the ONHS lacrosse team has been very busy.

The weekend of May 11-12 saw the team play three games against SPASH, ND AND USM. The team had great results, posting 4 wins and 4 losses.

Highlights of the weekend included the team playing together and "looking like an actual team out on the field."

The week ahead is also busy with games scheduled Thursday against Green Bay Metro, and Saturday against CMH, both at site 2 field.

Preakness Stakes this Saturday

By Seth Charles
Thunderhawk Times

With the 144th Kentucky Derby in the books, horse racing fans have turned their attention to this Saturday's Preakness Stakes, the second leg of the U.S. Triple Crown.

The winner of the Kentucky Derby, Justify, will be running and should have a lot of fan support because he is the only horse who can win the Triple Crown this year.

The Preakness is the shortest of the three races at 1 3/16 miles and is run at Pimlico Racetrack.

Experts give Justify a great chance in the race. "The Derby pull-away was expected and Justify should easily win in the shorter distance," said Vinnie Iyer of the "Sporting News."

If Justify wins the Preakness, his trainer, Bob Baffert, will likely point the horse to the Belmont Stakes in New York where he will have a chance to win the Triple Crown.

Out of the 99 chances for a Triple Crown winner, only 12 horses have won all three races: Sir Barton (1919), Gallant Fox (1930), Omaha (1935), War Admiral (1937), Whirlaway (1941), Count Fleet (1943), Assault (1946), Citation (1948), Secretariat (1973), Seattle Slew (1977), Affirmed (1978), and, most-recently, American Pharoah (2015).

Cornelius, Kenneth Lee

January 20, 1946 – March 23, 2018

After three days of rain, with the return of blue skies and sunshine, he “walked on.” Not long before he parted, Mr. Sunshine Driving School himself said, “I need to start a new school called, Sunset into the Hills Driving School.” We laughed of course—and cried.

He left us his heart, but took ours with him, radiant star of our universe, bigger than life, the embodiment of life, struggle, devotion, radical charisma, joy and wisdom. Kenneth Lee Cornelius was born backwards, but under a lucky star, one fine day in January; a birthday he would share with his future wife of 48-years, Valerie Cornelius. His entire context for love lived at her feet; their auspicious union was the catalyst that would give him the drive to transform his rocky childhood into a legacy of laughter, resilience, generosity, inclusion and depth of spirit.

It was never about where he came from, it was always about where he was going. Even so, his past shaped him. Born in Yakima Wash., to Mary Rose Peltier of Chippewa descent from North Dakota, and father, William Edward Cornelius from the Oneida Tribe of Indians-Wisconsin. Both his parents grew up on reservations and were raised in the ill-reputed Catholic boarding schools common in the early part of the 20th century. His mother particularly, was impacted by the heavy backlash of historical trauma and lived her life as a “survivor” and later an advocate for native justice. She taught her son how to get by in any situation; his dad, with whom he shared a deep emotional bond, taught him how to love.

Ken was a “Wild Indian” in his youth and had the most extraordinary cache of colorful misadventures. Having survived cancer and polio as a small boy, he approached life with a “devil may care” attitude and moved through his early years with reckless abandon. His trust that things would always work out, because somehow they always did, became the center from which his whole life was hinged.

Becoming a husband and father shifted his perspective and sense of responsibility profoundly. Devoted to the role of provider, he was a workhorse that would take any random job with any crazy hours to insure his family had what was needed. But it wouldn't take him long to identify his passion and the seat from which his true gifts would multiply.

Having lost his sister to a tragic car accident and being the offspring of a father didn't drive, was a big part of his impetus to become a driving teacher. Keeping people safe through education is what motivated him, but what made him stand out as a teacher was how easeful-ly he imparted technical skill by using driving as a metaphor for life, while engaging students with his genius wit and levity.

Decades of teaching, equals thousands of people touched by the man we knew as husband, father and friend. His giant heart lives on through his wife, kids, grandkids, his spiritual community and the community he called home, Ojai, Calif.

Ken is survived by his wife, Valerie; sons Bradley “Atma” Cornelius and Jonathon “John” Cornelius, and his wife, Ninna Cornelius; daughter Briana “akka b.” Cornelius; and grandchildren Raksha Boiteau, Kyra Cornelius and Solan Cornelius.

Ken's Giant Heart Memorial Celebration took place on Sunday, April 22 2018 at The Ojai Valley Grange, 381 Cruzero Street, Ojai

LaFond, Michael

September 2, 1941 – May 4, 2018

Michael A. LaFond, 71, Oneida passed away peacefully early Friday morning May 4, 2018. He was born October 23, 1946 to the late M. Lawrence and Winifred “Winnie” LaFond. On August 31, 1996 he married Victoria Cornelius. Michael enjoyed listening to music and to travel, especially through the mountains. He spent a large part of his life spreading the word of God others. It was the time he spent with family that he enjoyed the most.

He is survived by his wife Victoria, children; Catherine (Gary) Smith, Colleen (Wayne) Griffin, Jessica (Leo) Stenstrom, Joshua Racine, and his five grandchildren; Chase, Chelsey, Autumn, Oliver, and Winnie. Michael is further survived by his brother Larry (Cathy) LaFond, and Victoria's family; Vivian (Pete) Dittel, Veronica Glass, Valerie (Joe) Yazzie, Terry (Tania) Cornelius, Andy (PaLa) Cornelius.

He was preceded in death by his parents, as well as his siblings; Davis LaFond, Robert LaFond, Patricia LaFond, his nephew Mark LaFond, and in-laws Harrison and Diane Cornelius.

Friends gathered at Ryan Funeral Home from 4-7PM Sunday May 6, 2018. Visitation continued after 10AM Monday at the funeral home, until time of service at 11:00AM. Burial took place at 1:30PM in the Sacred Burial Grounds.

had to push myself again to actually meet her. I'm so glad I did because it was wonderful to finally meet Dee. I felt I knew a lot about her from the numerous emails we exchanged in the previous months. I felt like she was such a warm, caring, and fun person. I was right."

This is not the first time Groth has been reunited with a family member. In the early 1970s, after researching her family background, she realized she was the sister of Oneida Nation citizen Mike Hill.

"It was getting dark one evening and I got a knock on my front door," Hill said. "I thought I had some friend pounding on my door wanting a ride home or something because I used to live next to a bar. I answered the door and there was a lady standing there with paperwork telling me she thought she was my sister. I had absolutely no idea. That's how Dee and I met.

"I'm happy that we finally know each other and my three children are happy as well," Hill said. "I thought for sure Dee would have told me if she had a child, but I can clearly see how happy she is about meeting her daughter. Now Carolle has the best mother and best uncle in the world. It's a pretty powerful feeling."

Groth couldn't agree more. She and her husband of 55 years, Robert, are elated with this latest family revelation. "He has been so supportive of all this," Groth said. "It was like a little piece of my heart came alive when I received that phone call. I'm so happy that we have all found each other. I have found peace in my heart for sure."

Plans are being made for more visits in the near future. "Right now we're planning on getting together during the Pow Wow," Duncan said. "Other family members are planning on going to the Pow Wow as well. It should be a really nice family reunion. I hear I have a lot of cousins who are so excited to meet me."

'They' say, "you have to crawl before you can walk." Well, when it comes to water falling, it's almost as though Wequiock Falls laughs in 'their' faces and says, "Pffft! Come here, Owila (baby in our language). I'll teach you to walk, climb, and waterfall ALL YOU WANT!" Similar to an Aunt, Wequiock Falls will spoil you with candy waterfalls, let you play as recklessly as you want in her home with minimal consequence, then happily send you back to your mother sugared up and still hyper. I warn you though, like most Aunts, she will punish you like a Mother if you act up too much!

I write of waterfalls in the female form because I was taught by Annette Cornelius, our Cultural Wellness Counselor, that every natural thing that exists has a Spirit. Our waters are a feminine Spirit. During my soul searches, I was telling Annette that I felt that I needed more women in my life but it was difficult at my age because most of my female friends were busy with their own lives. I couldn't call on them just any ol' time I wanted. She told me to go to the waters. Water would help me heal. She explained, "She is a female Spirit that is accessible any time you need her."

ONAP: Dollars for Art Grant Program

Apply to receive grant funding for creative artistic projects benefiting the Oneida Nation and community. The Dollars for Arts Program (DAP) is a re-granting program funded by the Wisconsin Arts Board and the Oneida Nation. DAP provides funds to support excellence, innovations and the development of the arts in Oneida. The arts include both traditional and contemporary styles in dance, literature, music, theatre, and visual arts. There are three funding areas in DAP:

Community Awards – are available to community groups or tribal programs for arts projects that are new and innovative or significantly enhance an existing program in the Oneida community.

Oneida Fellowship Award – is a $1,000 cash award to an Oneida artist for artistic excellence in the Oneida community. There is a maximum of and other accessories. The Oneida Nation Arts Program (ONAP) is sponsoring Dana in two summer sessions; both are the same basic preparation workshop. One Quill Workshop is June 26th to June 30th. The second session is July 24 to 27th. Students will meet in the Arts Program Cottage at 1270 Packerland Dr, Green Bay, WI. Pre-registration is required.

Dana won several awards for his quillwork within the past year. He won “Best of Show,” from the Eiteljorg Indian Art Market in 2017. At the Santa Fe Indian Art Market, in 2017, he won 1st place in the cradleboard category and his pipe bag won 2nd place in accessories.

Dana is of both the Menominee Tribe of Wisconsin and the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation of Kansas. In the pow-wow circuit, he is a well-known one Fellowship available per fiscal year. If you have received a Fellowship from the Oneida Nation Arts Program in the last 3 years or received an Artist Development Award in the current fiscal year, you are not eligible for this award in fiscal 2018.

Artist Development Awards – are available to artists in the community who have identified a special project that will enhance their profession-champion traditional dancer. In recent years, his quillwork has been in high demand. His attention to traditional designs, color, and quality artisanship is outstanding.

He is interested in helping others learn the craft and preserve this traditional art form. Students in the summer workshops will learn the basics about quillwork from cleaning, sorting and sizing quills for various projects. They also learn about dying the quills in primary and secondary colors, and a few types of stitches for quilled earrings or quillwork applique. In both summer workshops, students make a pair of single-hoop quilled earrings.

Next winter, students in these workshops will qualify to take an intermediate quillwork workshop. In that workshop, students will dedicate their time to create a quilled item like intricate quill earrings or applique quill designs on brain-tanned smoked deer hide.

Because of the short and intense summer workshops, students must have experience in basic sewing by hand, beadwork or jewelry-making, strong manual dexterity and good hand-eye coordination. Anyone with arthritis may not be capable of doing quillwork. Students will be around boiling water, a Dremel saw demo, and will use small hand tools, glover needles, sinew, needle-nosed pliers, tongs, and hot water bottles. These workshops are appropriate for ages 16 and older. The fees are: general public fee: $120 dollars and any enrolled Tribal members fee: $60 dollars.

For more info, call the Oneida Community Education Center (CEC) at (920) 496-5260, or the Arts Program (920) 490-3832. Register online for either the June or July workshops or both. College of Menominee Nation Graduation Set for May 26

Douglas Cox
Menominee
Legislature Chairman

Sabrina Hemken
Class of 2018
Student Speaker

Northeast Wisconsin students will be receiving academic degrees and technical diplomas from the College of Menominee Nation in ceremonies at 10 a.m., Saturday, May 26, in the Menominee Casino Resort Convention Center, Keshena.

In recognition of the College's 25th anniversary, Menominee Legislature Chairman Douglas Cox will serve as guest speaker. As a chartered entity of the Menominee People, the College traces its origins to 1992 when Glen Miller, who was at that time Legislature Chairman, and Vice Chair Shirley Daly advanced the idea of a school to serve the reservation community. Dr. Verna Fowler was hired in fall 1992 and CMN opened in January 1993 with 42 students.

With ceremonies featuring current Chairman Cox as speaker, the College will bring its number of alumni to 1,180, with nearly 20 percent of all graduates having earned two or more CMN degrees or diplomas.

Among Class of 2018 graduates with multiple degrees is Sabrina Hemken, who has been chosen as student speaker for the commencement ceremonies. A native of Cecil, Wisconsin, she began studies at CMN nearly a decade ago and earned an Associate Degree in CMN's Microcomputer Specialist program in 2000. Hemken returned to the College a few years later and on May 26 graduates with both a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Public Administration and an Associate Degree in Digital Media.

Hemken has earned academic honors and been awarded numerous scholarships throughout her years at the College. Her curricular and service activities have included work on many American Indian theater productions at the College, being a key volunteer worker on the 2016 and 2017 revivals of the historic Menominee summer pageants, and assisting with the Oneida Nation's Wisconsin Native American Playwright Festival.

Guest speaker Cox is a lifelong resident of the Menominee reservation and graduate of Menominee Indian High School who continued his education at regional technical colleges before earning his Bachelor's Degree at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. He has served the tribe professionally for 27 years in environmental and natural resource management roles, and is on leave from the post of Coordinator for the Menominee Environmental Services Department while holding the Legislature's Chairmanship.

The College of Menominee Nation is an accredited baccalaureate-level institution and one of only three Wisconsin institutions holding Land Grant status. Enrollment is open to all on CMN's main campus in Keshena and at its urban campus in the Green Bay metropolitan area. The College sustains a diverse student population. About two-thirds its of alumni are enrolled or descendant members of the Menominee tribe or more than 30 other American Indian tribes.

Possible Underground Injection Wells in Oneida

The Oneida Environmental, Health, and Safety Division has entered into a temporary agreement with the Region 5 EPA Water Division in an effort to find unregulated class V underground injection control (UIC) wells on the Oneida Nation reservation. Class V UIC wells are means by which nonhazardous fluids can enter underground sources of drinking water (USDW).¹ But don't let the term nonhazardous fool you. They are nonhazardous as defined by the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, but still can contaminate drinking water resources and threaten human health. The EPA has the authority and responsibility to regulate underground injection wells for the purposes of protecting USDW via the Safe Water Drinking Act of 1974.

According to the EPA Underground Injection Control Program, common types of Class V UICs historically found throughout the United States are Large Capacity Septic Systems (LCSS) and stormwater drainage wells.² LCSSs collect sanitary waste from 20 or more people per day from either non-residential facilities or compound residences (like an apartment building).³ Improperly managed LCSSs can pollute drinking water. Stormwater drainage wells collect excess surface water generated via precipitation or snow and distribute it underground.⁴ The EPA UIC program states that many types of contaminants can enter these types of wells, like pesticides, fertilizers and metals which can negatively affect drinking water quality.⁵

Field Technician Trainee, Brittany Nicholas, has amassed an inventory of 66 potential facilities that may have Class V UICs. More than half of the businesses in the inventory provide vehicular repair, maintenance or fueling services and so could possibly have Motor Vehicle Waste Disposal Wells. The fluids injected underground through these types of wells can have petroleum products, heavy metals, and other inorganic or organic substances which can be toxic (40 CFR 144.88). For this reason, new construction of motor vehicle waste disposal wells has been illegal in Wisconsin since April 5th, 2000 (40 CFR 144.88).

Oneida Environmental will submit a final inventory to the EPA Underground Injection Control Program by this June. The EPA UIC program will review this new information. Owners or operators of potential class V UIC wells will receive a request to fill out an Inventory form (EPA Form 7520-16) and return it to the EPA UIC program. Depending on the nature of the suspected well, the facility or site may need to be inspected and the owner or operator may have to provide further information in order for the EPA UIC program to determine if it is contaminating a USDW; if the EPA UIC program concludes that the well could pollute or is polluting an USDW, the owner or operator may then need to obtain a permit or the close their well.⁶ Please contact the EPA UIC program or go to <https://www.epa.gov/uic> for more information.

Submitted photo

Melissa Johnson at the Cliffs in Moher in Ireland. Johnson is the new forester for Oneida.

Hello Everyone,

My name is Melissa Johnson, I am an enrolled tribal member and I am happy to introduce myself as the new Forester for the Oneida Nation. My credentials include and an A.A.S in Landscape Horticulture from NWTTC, a B.S. in Agriculture from the University of Hawaii at Hilo, and a M.S. in Forestry from Purdue University.

I also have six years of experience working for the Oneida Nation in the Groundskeeping Division of the Department of Public Works.

As Forester, my major priorities include planning for mandatory practices required by Managed Forest Law, forest inventory, developing response plans for Emerald Ash Borer and wildfires, developing a Comprehensive Forest Management Plan, community outreach events and evaluating hazardous trees for removal for tribal members and properties.

Currently, I am working on a new approach to evaluating hazardous trees in the community. A hazardous tree can be defined as any tree that is dead, dying, or unstable that has the potential to cause harm or damage to people and property. In the past, the biggest issue with hazardous tree removal has been the overwhelming amount of trees that need to be removed combined with the lack of funding to do so. Many of the hazardous trees can be safely removed by the Oneida Conservation crew. However, there are hazardous trees growing in places or spaces that are not accessible with the equipment that the crew currently uses. In these cases, the work needs to be done by a tree removal service. Unfortunately, the budget for tree removal by a contractor is not enough to cover the cost to remove all of the hazardous trees presently on the work order list. Moving forward, we will begin to develop new strategies to evaluate hazardous trees and to determine the priority of hazardous tree removal work. As always, highest priority will be given to elders and disabled tribal members.

As we move forward, I ask for patience from our tribal members who need help with hazardous tree removal and thank those who have been patiently waiting for their hazardous trees to be removed.

Meet the new Home Chore Workers

Tehoknekalasten
VanBoxtel-Metoxen
Home Chore Worker

Tehoknekalasten VanBoxtel-Metoxen began working for Oneida Elder Services in May as a Home Chore Worker. He will be providing services such as grass cutting and window cleaning to elders that request these types of services through the program.

Tehoknekalasten, also known as Teho, stands for “Glistens on the Water” in our Oneida language. He chose to apply for the position because he wanted to enjoy his work. He wanted to help people with any kind of maintenance, wanted to be outside the majority of the day and go to different job sites.

He enjoys spending his free time with his girlfriend and friends. He gains a lot of knowledge from the actions of his family and friends who have a big influence on him.

When asked if the job was what his expectations were, he stated “Yes, everything I expected from the job description and to what friends and family said.”

Jerome Webster
Home Chore Worker

Oneida Elder Services welcomes Teho to the team as a Home Chore Worker.

Oneida Elder Services welcomes a new employee, Jerome Webster. Jerome was recently hired on as a Home Chore Worker and started working in May. Some duties to his job title include cutting grass, cleaning gutters, and other small home chore services that elders request through the program. Jerome has worked at Elderly Services in the past and said that “I worked here before and like what I did to help out our elders.”

His biggest influences include his whole family, which include his parents, Julie Denny and Dale Metoxen. He enjoys spending time with his children and girlfriend. He also likes anything that has to do with outdoors such as hunting.

Oneida Elder Services welcomes Jerome to the team.

week or two. We're also aware that there are varied opinions within our community regarding the tribe's status as a sovereign nation in relation to this topic, so all of these issues are being evaluated at this time."

One of the several highly-touted health benefits of CBD oil is its apparent ability to relieve chronic pain without the addictive properties of opioid-related drugs or the high produced by the hemp plants cousin, marijuana. Oneida Nation citizen Rita Reiter has recently become a staunch supporter of CBD products. "I suffered from a very rare form of cancer in my leg," Reiter said. "I'm allergic to pain narcotics so I'm left with very few options for how to deal with the pain. As a result my ability to walk is limited.

"About two months ago I happened to be at the Oneida Market because I rely on many of their natural products to help me," Reiter said. "I gave the CBD oil a try in my juice and within five minutes I felt amazing.

I was able to walk down my steps without pain and was far more active during the day. So when the market pulled the product I was very disappointed because I had finally found something that helped me, but I am very glad it's back on the shelves now."

"We are hoping to move forward with a pilot program which will keep in alignment with state regulations and their pilot program," Oneida Nation Councilman Daniel Guzman said. "Planting season is already upon us and interest in hemp production is so high that the state has run out of seeds to distribute. We are actively attempting to locate certifiable hemp seeds which hopefully will occur in the very near future."

The Oneida Nation will announce its official position on the topic of hemp production in the coming weeks.

Five educators named Wisconsin Teachers of the Year

Herb Kohl Educational Foundation gives $3,000 to each honoree

MADISON ~ "These educators know that our kids are more than academics. They teach to the whole child," said State Superintendent Tony Evers in congratulating Wisconsin's 2018-19 Teachers of the Year.

This year, five educators have been chosen to represent Wisconsin's teaching corps as Teachers of the Year. Each will receive $3,000 from the Herb Kohl Educational Foundation. The five educators are: Liz Gulden, a kindergarten teacher at Willson Elementary School in Baraboo, Elementary School Teacher of the Year; Maggie

McHugh of Sparta, a sixth-grade teacher and adviser at the La Crosse Design Institute, Middle School Teacher of the Year; Sarahi Monterrey, an English Learner teacher at Waukesha North High School, and Benjamin Grignon, teacher of traditional Menominee crafts at Menominee Indian High School in Keshena, who share the High School Teacher of the Year title; and Michael Wilson, a school counselor at St. Croix Falls High School, Special Services Teacher of the Year. Evers notified each of the teachers of the honor during surprise announcements in their school districts.

High School Teachers of the Year

As a teacher of traditional arts at Menominee Indian High School in Keshena, Benjamin Grignon works with students on the art forms of the Menominee people and the language and cultural practices that go along with these arts. Additionally, he uses Menominee culture to reinforce other subjects in the school. His students learn menacehaw (respect) for themselves, each other, and for the knowledge passed on from the elders. Classroom meditation helps students center themselves, and Grignon offers lesson alternatives to create a safe place for students in support of programming to address Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs), which are prevalent in the high-poverty district. Grignon leads traditional activities for the Mawaw Ceseniyah Center for Language, Culture, and the Arts and teaches community art workshops at East-West University and the College of Menominee Nation. He earned associate, bachelor, and master's degrees in fine arts from the Institute of American Indian Art in Santa Fe, N. M., the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and the University of Arizona in Tucson. Grignon earned his teaching certification through Concordia University's Appleton campus.

I knew this to be true the moment she said it. Within our culture, we grow up knowing that all of nature and its' elements are Spirit. There is a connection we have with our environment because we are comprised of the same molecules, energy, and/or light. Within our culture, we often refer to our environment with familial relationship inherent in the name. This is so, not because we are all-mystical and live in some fantasy land and/or state of mind, like popular culture would make us out to be, but because we understood and continue to understand this connection to and reliance on our environment. Water is female because She is a life giver. The human body is comprised of about 70% water, after all. We ARE water, essentially. It is no secret the same holds true of all life. All of life relies on water and is made up of water.

When you decide to venture out and reconnect with this Spirit, you notice that Wequiock Falls is a beautiful female curtain-like waterfall this time of year. I urge anyone considering experiencing a waterfall to rush to her as soon as possible because this free flowing 20 foot fall will soon dwindle down to trickle with the summer season drying her down. The most exhilarating time to experience the rush of her healing power is now.

The Brown County

Park itself is small and easily accessible from Bay Settlement Road. Near the overpass, there are about 30 steps down to a ledge that allows you to view the falls face forward from afar. You get the opportunity to see the big picture and take in her full beauty before venturing down another 3 to 5 steps to an easy hike of about 70 yards to the actual waterfall. There is a nice size pathway that allows you to walk behind the fall and experience it with a degree of ease. The waterfall, with water flowing from Wequiock Creek, falls from above into a shallow continuation of the creek below, making the threat of stumble seem less threatening than most waterfalls I've ever experienced. With the park being part of the Niagara Escarpment, you are surrounded by beautiful cliffs edged with tree roots that make you feel like you are in your own little nook of Wisconsin paradise. Like Auntie's house; it is not your own but you feel so much at home.

Your self-confidence is built with every step and the healing process begins. With your senses being focused during the walk, you barely take notice to how present you are in that moment. With each focused step on the walk, behind the water and all its beauty, you become stronger by the experience. When you are directly behind the waterfall, looking up and watching water come from a source that feels like what could only be from the heavens or Sky World, all your problems no longer matter in this one of a kind experience. You are truly in that moment, in that experience, and, yet, you find yourself amazed at how you are able to reach total bliss with such ease. Water falling is an individual experience, even while accompanied by friends and family. Each person's experience will be their own and a result of their individual effort. You build a trust in yourself with these types of hikes. You practice presence. All of which are steps toward healing self.

In this season, you will see water trickling from cliffs as you pass behind the waterfall to the other side. The closer you get to these trickles, you hear the soft sounds of water soothing you with the sound of the heavy fall only in the background. At this point, you can return back through the waterfall walkway or you can hike more on the other side. On the other side, you can challenge yourself to walk the rocks back across the shallow water or just choose to enter the water and cross.

How wet you choose to get is totally up to you. I personally encourage everyone, that physically can, to play in the water.

I don't care how old you are, PLAY, in a way you can! It is a park, after all. Just heed the warnings, respect the environment, and don't be afraid to get wet! Enjoy the spoils 'Auntie' Wequiock Falls

Marc Schaffer, Associate Professor of Economics at St. Norbert College, worked with the tribe on formulating this impact study. "Our team looked specifically at the impact in Brown and Outagamie Counties which makes sense given the geographical footprint of the Oneida Nation," Schaffer said. "We looked at education, government services, health care, housing, human services, internal services and public services. The Oneida Nation is easily in the top three respective employers in both counties, and it's worth noting as an added benefit that 44 percent of their employees are non-tribal members."

By far the largest contributions to the regional economy come directly from the tribe's economic enterprises. Agriculture, construction companies, engineering companies, financial services, gaming, hotels, recreation, as well as a host of retail establishments are the driving factors behind the Oneida Nation's financial success, Schaffer said.

Health care and education services are also key factors in the tribe's regional impact. "A host of activities including child care, head start programs, cultural education programs, tribal schools as well as efforts in Higher Education scholarships are all noteworthy effects," Schaffer said. "From my perspective the Oneida Nation provides a tremendous amount to the community and as an economist the positive (aspects) that come out of this are significant when you also look at the social aspects that they bring to the community."

Tribe criticizes judge's recommendation

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) ~ Both Enbridge Energy and the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe are criticizing an administrative law judge's recommendation regarding replacement of the company's aging Line 3 oil pipeline across northern Minnesota.

Judge Ann O'Reilly recently recommended that state regulators approve the replacement line only if it follows the existing route rather than the company's preferred route. The Minnesota Public Utilities Commission is expected to decide in June.

The current route crosses the Leech Lake reservation, including areas where wild rice is harvested. Minnesota Public Radio reports the tribe says the judge's recommendation disregards tribal sovereignty and environmental issues.

Canada-based Enbridge says the recommendation is "fatally flawed" because a new pipeline can't be built over tribal objections.

History is more than data

By Josh Gerzetch
Historical Researcher

History is more than the collection of data. It is more than just collecting accounts of what happened. What makes history interesting is that it is constantly changing. Historians look at history through many different historical lenses: Political, cultural, economic, minority, military, etc. They do this and also bring their own personal experiences, bias, preconceived notions, etc. to their work as well. Two Historians can examine the same event and come up with vastly different results. For example, one might look at the Sullivan campaign that burnt down our homelands during the American Revolution and decide to examine it through a strict military lenses to find out why Washington did it and how it contributed to American victory. Another might use a different lens and look at how it affected Haudenosaunee families and the damage that it did to the people of the Six Nations, causing death, disease, starvation, homelessness, etc. These would be two papers on the exact same topic or event in history but discussing very different aspects of what happened.

Historians deal with two different types of sources: Primary and Secondary. A primary source is “first-hand” information, sources as close as possible to the origin of the information or idea under study. Some examples are memoirs, letters, government documents, oral histories, etc.¹ In contrast, a secondary source of information was created later by someone who did not witness the event or participate in it.² These are the two main items that Historians work with to create two main outputs of information: Historiography and Historical Research Papers.

Historiography is the study of a series of historical events all interacting with one another.³ Historiography is sometimes referred to as the study of the study of history.⁴ What is meant by this is that Historiography does not look at specific events in history; instead they examine historians and their views on those events over time. For example, Historiography might look at Native American’s and Boarding Schools. In 1900 historians might have looked at them as being positive institutions helping to modernize and “save” Native Americans. While a generation of later historians might view Boarding Schools as brutal institutions that traumatized and abused students. Yet another might see an institution that facilitated assimilation and the destruction of Native cultural traditions. These different views by historians through time make up a Historiography because of this historiography deals almost exclusively with secondary sources. Traditional history as told through research papers always presents an argument or point of view. All history is an attempt to justify the author’s point of view. For this reason, they deal mostly with Primary Sources.

Oneida rejects allotment

By Loretta V. Metoxen
Tribal Historian

John Archiquette was the senior officer of the five Indian Police officers on the Oneida Reservation. He recorded all the births, deaths, illegal cutting of timber and arrests for cutting wood and the trafficking of alcohol within the Reservation boundaries.

Below is a letter written by John Archiquette to the Indian Agent in 1884. For years prior to this the United States Government was trying to get the Oneida and many other Indians Tribes to agree to allotment. This was a process of granting each individual tribal member/Head of Household a certain number of acres and placing the reservation into individual private ownership. The reservation was eventually allotted in 1891 because of the Dawes Allotment Act passed by Congress in 1889. This act allotted all reservations across the country, taking tribal lands out of communal ownership and dividing them among individual tribal members, this letter taken from John Archiquette's journal talks about a meeting held by the Oneidas in 1884 to discuss allotment and their response to the request.

Oneida, Wis. April 22nd 1884

*D. P. Andrews, Esqr.
U.S. Indian Agent
Keshena, Wis.*

Sir, the Sachem of the Oneidas residing here called a General Council to meet on the 21st day of April 1884 to consider the letter of the Hon. Indian Commissioner forwarded to me by yourself concerning the allotment of their lands.

The Council met on the 21st in obedience to the call of the Sachem.

The Letter of the Hon. Indian Commissioner was read and fully explained in the council.

The council discussed the question and considered it fully; then a vote was taken. All the votes numbered 95-53 voted against the allotment of their lands. A majority of the Oneidas that were in Council, residing here, entitled to vote upon the subject, desire to hold their lands as they now do, sometime longer.

*Respectfully,
John Archiquette
Lieut. U.S. Indian Police*

Berrett is achieving goals with TRIAD program

Submitted photo

Adrian Barrett has improved his health and fitness working with the TRIAD program. He plans to run the 10k Bellin Run June 9.

Adrian Barrett came to Oneida Family Fitness through the TRIAD (Taking Responsibility in Addressing Diabetes) program in 2017. Adrian is the perfect example of how this program is supposed to work for the individuals that decide to make positive healthy changes in their life.

The TRIAD program is a program that is designed to help individuals fight diabetes through exercise and nutrition. Any individual that utilizes the health center and is pre-diabetic or has diabetes can be referred by their provider into the program.

The TRIAD program is what really lifted Adrian to new levels. Through this amazing program that includes nutrition classes offered by Betty Schwantes, Adrian has been able to drop weight, lose inches, sleep better, eat better, have confidence to learn and try new techniques with his trainer, and have a better overall wellness that he didn't have before.

When Adrian started training at Oneida Family Fitness he was limited in his cardiovascular endurance so what Adrian and his trainer decided to do was keep doing the weights to make his body stronger as a whole so that the time he spent on the treadmill could increase.

Over the course of the next several months Adrian started to see prolonged times on the treadmill going from 2 minutes to 6 minutes, to 12 minutes, and now at a staggering 44 minutes while still being able to lift weights and work on core exercises. Adrian has even added running flights of stairs to his workout until the weather is nice enough to go outside and run hills.

When Adrian started he was able to run anywhere around 1-2 minutes of quality running. As of today Adrian can run 44 minutes and he is well on his way to achieving his goal of running the Bellin

Tae Kwon Do tourney

Saturday, May 5th Oshkosh, Wisconsin ~ Students from Oneida Family Fitness Center Tae Kwon Do program competed in the Oshkosh tournament. This tournament had over 200 competitors and competition was tight. The students competed in Forms, Board Breaking, and Sparring competition. Trophies were handed out for 1st thru 3rd place and medals for 4th thru 6th place. The tournament had 11 Tae Kwon Do schools from all over the state. Run. His weights have also increased in every exercise that he has done. He was even able to leg press (pushing weights with his legs) 400 pounds which is about 3.5 times his weight. Did I mention that Adrian is 66 years of age?

Adrian first started with Fitness Trainer Elijah Metoxen and now trains with Ryan Waterstreet two days a week. Adrian works out at Oneida Family Fitness at least 3-4 times per week.

Talking with Adrian, the TRIAD program which helps individuals fight Diabetes has been an instantly successful program for him as well as many other individuals. Adrian had goals in place that he wanted to accomplish with the biggest goal being; him being able to participate in the 2018 Bellin Run. He talked with his trainer about this goal and a timeline was established with Adrian on what it would take to accomplish this goal. Adrian started off slow and easy as a way to get used to this different type of training. His accomplishments to this point have been unbelievable.
