2017 Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic champion Katherine Kirk addresses reporters and other spectators May 14 during Media Day at Thornberry Creek at Oneida. Kirk, who has become the face of the tournament, returns for the third year of the competition featuring the world's top 144 professional women golfers.

Oneida, WI – Incorporating cultural aspects is a customary tradition within the native community. In line with tradition, the Oneida Youth Singers performed for the well attended media day event this past Tuesday, to kick off the return for the third edition of Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic, July 4–7.

Past Champions Sei Young Kim and Australian Katherine Kirk are set to return to Thornberry Creek at Oneida for the third edition of the Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic from the July 4 – 7.

Korea's Sei Young Kim, who captured the Sky Woman Trophy with a nine-stroke victory in 2018, returns to Thornberry Creek at Oneida with fond memories of her LPGA record-breaking showing, recording the lowest to par score (-31) in the history of the Tour. She recently captured her eighth LPGA-career victory at the LPGA Medinah Championship and moved up to No. 9 in the Rolex Rankings.

Joining her in the 144-player field competing for the $2 million purse is 2017 champion, Australian 37-year old LPGA veteran, Katherine Kirk. Kirk, who is playing her 16th season on Tour, has notched 11 victories worldwide on the ALPG, Ladies European Tour, Futures Tour and the LPGA, with her Thornberry Creek victory a highlight in a prosperous career.

Kirk attended the Official Media Day at Thornberry Creek and took part in activities including meeting with Oneida elders, taking part in an 'Eagle Feather Presentation' with Oneida veterans and inspiring youth golfers in a golf clinic.

Joining the duo of champions are an illustrious list of world class players including two-time major champion and Rolex Ranking No. 3 Sung Hyun Park, rising Japanese star and Rolex Ranking

The Oneida Nation's and Bay Bank's partnership with the Homeownership by Independent Purchase (HIP) program celebrated their 50th home loan closing on May 3. The HIP Program, which started in May 2016, is designed to assist Oneida Nation citizens with home purchases on the Oneida Reservation that meet certain criteria.

"In three years we have closed 50 loans with this partnership with the Oneida Nation," Tanya Krueger, Bay Bank Assistant Vice President, said. "A tribal member can buy a home within the reservation boundaries and as long as it's within the subdivisions that don't have restrictive covenants, meaning the property can't be converted into trust land, and the land value is under $75,000, the tribe can buy the land at the tax assessed value and customer buys the house. So, the customer can afford more home because the customer is paying for the house but the tribe is paying the taxes on the land and the tribal members pays the taxes on the house. It's more affordable for the customer."

The idea for the HIP Program was brought up with Land Commissioner Rae Skenandore about three years ago. "A friend of mine asked me 'why can't I just pick out my own house and have the tribe purchase the land?'" Skenandore said. "We had some of the attorneys, land staff, mortgage lenders from Bay Bank, and some representatives from HUD (U.S. Department of Housing and

Tlachac-Toonen releases her latest children's book

The journey to becoming a children's book writer wasn't exactly a straight path for Oneida Nation citizen Janet Tlachac-Toonen. But since she's found her niche Tlachac-Toonen is showing no signs of slowing down and, through her own publishing company Staytoond-publish.com, recently completed and released her latest book "Cosmo's Wish."

"I was an illustrator and tried working with professional writers earlier on but it never really seemed to work out," Tlachac-Toonen said. "So, I just decided to write my own stories and just illustrate them the way I wanted. I have another business where I do illustrations and graphic designs for other companies so I just decided to have fun with it and do it as a sideline, but pretty soon it became my main focus."

The idea for becoming a full-time writer and publisher came to Tlachac-Toonen while she and her husband were residing in Florida. With no printing companies in their area, she decided to bring her years of printing knowledge and experience to bear and formed her own graphic design business. "My husband told me to make that my main focus and do my own thing while we were down there," Tlachac-Toonen said. "So, while I was in between projects I sat down and started watching cartoons, but I tried watching the ones they had for kids and I simply couldn't stand them. They were horrible, very violent, and the characters just weren't interesting.

"I knew I could make something better for kids than what was out there," Tlachac-Toonen said. "I had created a little bear character named Sydney when I was in high school so I decided I was

Family remembers Jonathon

Jonathon Tubby in his smoke dance outfit. The family often recalls how much he liked to do several styles of dancing.

By Dawn Walschinski and Christopher Johnson

Kalihwisaks

It was Jonathon Tubby's family's first Easter without him.

"Easter was hard," said his aunt Sarah Wunderlich. She would normally make an Easter basket for her nephew, but instead made one for his mother Nina Helendrung, Sarah's sister.

"I'm assuming he went to everybody's house for baskets, so he probably had half a dozen baskets," said Sarah with a laugh.

"To-go plates," added Jonathon's aunt Sue Doxtator.

"Care packages," said Sue's husband Arlie Doxtator.

Happy memories are tinged with sadness in the wake of the shooting death of Jonathon while in the custody of the City of Green Bay Police the night of October 19, 2018.

"It's those little things that we forget, those little moments where we expect him to show up or call or message," said Sarah.

Arlie, Sue and Sarah are the family's spokespeople who deal with media requests and an ongoing civil lawsuit against the Green Bay Police Department. While they won't disclose the details of their lawsuit, in a statement they said they wanted local law enforcement to have better training and equipment.

"It's a positive thing that some of these things are happening now ... but that still doesn't ease our pain," said Arlie.

Cameras in the Brown County Sheriff's sally-port where the shooting took place were updated, and Green Bay Police and the Oneida Nation are communicating with each other more. However, a tour of the reservation by Green Bay Police officers was a stressor for family members who were in tribal buildings they visited that day.

"When they came to Norbert Hill, I was in the High School office, and I was like 'why is that bus here?'" said Sarah. "And I looked and I was like 'I gotta get out of here. I need to be away from them.' ... And as I was walking away ...

Urban Development) get together and we hashed it out. It took about another year to get the fine details worked out but this has become a really successful program.”

Multiple entities within the Oneida Nation put a lot of time and effort into the program that now offers tribal citizens more options for purchasing a home. “For me it’s about diversity and offering more opportunities to the membership,” Pat Pelky, Oneida Environmental, Health, Safety, and Land Division Director, said. “We could not have done this without the partnerships between Land Management, Comprehensive Housing, three attorneys, Bay Bank, the Land Commission, and of course from the community itself wanting more choices. This has been an excellent choice.”

“There were some key people in pushing this forward like Becky Webster,” Kanatihah, Housing Authority Senior Loan Officer, said. “And as all the pieces were put on the table Krystal John came in and helped get our process in place. And there were certainly more than just those two involved with this amazing program. And another key part of this program is the tribe is acquiring land so we’re building the Nation bigger. I just want to say congratulations.”

Oneida Nation Chairman Tehasi Hill also expressed gratitude for the program. “I’d like to thank everybody who was involved in making this program happen and making it possible for tribal members to go out and pick their homes,” Hill said. “They like the process of figuring out what home they like in their location. Having the homeowners take care of their own homes also relieves that responsibility from various departments and the program benefits the Nation as well.”

“I get an opportunity to talk about our bank in a lot of different places,” Jeff Bowman, Bay Bank President and CEO, said. “We are getting really well known for good things that are happening right here. Our peers and other Native-owned banks are amazed at what we do. Other people across the country look at these ideas that come from the Oneida Nation and they are really impressed. So, don’t stop giving yourselves credit and keep pressing ahead with new ideas because we really are the envy of others that see how progressive and creative this thinking is.”

“This is a great program,” Krueger said. “We worked with the tribe for several months to get it going and we’re proud to have closed our 50th loan three years later. It’s been a great way to partner with the tribe and make dreams come true. Our goal is to get people into houses.

Wisconsin tribe accused of embezzling could face $5.5M fines

MILWAUKEE (AP) – The National Indian Gaming Commission has proposed fining the St. Croix Chippewa $5.5 million over accusations that the Wisconsin tribe’s leaders pocketed at least $1.5 million in casino funds.

The commission’s chairman, Jonodev Chaudhuri, issued a notice of the proposed fines on Thursday, the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel reported. It comes a month after Chaudhuri charged the tribe with 527 violations of federal and tribal ordinances.

The maximum fine for the alleged violations would be $27.7 million.

Chaudhuri said the tribal leaders’ actions were “egregious” given the tribe’s precarious financial situation. Many members of the Burnett County-based tribe live in poverty.

Regulators said some of the funds were used for trips to Hawaii and Las Vegas.

“The tribe would have an additional $1.5 million in available funds if they had not been repeatedly doled out to the tribe’s own leaders, ‘consultants’ and others for personal gain,” Chaudhuri said.

Many tribal officials knew about the illicit payments but failed to stop them, he said.

“The seriousness of these violations and their effect on the St. Croix Indians of Wisconsin, as well as the reputation of tribal gaming across the nation, cannot be overstated,” Chaudhuri said.

The tribe can appeal the recommended fine to commissioners.

No. 5 Nasa Hataoka, and seven-time major winner, former Rolex Ranking No. 1 and LPGA Hall of Famer, Inbee Park.

Commenting on her return, Katherine Kirk said, "It is always special to come back to a place that you love and have enjoyed success at so, I'm excited about returning to Thornberry Creek. Everyone at Oneida is so supportive and the fans really know how to get behind the players, even when you walk through town in your golf gear, people are shouting good luck. During my title defense, I could not believe how many people welcomed me back and that gave me a lot of confidence."

Sei Young Kim said, "Last year felt like such a blur. Everything just fell in to place that week and I hope to have another week like that again. The course and greens in particular are always in great condition and I know that the players enjoy having the perfect opportunity to shoot a low score. The fans last year were amazing and I cannot wait to tee it up as defending champion."

Chad Fuss, Oneida Golf Enterprise Agent said, "We are extremely grateful for the continued support for this event from the community of Green Bay and we are looking forward to giving them a show of excellent golf this year. With Katherine and Sei Young we have two inspiring returning champions but with major champions like Inbee Park joining them, the fans are destined to have some high quality golf to watch. We look forward to announcing more world-class players in the coming weeks."

"Katherine proved in 2017, and again today, what a class act she is," said Jon-Paul Genet, Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic Tournament Director. "She thrilled the fans on course a couple years ago and still looks to be enjoying herself back in Green Bay. We are thrilled to welcome her and Sei Young back and look forward to witnessing similar performances this year as we look to provide a world-class event for players, volunteers, corporate partners and spectators."

Attendees of the media day event this past Tuesday, were treated to a cultural performance by the Oneida Youth Singers before the press conference went underway. Lunch was served and a golf outing was held thereafter for those who signed up to check out the course. The event was held to kick off the return for the third edition of Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic, July 4-7.

Native American students upset over educator's ouster

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) – Some students at a Catholic school serving Native Americans in Montana are unhappy after a popular administrator announced she had been dismissed.

The Billings Gazette reported Saturday students at St. Labre Indian School in Ashland planned a walkout in protest, prompting the school to cancel classes Thursday and Friday.

Director of Schools Crystal Redgrave told staff members in an email that school officials had ended her employment effective June 30.

The newspaper said St. Labre Executive Director Curtis Yarlott didn't return phone messages Friday.

Student government leader Shelrae Limpy, one of the walkout organizers, says students haven't been told why Redgrave is leaving.

Redgrave advocates a culturally rooted education for Native American students that includes focusing on spiritual and emotional elements as well as cognitive and physical education.

IAIA extends deadline for scholarship

Santa Fe, N.M. – Novelist George RR Martin, through his Literary Fund, recently established one $15,000 and two $5,000 scholarships for students seeking a BFA at IAIA in Cinematic Arts & Technology.

The deadline for one of the two $5,000 scholarships – for an eligible incoming freshman or transfer student - has been extended to June 1st, 2019 at 8:00 am.

To qualify, the student must demonstrate a passion for story-telling. Also, in addition to completing the on-line scholarship application, they'll need to submit a story sample (or script) and bio. For more information, or to apply, visit www.iaia.edu/newcomer.

The GRRM Literary Foundation Scholarship Selection Committee will complete their selections, and the recipients of all three scholarships will be announced at the IAIA Annual Scholarship Dinner and Auction on August 14, 2019 at the La Fonda hotel.

As Martin remarked at the press conference announcing the scholarships: "...I still would have gone to college, but probably not at Northwestern..." without scholarship support. He also shared a quote from a writer that influenced him in his youth, Robert A. Heinlin: "You can never pay back the people who helped you when you were starting out, so you have to pay it forward."

Shekoli!

I hope this finds you well. With signs of spring all around us and warmer weather. . . I'm excited to share that the second phase of construction activities for the expansion of Oneida Lake have commenced just last week! The contractor, Mueller Excavating, has mobilized equipment and began with silt fence installation and clearing and grubbing of designated areas. Earthwork activities will continue for the months ahead. This project will expand Oneida Lake by 10-15 acres providing an approximately 30-acre sustainable fishery for the Oneida community as well as more recreational areas. Oneida Lake has been improving the quality of life for our community since 2015 having hosted Just Move it Oneida events, gatherings with friends and family, fishing, swimming, and cook-outs. The expansion is underway and so are the opportunities for our community to spend time with loved ones outdoors.

As we re-establish and replenish more and more of our lands we will need generations prepared to protect and preserve it as those before us worked so hard to do for us. Youth are the future leaders who will take care of our environment, continue to exercise and protect our sovereignty, speak and preserve our language, sustain our culture, and set the path for future generations. Providing opportunities for our youth to develop and be prepared to serve as leaders now and in the future is critical. One initiative being put into action is the opportunity for up to six youth to attend the National Congress of American Indians Mid-Year Conference and Marketplace Youth Commission in Sparks, Nevada, next month. Funding for the conference, travel, lodging and meals will be covered through the Business Committee's Special Projects budget.

The NCAI Youth Commission provides a unique perspective on issues relevant to Tribal youth and is an opportunity for those attending to acquire knowledge about Tribal government, Native American legislative and governmental affairs and political science. It's also a chance for our youth to connect with other youth from across Indian Country and give input to tribal leaders. The mission of the Youth Commission is focused on enhancing the spiritual, mental, physical and emotional well-being of tribal youth for a better Native America, which is a great approach to further developing our young leaders and one the Business Committee fully supports.

There are many exciting events coming up that will showcase our beautiful community and the talents of many. The Woodland Indian Art Show & Market is coming up from May 24 through the 26th at the Radisson Hotel & Conference Center; Oneida's 47th Annual Pow Wow is held June 28th through the 30th behind the Norbert Hill Center, and the third year of the LPGA Thornberry Classic at Oneida will be July 2nd through the 7th. I hope you and your loved ones will have the opportunity to participate in these events or just to relax and enjoy all Oneida has to offer.

Shekoli Swakwek,

May is National Mental Health Awareness month. To kick off this month's events, we were fortunate to have Founder and Lead Clinical Therapist of HIR Wellness Center, Lea Denny, provide a training for our community May 1-2. We had a great turnout with representation from different area departments of Oneida Nation. This training focused on Healing Generational Adverse and Trauma Experiences (GATE) for Community Wellness. Also there was a Youth Mental Health Day held at the Oneida Turtle School on Friday, May 10, 2019, sponsored by Oneida Behavioral Health. Lastly, to support the Community Education Center's Women's Health Series, the topic this past week was mental health. I want to encourage community members to not be afraid to go and get a mental health check-up, just as you would a physical or medical check-up. Everything is connected from our minds, bodies, and spirit.

Daniel Guzman-King

Leadership Training - Oneida hosted a leadership training April 1-4. This was a very well attended training with approximately 100 participants. Much of the academic literature, surrounding the discipline of leadership has its foundations with the Indigenous mindset. The four-day training was to assist those in leadership roles seeking to learn more about leadership interactively. I hope everyone was able to take away positive key points from this training. This initiative was provided by Native Learning Center. I believe we must continuously invest time in ourselves and our people to learn, grow, and develop. The more knowledge and understanding we have as a whole, the stronger we will be as a nation.

8th Grade Futurez girls basketball team - We have an up and coming girls' basketball team that have improved their skills tremendously since 3rd grade. They were able to compete at the State Invitational tournament and were able to finish with 1st place. During the season, they played at a high level for their grade within the state. I want to congratulate their efforts and acknowledge the parents and coaches for their time and energy that was spent with these young female athletes. Not only are they great athletes, but they will develop a great work ethic of what it takes to be successful in the classroom and workforce. Keep up the great work, we can't wait to see what is in store for the Futurez!

Inspiring Yukwatsistay^ - One of our strategic goals of the Nation is, Access to Care for all Oneidas. As we work to bring back more healthcare options, I am advocating along with the health team of professionals for an expansion of infrastructure and services. Currently, we have outgrown our health facility with the increased number of patients vs medical staff and room space. The building itself is almost 20 years old! The infrastructure could use some improvements and remodeling. As a community member, what would you like to see if services/hours were expanded? Please contact me a dguzman@oneidanation.org or 920-869-4366 or 920-869-4363 for suggestions. Also, if you are out traveling or live outside of Oneida, here is a U.S. map of the tribal health services that provide services to tribal members. <https://www.ihs.gov/findhealthcare/#>

Study: Wisconsin sees growth in forestry industry

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Timber sales are increasing in Wisconsin and more people are working in the state's forestry industry, according to a new national study.

The National Alliance of Forest Owners released a report last month that found employment in Wisconsin's forestry sector grew by nearly 5% from 2010 to 2016, totaling 174,848. The state's timber sales increased by nearly 10% to $21.6 billion in 2016, the most recent year that comprehensive data is available, Wisconsin Public Radio reported.

Wisconsin led the Midwest in both fields in 2016, as well as timberland acres, according to the study.

Growth in the state's timber industry comes despite the closure of paper mills across Wisconsin in the last decade, said Henry Schienebeck, director of the Great Lakes Timber Professionals Association and chairman of the Wisconsin Council on Forestry.

He attributed that in part to the production of more saw timber, the high-quality wood that's used in hardwood flooring and furniture.

"Some of our forests are getting a little older," Schienebeck said. "What that means is we've actually got more saw timber that's growing."

The majority of the state's 16.5 million timberland acres are privately owned, according to the study. Public lands account for about 4.7 million acres, while companies and individuals own the remaining 11.8 million.

The National Alliance of Forest Owners' CEO, Dave Tenney, said creating healthy economies around forestry also protects forest lands because it becomes less likely that they're sold or developed as farmland, among other uses.

"Anybody who owns and manages forests in the United States knows one thing: It's a long-term commitment," Tenney said. "And in order to make a long-term commitment with forests, they have to make investments today that won't return a yield for 20, 30 or 40 years or longer."

THUNDERHAWK TIMES

2018 - 2019 Yearbook Nearing Completion

By Johnny Doxtator
Thunderhawk Times

One way to recall the great memories of another successful school year is to get your copy of this year's ONHS Yearbook.

According to art teacher Becky Anderson, yearbooks are "just about finished, with a few last minute picture and other items to take care of."

This year's yearbook should be ready to purchase by "mid-June," said Anderson.

The cost is the usual $15.

Reported in an earlier issue of "ThunderHawk Times," the cover design was done by Alyssa Noriega.

Also contained inside are cover drawings submitted by Joseph Powless, Stephani Shabow, Kaleigh Johnson, Jossalyn Metoxen, Noemi Faustino, and Jaynoa Johnson.

Ladies Open Gym Draws Athletes of All Ages

By Malia Jacobs
Thunderhawk Times

On Mondays at 7 o'clock, you can find a group of women "hooping it up" in some heated games at the Civic.

It's open gym basketball for women of all ages. It draws some pretty good basketball players both young and just a little older. It allows women and young ladies to be active throughout the summer.

Usually all you see are open gyms for boys and men. Where they are playing some fun, intense 5 on 5 games. But with having the women's open gym, it encourages older and younger ladies to play the sport they love without being afraid they'll get hurt.

These pickup games are located at the Civic every Monday at 7 o'clock. Feel free to come play and have fun. The ability to be able to play with women allows you feel involved and not an out-cast as if you were to go to a boys open gym.

If you're interested and think you can hold your own, then join us.

Lady T-Hawks Get First Win

By Natavia Adams
Thunderhawk Times

With a wet, cold spring putting a halt on the Lady T-Hawks' softball season, it's been something like "swim to first base wearing your parka."

Games have been rescheduled, moved or canceled.

But the ladies did reach a milestone on May 7, with a 10-6 victory over the West Wildcats. With Mercedes Ackley making a diving catch and a double play to first base-man Eleciah Danforth in the 7th-inning, the T-Hawks gave the Wildcats their last two outs.

The ladies' record stands at 2-4.

Nice weather for the next week will make softball a lot more enjoyable.

The regular season wrapped up Tuesday, May 14 with the ladies' second win of 19-4 against STAA. A couple of important notes from that game: ONHS freshman RaeAnna Ackley hit one over the fence for the team's first homerun and the game was called after the third inning because of the lopsided score.

Their next game is Thursday for regionals, also against STAA.

My Scoop

The History of Brownies

By Andrea Mora
Thunderhawk Times

It was our teacher's birthday on April 30 and he treated us to brownies. It got this writer thinking: Where did the idea of those sweet, gooey treats come from?

It turns out that the first known recipe for brownies was published in the 1897 Sears, Roebuck Catalogue. The origin of the Brownie is thought to be American.

It is classified as a bar cookie and is thought to get its name from the brown color of the cookie. Folklore says the brownie's origin comes from a careless cook that forgot to put baking powder in a chocolate cake recipe. Since then, they say there have been "almost as many brownie recipes as there are cooks."

There are many types of brownies in this world. Most are made of all different types of chocolate.

For this writer, there's nothing better than double-stuffed brownies with extra chocolate and nuts.

I might add that brownies are a really good treat whenever you have an important event going. Just bring a batch of brownies. But manners are also important: Always remember to ask everyone if they want of slice of a brownie before they get eaten up by everyone else.

Bucks Going All the Way?

By Talon McLester
Thunderhawk Times

It's been a long, but successful, season for the Milwaukee Bucks who continue to hold the best record in the NBA. Their regular season mark was a 60-22 record/ They were the only NBA team to make it to 60 wins in the 2018-2019 season.

They wrapped up their best of seven series against the Boston Celtics on May 8, which was last week Wednesday with a 4-1 record. That's given them a whole week of rest and practice while waiting for the Toronto Raptors-Philadelphia 76ers series to wrap up. That, the Raptors won in that dramatic fashion on Sunday, which had Kawhi Leonard scoring the game winning buzzer beater over the 76ers, with the final score of 92-90.

As of this writing, the Bucks will square off against the Raptors on Wednesday, May 15.

While this writer can't necessarily predict the outcome of the game, he can say this: I am 99% sure that the Bucks are going to go all the way. It doesn't matter who they play, if they just play some solid good basketball I have no doubt that the Bucks can win it all.

I think the Bucks have worked really hard to get here and I feel that they deserve to win it more than the other teams. Don't get me wrong, the Raptors are a very good team as well, so the Bucks are going to have to give it their all to beat them. And, they will.

Awww – Aren't They Cute?

By Thunderhawk Times Staff

It's spring and life is, well, springing up all over the place. Plants are turning green, animals are more active, and people are out and about enjoying the improving weather. But, that's the great outdoors.

It's also true in Dale Hallum's science room where baby chicks hatched a week or so back. Students found the hatching chicks fascinating and kept close track of their progress from hatching to taking a few steps to becoming aware of their surroundings.

Most people think baby chicks are "cute," but at least one student who insisted they remain anonymous said, they were actually pretty "ugly."

The chicks have been "farmed" out and are being raised in undisclosed sites in our area.

Triple Crown in 2019?

By CJ Summers
Thunderhawk Times

It's a challenge for any race horse to win the U.S. Triple Crown; only 13 have done it in the past 145 years. This year, however, it is going to be very unlikely, more like impossible. The reason is because the horse that won the Kentucky Derby, Country House, is not racing in the next race, the Preakness Stakes. In order to win a Triple Crown is to win at the Kentucky Derby, Preakness Stakes, and the Belmont Stakes.

All of this happens after a very strange Kentucky Derby on May 4 in which Maximum Security was disqualified after he won the race. Then Country House won the race because that was the next closest horse to winning. This was the first time a winning horse was disqualified since 1968 and the first time one was disqualified for how he ran the race.

So, here comes this Saturday's Preakness Stakes, which measures out to be 1 and 3/16 miles long. It is on dirt and 12 horses will be racing. The weather is supposed to be bright and beautiful, low winds, and seasonable temperatures.

On Saturday June, 8, it's New York's Belmont Stakes.

With all the unknowns in place even in a "normal" year, those waiting for a Triple Crown would have been cheering for Country House. He isn't running in the Preakness Stakes, so no horse will win a Triple Crown this year.

Food Sovereignty Summit

It's all coming together nicely! First Nations Development Institute (First Nations) and the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin (Oneida) again are co-hosting the national Food Sovereignty Summit. It will be held September 23-26, 2019, at the Radisson Hotel in Green Bay, Wisconsin. Check out the Summit Agenda, then get yourself registered!

The Food Sovereignty Summit began in 2013. It is the undisputed national forum for sharing and collaboration to build healthy food systems within Native American communities. Hundreds of attendees come from tribal communities all over that are actively involved in food sovereignty work, including caring for our land, sustaining food systems, and strengthening tribal sovereignty and partnerships between Native nations.

In addition to the numerous learning workshops, general sessions, traditional food tastings and networking opportunities, conference participants have the option of also attending an Experiential Learning Session at one of Oneida's integrated food system sites. These Experiential Learning Sessions are extremely popular and fill up fast, and because space is limited, pre-registration is required. These sessions include:

- Apple Orchard & Apple Fest
- White Corn Husking Bee
- Oneida Market and Oneida One-Stop Tour
- Oneida Cannery Processing
- Bee Keeping
- Ecological Restoration

Rain or Shine

Please consider volunteering for the third annual Garlic Mustard Pull in Oneida! Garlic Mustard is an invasive plant that's taking over our woodlands. It crowds out our beautiful native wildflowers and endangers forests by preventing tree seedlings from growing. And, none of our North American insects or wildlife eat it. Help the Oneida Invasive Species Program remove this invader from the Norbert Hill Woods, and keep our natural areas healthy. Our goal is to remove 1,000 pounds of Garlic Mustard!

Event Notes: Please dress for the weather and the work! Where garlic mustard grows, we may also run into poison ivy and mosquitoes. Close-toed shoes, long pants and long-sleeved shirts are highly recommended. Bug repellent, garbage bags, and gloves will be provided.

one of my nieces come walking by, and I was telling her to hurry, and she asked why, and I said Green Bay PD is walking in, and even she was like ‘ahh!’ and she took off running out of there.

“And we know it’s not all their fault. We understand that. One man pulled the trigger, and there were a lot of discrepancies within the whole night. But that trauma is so ingrained in us that little things like that can trigger emotions,” said Sarah.

Other things, like the news, can cause stress for family members.

“I always dread watching the news because there’s always something on there about police shootings,” said Sue.

On April 7 a Green Bay man stabbed a police dog during an arrest. The dog, Pyro, was the same dog that was going to be used to subdue Jonathon.

“Every time something like that comes about, or something happens, it’s setting us back again,” said Sue.

While dealing with their own pain, the three have been helping with the rest of the family.

“Our focus right now is Dean (Tubby) and Nina, Jonathon’s mom and dad, to get them the help that they need, because they struggle daily,” said Sue.

“One of my nephews, he keeps having the same nightmare that the same cop that shot Jonathon keeps pulling him over. I don’t even know if he knows what he looks like, but he keeps having that dream that he’s the one that gets pulled over next and that freaks him out. He shouldn’t have to live like that,” said Sarah.

Between working with their lawyers and dealing with reverberations of their loss, Sarah, Sue and Arlie say healing has been difficult.

“It’s not like when my mom passed away. You mourn and then gradually ... it doesn’t go away, but it eases. You can face the day that Mom’s not suffering any more ... and I’m good with that. I’m not good with this. There is no ‘he’s not suffering anymore,’” said Arlie.

While they haven’t sought out formal mental health counseling, each finds comfort in their family and community.

“I get my counseling and I get my comfort from my wife, and from my grandkids and my great grandkids and my family, my friends. I got a lot of comfort when I was a Tsunhehkwaw,” said Arlie.

“I spent so much time in that cornfield. That’s where I got my counseling, that’s where I was able to hold it together for everybody.”

“Besides my two (children), I have nephews and nieces at the house constantly, and at dinner we’ll set the table, they’re all younger than Jonathon, so they always ask questions and stories, so that’s really helpful to me to remember a lot of the funny and the good times,” said Sarah.

She recounted a wedding she attended when Jonathan was younger.

“Everyone was dancing on the dance floor and all of a sudden people made a circle, and I was ‘like who are you all circling,’ and I went over there and it was him and I was like ‘holy wah,’ and it was like hip hop dancing, and he was right on and the whole crowd was just cheering for him,” she said.

Both Sarah and Sue have become closer calling each other to check in.

“Me and Sue, we message ‘how are you doing today?’ we talk about maybe we should have weekly meetings, so we can just check on each other,” said Sarah with a laugh.

“Otherwise we’re on the phone for hours,” said Sue.

“In every possible way it’s exhausting, mentally, spiritually, emotionally. And that’s all on top of raising kids and work and everything else,” said Sarah. “I think just knowing to take care of ourselves, if it’s that time alone to go cry or scream or be angry or whatever it needs to be, as long as we’re taking those times, too, that will get us through this.”

Friends and the community have also stepped up to help the family during this time.

“We can’t tell them enough how thankful we are for what they’ve done and what they’ve given us,” said Sarah. “We ask them to move forward with a good mind and a good heart, and we’re lucky because people are listening, and that’s the way we want to continue to move.”

“I just don’t want the community to think that we’ve forgotten ... we have not forgotten at all,” said Sue. “I know the community is angry and anxious, we’re angry and anxious, too, but in order to keep ourselves together, we count on their support and their words and our family and each other, and moving in the right, good way.”

“Remember that good mind,” said Arlie. “The negativity just doesn’t help. It’s easier to deal with a hug that it is to deal with negativity.”

The family has set up a memorial fund in Jonathon’s name at Bay Bank in response to the community’s generous requests to help.

“We don’t want the community to feel like we’re not accepting their offerings,” said Sue. “It’s hard for our family, we’ve talked about fundraisers ... but the momentum to actually do it is really difficult for us.”

The family also wants to thank members of the Oneida Business Committee for their support.

“There’s been nothing but support from them. When it first happened, I think we heard from just about all of them say ‘if you need anything,’” said Arlie.

“They’ve taken our lead and our request for privacy for not going out there and putting anything out there. They were getting a lot of pressure to do something, and we asked them not to as a family,” said Sue.

They also thanked Bobbi Webster for helping them deal with local media and for organizing press conferences and organizing an event at Wise Women Gathering.

“She’s been there with everything,” said Arlie.

October 19, 2018

According to a report from Brown County District Attorney David Lasee, Jonathon, 26, had been pulled over that night and arrested for an outstanding warrant by Green Bay Police officers Erik O’Brien and Colton Wernecke. While he was being driven to the Brown County Jail, Jonathon was able to maneuver his handcuffed arms from behind his back to his front. He tucked his arms under his giving the appearance that he had a weapon.

After approximately 50 minutes of attempting to get Tubby to exit the squad car, pepper spray was deployed through the back window of the vehicle. Jonathan quickly exited through the back window and was knocked down by a non-lethal bean bag round. Jonathon rolled from the trunk of the car, one arm still under his shirt, and ran in the direction of O’Brien who fired eight rounds in quick succession from his service weapon, five of which struck Tubby. It was later determined that Tubby was unarmed and still handcuffed throughout the standoff. After an investigation by Wisconsin State Division of Criminal Investigation no charges were filed against O’Brien.

The family disputes the DA’s findings.

Statement from the Family of Jonathon Tubby

Today we have decided to come forward once again and speak on the tragic events that occurred October 19, 2018. On that day we lost our nephew, son, grandson, cousin and friend Jonathon Tubby. He was killed by a Green Bay Police Officer while in custody in the Sally Port of the Brown County Jail. Since that day our family continues to deal with the tragic loss of Jonathon. We continue to stay united and pray everyday for guidance and strength to make the decisions that need to be made with a good mind and heart for Jonathon and the family.

While we continue to struggle with this great loss we find comfort in the outpouring of support that we have received from the community. We cannot even begin to express our gratitude for the sense of togetherness, support and love from everyone. Even though our hearts are broken and healing them is not easy, it is this love and support that it helps us to get through the day and our attempts to move forward. We continue to appreciate all our family and community, the Oneida Police Department, the Oneida Business Committee and most importantly we thank the creator for guiding us as a family and keep our faith strong. We have been asked on numerous occasions for updates on the story of Jonathon. We continue to move through the civil lawsuit against the Green Bay Police Department, Chief, officers and others with our attorneys. They continue to review and research this case and have been very supportive of our efforts in a positive and forward-thinking manner. As a family we have chosen not to view the information in its entirety and not to discuss details of the lawsuit. We know that there will come a time that it will be necessary, however at this time it is just too painful, and these are not the memories that we want to have of Jonathon. We are blessed that the two attorneys: Attorney Forrest Tahdooahrippah and Attorney David Armstrong crossed our path and we are putting our faith and trust in them as we all walk this path for Justice. Through the work that they are doing Jonathon's story will be told. We truly appreciate Forrest and David for the compassion, understanding and the work they are doing in representing our family and Jonathon.

Our family wishes to again share we are seeking justice for Jonathon. We are not happy that this incident continues to result in heartbreak. We are angry! The anger and grief continue to follow us, but we have not lost sight of the fact that we will move through this without finger pointing, and protests. We advocate for peace and have faith in the justice system to follow due process. We have shared our belief that there must be accountability for the actions that took the life of our loved one. We fight for the development of better training, better equipment and processes to serve the citizens of our communities. We fight and seek change that will help others in the future so that no other family will have to suffer the same grief that we have experienced.

We continue to remember Jonathon as a young man that had a huge heart, he loved his family. Family had no limits where Jonathon was concerned- once you had his heart you were family in his eyes. Jonathon was compassionate and caring, with a smile that could melt your heart. He was quite the suave individual and was always positive about his life and future regardless of what challenges he may have encountered. Many want to make Jonathon out to be a young man who was uncooperative and dangerous, however he is just not that person. We have never stated that Jonathon didn't have challenges or that he was perfect. In fact, we have acknowledged that in our statements. But, we do not agree with painting a picture of him as violent and dangerous because that was not who he was. What we do continue to remember about Jonathon is his dreams of the future, the interaction and love with his family and his compassion for all those that needed him. Jonathon was and is loved by many and there is not a day that we don't think of him and miss him.

As we continue to move through the next journey for Jonathon, we want those to remember him, pray for guidance for our family and all those that feel this tragic loss of their friend, son, grandson, and cousin Jonathon Tubby; We will continue to fight for Jonathon and make sure that his story is finally told. We will continue to stand in unity and love as we move forward. But most importantly we will remember Jonathon and keep his memories close to our hearts and continue to try and heal.

We thank you for the opportunity to come forward once again and remember Jonathon. We sincerely appreciate the continued support and love from all those that have reached out to us. We appreciate the outpouring from those that want to help our family and because of these requests we have decided to establish a memorial fund for Jonathon. The memorial fund has been set up at Bay Bank of Green Bay.

Thank you for your time and support, there are no words that can express our appreciation.

going to do a story with him. I decided to include a duck character my kids came up with named Simon and that ultimately became the first book that I produced with my family.”

One book led to another and Tlachac-Toonen is now working on her 10th, with several side projects as well. She’s currently donating time as an illustrator to assist a fellow writer with a book about childhood autism, and she’s also working on a story for her seven-year-old nephew who’s battling cancer. “I don’t really know how long that one is going to take,” Tlachac-Toonen said. “I really want for him to have a say in what kind of message he wants to put out there.”

Her recently released book “Cozmo’s Wish” is a prequel to Tlachac-Toonen’s “Firefly Cave” series in which the story is told of how the books’ fireflies, and a friendly unicorn, become so colorful. The series also tells of the adventures of firefly and animal friends in a bear cave filled with tunnels that lead to other countries, including China and Australia. With a target reader audience of 2nd grade, her goal is to inspire attentive reading and curiosity about far-away lands, Tlachac-Toonen said.

“Cozmo’s Wish” is one of the featured stories along the Crescent Beach Boardwalk for the Town of Algoma’s Art of Water event which is taking place throughout the month of May. Tlachac-Toonen will also be conducting a book reading and signing on Sunday, May 26, from 1 p.m. - 2 p.m. at the Yardstick Bookshop and Gallery, 317 Steele Street, in Algoma.

“Cozmo’s Wish” and other books by Tlachac-Toonen are available at the Yardstick Bookshop and Gallery, Wienke’s Market in Algoma, as well as Other World’s Books and More in Sturgeon Bay. Her books can also be found online at www.staytoondpublish.com.

Tlachac-Toonen and her husband Pete reside in Dyckesville. She is the daughter of Susan Webster-Lemens of Green Bay and Dennis Tlachac of Door County.

OnΛyoteʔa·ká Lake expanding for the Oneida Community

By OnΛyoteʔa·ká Lake Team

OnΛyoteʔa·ká Lake has been a great success for the Oneida Nation community and is currently in the fourth summer season of offering fishing and recreation activities for Oneida Nation community members of all ages. New construction is underway to expand the footprint of the lake and bring new outdoor amenities to Oneida families. The expansion of the lake will add 12 new acres of surface water for additional fishing activities. The new addition to the north will also feature plans for a campground, an expanded trail system, a second rustic boat launch for small crafts, and include a sledding hill. Planning for the expansion has taken years to piece together but a recent funding allocation from the federal Natural Resources Damage Assessment process has led to initiating preliminary construction activities this summer.

The driving force behind the expansion is to provide additional fishing opportunities for Oneida members to replace traditional fishing areas that have been damaged and degraded by pollution in the past. The construction activities during the Summer of 2019 will include clearing of land for the addition, excavation of the lake bed, creating a new roadway entrance, and landscaping for future campground, trails, and other amenities.

Please remember to stay safe and be respectful of construction activities. Stay out of the construction area as heavy machinery is present for the expansion work. The area where construction will be occurring is to the far north and separate from the existing OnΛyoteʔa·ká Lake recreational area. For any concerns or to report any illegal activity please contact the Oneida Police Department at 869-2239.

All Oneida Nation employees involved in the development and implementation of this project are proud of the work that is going into this new community recreation area. This new and improved OnΛyoteʔa·ká Lake will be a sustainable source of fishing for generations to come.

Oneida Nation Fishing Season at Oneida Lake is ON!

By Melis Arik

Water Resources Specialist

Please practice Responsible Release to protect and support the fishery

Anglers are probably familiar with the catch-and-release restriction on largemouth bass at Oneida Lake. But the season is also closed for crappie (crappie numbers are still too small for harvest), so that is also a catch-and-release situation. When you think about it, catch-and-release really applies to all water bodies, all species, anytime you catch a fish that is too small or too large to keep.

The whole purpose of "Catch and Release" is to let a fish go so it can be caught by another angler or can grow into catchable size. But did you know that up to 20% of fish that are caught and then released actually never live to swim another day? That's what current fisheries research shows. But there are things that we anglers can do to improve chances for survival.

Responsible Release

Fisheries professionals are now using the phrase "Responsible Release" to emphasize that the WAY a fish is caught and released can make the difference between a fish surviving or going belly-up. Best practices focus on minimizing wounding and minimizing stress on the fish.

Be gentle so you don't wound the fish.

Fish can be severely wounded by an angler pulling on a swallowed hook. When that happens, cut the line immediately! The fish may still recover. Holding a fish by hooking a finger through the gills can also be devastating. The gills are thin, delicate structures that are the fish's oxygen support system – imagine what that kind of poking and prodding would do to your lungs! If it's not toothy, you can hold it by the mouth while supporting the fish with your other hand; just use both hands to support the body of a fish that can bite. And don't squeeze! Also, fun fact: fish "slime" is what protects them from disease-causing pathogens. You can help to keep them healthy by simply wetting your hands before handling.

Be considerate so you don't stress the fish.

Fish start to stress as soon as they leave the water, so if you catch a fish that you don't intend to keep, use a net to bring it in, keeping it underwater while releasing the hook and let it swim away. If you are playing a trophy-size fish, be aware that the warmer the water, the more the fight will stress the fish. It is possible to play out a fish to the point that it won't recover – be aware that just because it swims away does not mean it will fully recover. And have your photographer get the camera ready while you are bringing it in so you can minimize time out of water.

Following these simple guidelines will go a long way toward supporting and protecting our fishery. And you may find it's also an opportunity to show gratitude and thanks to the Creator, while whispering this message to the fish: "Until we meet again..."

Elder Services celebrates Older Americans Month

This month at Elder Services we are celebrating Older Americans Month for the entire month of May. The theme for this year is "Connect, Create, and Contribute". We have planned different activities every week to correspond with the theme. Our Program Manager, Elijah Metoxen, kicked off the celebration by doing a short presentation at the meal site on the history of Older American's Month and what the theme is for this year.

During the first week, the Basket Guild came to the meal site and worked with 3 elders and 5 Oneida High School students to make a basket. Due to limited supplies we could only have 5 elders participate. They were chosen from a raffle that they entered at the meal site. The basket making process took longer than we planned for but 2 of our elders stayed to complete their basket and due to time constraints, one elder had to leave early. We would like to thank the Basket Guild, our elders that participated, and the high school students from Oneida.

On May 9th, the talented Oneida singers came to the meal site and sang for everyone present. We also had elder vendors set up at our meal site

Submitted photos

Oneida Hymn Singers and members of the Basket Guild visited Elder Services to share their talents during Older Americans Month. from 9:00am to 2:00pm along with a bake sale and 50/50 raffle so that we could raise money to hold more events for our elder population in the future.

We will be having four more events taking place during the month of May which includes a Memory Screening on May 14th at the meal site from 1:00pm-3:00pm. Our Elder Dance will be on May 17th from 1:00pm-3:00pm with DJ Jamming Joey Ninham. We will also be choosing our elders for the "Take an Elder to Lunch" event at the end of the dance. Staff and community volunteers will be paying for the elder's lunch at The Marq on May 21st. We are ending the month with story telling with Brian Doxtator on May 30th from 1:00pm-3:00pm at the meal site.

Feel free to attend any of our future events and celebrate Older American's Month with us. If there are any questions regarding any event, feel free to contact us at 920-869-2448.

Blood Quantum - The Big Picture

By Norbert Hill Jr.

What Really Matters.

Sovereignty matters—Our individual and collective sovereignty is paramount. Without it the Oneida is not a Nation. Deciding citizenship criteria is a preeminent act of sovereignty. The Village of Hobart continues to discount, demonize and diminish our Nation. We need to stand strong.

Institutions matters—Elected leaders are required to manage the day to day affairs. Right or wrong—the BC takes care of matters at hand. Not an easy job—a little empathy might help. Schools, health care systems, social services, and economic enterprises matter, too.

Culture matters—Language, kinship, clans and ceremonies matter. The Creation story and other stories are the bond that hold us together. We are all members of the Longhouse regardless of religious affiliation or personal beliefs Leadership matters...17,000+ citizens matter. All the voices are important. We hold our destiny in our hands and minds. Moving forward and looking backward simultaneously is required.

A “Two-Way” vision is needed—with both eyes at the same time. One eye is short-term sight and taking care of this generation—old and young. The other eye is long term vision looking into the future—100 to 200 years in the future.

All the above requires deep thinking and deep listening. We need to listen to each other. Sometimes, we formulate an opinion before the speaker finishes their thought. We should respect all ideas, both good and not so good. An open mind is a virtue.

There is no silver bullet in the blood quantum conversation. Maybe there are many silver arrows that will create a sheaf that will sustain us for many generations to come. We didn't get here by ourselves—we have eons of ancestors to extend our gratitude.

None of this is cheap. Not only should one consider the economic impact, but also the spiritual, physical and emotional cost. We need to hold each other in the highest regard and respect.

Soon, we will meet in the Great Hall of the Radisson in an “information only” gathering concerning blood quantum and citizenship. We are in a search for a better collective-self for the long-term sustainability and benefit of the Nation.

Some of this essay is aspirational and some of this is practical. My hope is that we have time to discuss this matter with those who are important to us.

House Democrats pull tribal bills after Trump tweet

By Matthew Daly
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) ~ Democrat leaders pulled two bills concerning Native American tribes from the House floor Wednesday after President Donald Trump criticized one of the bills on Twitter and urged Republicans to oppose it.

The bills were to be considered under a fast-track provision that requires two-thirds majority to pass, making Republican support necessary for approval.

Trump said one of the bills, which reaffirms the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe reservation as trust land in Massachusetts, was a "special interest casino Bill" backed by Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren. He called it unfair and said it "doesn't treat Native Americans equally!"

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Bill Keating, D-Mass., said Trump opposes the bill because of "his well-documented alliance" with a lobbyist for Rhode Island casinos that would compete with one planned by the Mashpee Wampanoag.

Keating said on Twitter that Trump was making a "weak attempt to hide corrupt influence in a racist tweet" that uses a derogatory term for Warren, a Democratic candidate for president.

Matt Schlapp, a prominent Trump supporter and chairman of the American Conservative Union, represents Twin River Management Group, which owns two casinos in Rhode Island. Twin River has paid Schlapp's firm, Cove Strategies, $30,000 for its work so far this year, federal records show.

Schlapp also is the husband of White House strategic communications director Mercedes Schlapp.

Matt Schlapp has publicly criticized legislation to recognize the Mashpee tribe and tweeted Wednesday that the House would soon "vote to reward Sen Elizabeth Warren with...wait for it...an INDIAN casino in Massachusetts."

Warren has co-sponsored a Senate version of the tribal bill, which is intended to ensure that the Mashpees don't lose their federally designated reservation lands after the Trump administration said the tribe does not qualify to have the land placed into trust because it wasn't under federal jurisdiction when the Indian Reorganization Act passed in 1934.

Another Trump-linked firm, Black Diamond Strategies, also received $30,000 from Twin River to lobby the House on the tribal bill. Doug Davenport, one of the firm's lobbyists working on Twin River's behalf, was a senior adviser to the Trump presidential campaign.

Rep. Raul Grijalva, D-Ariz., chairman of the House Natural Resources Committee, said Trump's tweet caused Republicans to get "cold feet" on the tribal bill, but said the measure could come back as soon as next week under regular order.

"I have no intention of letting the president's gutter commentary derail the people's business," said Grijalva, whose committee has oversight over tribal issues.

The other bill withdrawn Wednesday would reaffirm the interior secretary's authority to take land into trust for Indian tribes. The bill is sponsored by Rep. Tom Cole, R-Okla.

Associated Press writer Richard Lardner contributed to this story.

Next deadline is Thursday, May 30th for the June 6th issue of the Kalihwisaks

Village of Hobart president sentenced to jail

By Christopher Johnson

 (920) 496-5632

Village of Hobart President Richard R. Heidel, 66, has been sentenced to 80 days in jail and he will serve an additional two years on probation after pleading guilty to misdemeanor third-offense drunk driving. Brown County Judge Donald Zuidmulder handed down the sentence May 1.

The judge also revoked Heidel's driver's license for 27 months and ordered him to have an Ignition Interlock Device installed in his vehicle once his driving privileges are reinstated. He will also be on a reduced blood alcohol concentration (BAC) for the remainder of his life, meaning while the State of Wisconsin's BAC level used to determine impaired driving is .08 percent, Heidel's threshold will be much lower at .02 percent. Any subsequent drunk driving arrest with a BAC above .02 percent will be a felony charge.

Heidel was arrested in the early morning hours of February 1 near the intersection of Hillcrest Road and Riverdale Drive on the undiminished Oneida Nation Reservation after a witness called police stating a man had driven into a ditch facing oncoming traffic. The arresting deputies needed to help Heidel stand, and he was eventually transported to an area hospital where he failed sobriety tests.

Court records indicate Heidel has previous drunk driving convictions in 1997 and 2005. He has been Hobart's president since 2001 and is also currently the President of the Brown County Tax Payers Association.

Meet Oneida Family Fitness Specialist Abby Wasmer

I am excited to be a part of Oneida Family Fitness and help you on your wellness journey. I graduated from University of Wisconsin Oshkosh with a bachelor's degree in Kinesiology -Strength and Conditioning May 2018. In college, I heard the story about a little boy on the beach trying to save the starfish that washed up onto shore due to a storm. Someone observed what he was doing and said, "Son, why do you bother, you can't save them all." The boy threw a starfish into the water and said, "But at least I saved that one." The story resonates with me as it has even made an impact on my decision to aid all the people I can. I find joy in helping others improve their quality of life. I make your goals my goals and I am eager to help you achieve them! My mission is to encourage members to overcome obstacles they never thought were possible. You do not have to do your wellness journey alone and I would love to help and support you!

I grew up in a small town called Howards Grove, WI. In high school, I became an avid cross-country runner and track athlete. When I am not at the gym I spend time with my dog Autumn (red heeler), and we enjoy running and hiking whenever possible. Keeping active and trying new things is something I try to live by; whether it is exercise classes, outdoor activities, or food. I also think breaking a mental sweat is important, so I try to do puzzles and read books on the days where the weather is not so nice.

Nine Health Benefits of Martial Art Training

By Master Instructor Kevin Schoenebeck

Many people grow up with martial arts as one of their first competitive activities. Not only is it a great activity that keeps you physically active, but it instills a sense of achievement and ethics, as you work your way up to the black belt. Even if you have no experience in martial art training, it is a great activity to pick up as an adult, here are some reasons why:

1. Improved cardiovascular health: One way to improve your cardiovascular system is by participating in activities that work the heart, like martial arts

2. Total body workout: Martial arts can be a high – aerobic workout that uses every muscle group in the body. Stamina, muscle tone, flexibility, balance and strength will improve.

3. Self-Confidence: Goal setting, positive encouragement and respect for values that are part of all martial art programs. Self-confidence is reported by students as a major benefit.

4. Weight loss: An hour long martial art class can burn up to 500 to 600 calories.

5. Improved Reflexes: Research has found that by participating in martial arts, your reaction times during other activities get faster, like driving, and other daily activities.

6. Focus and stillness: As a martial artist you will learn to be still, challenged and focused.

7. Teaches morals and values: Martial arts teaches a good attitude, good frame of mind, and virtues to strive for inside and outside of training.

8. Muscle tone: By participating in martial arts, you can improve the amount of muscle mass you have in your body. The higher the muscle mass, the more calories you burn each day.

9. Better mood: Research has found that by exercising 3 to 4 times a week is a great way to improve your mood. You relieve stress, and can make you happier.

Oneida Family Fitness Center invites you to try a martial art class of your choice. Classes in Tae Kwon Do, Tai Chi, Inyan Eskrima, Danzan Ryu Ju Jitsu are given Monday thru Thursday. To talk with Mr. Schoenebeck and find out what class might be right for you or your child call him at (920) 490-3804.

Traditional Ways for Healing in Modern World

By Eliza Skenandore

Multi Media Specialist

Sometimes when we are feeling unhealthy, needing healing, or just need to give ourselves a fresh start we can look at our culture and traditional teachings for answers. We need to take care of ourselves. We need to eat right, exercise, get plenty of rest and be assertive, our spirit, our fire will be respected and provide us with warmth which is an emotion. We can feel this radiate throughout our being if we respect ourselves and all of creation.

Fasting

Fasting is during some ceremonies and during personal ceremonies. Fasting is also done during the rites of passage. During the rites of passage fasting is done for 1 day up to 4 days depending on the individual. Fasting is an ancient tradition practiced by many different cultures. Today many people look to fasting to clean or renew their body or kick start their body to a new wellness state.

Intermittent fasting has become popular also. Some of the main ways to do it is 16/8 (fasting for 16 hours and only eating for 8 hours), Eat-Stop-Eat (1-2 times a week don't eat anything from dinner to dinner the next day), and 5:2 Diet (2 days of the week only eat about 500-600 calories).

Breaking a fast is just as important. Traditionally the first day of breaking a multiple day fast is with fruit and then the next day with healthy or traditional foods with the intention to fuel your body.

Sweats

Many different cultures all over the world use sweat house for ceremonies and good health. Whether doing a sweat lodge or getting the benefits from a sauna. There are get benefits from sweating. Heat causes your heart to beat fast and your blood vessels to widen. This help increase circulation. Improved circulation can help with those have body pains and mobility issues. It helps with weight loss and flush toxins out from your body. Sweating can also reduce stress. Sweating helps release endorphins. These "feel good" chemicals in your body help you relax and feel happier.

"Water is looked at as being a female spirit. We look at the springs, streams, rivers, lakes and oceans as the blood of our real mother, the earth. When we pour the water "a female spirit" onto the red-hot rocks "a male spirit" the steam that rises from this is as close as we can get to the Creators breath. In our creation story it says that the Creator created all the life forms of the world first and the human beings were the very last things to be created. As he was going around creating everything he made molds from the earth and in his mind, he was thinking that this is what will help sustain the human beings he is yet to create. They say he breathed three times into everything he created and on the last breath a part of his spirit went into it and it came to life. This steam is what cleanses us and the heat takes us back to the time of conception. The heat is what humbles us, but it was never intended to be used to the extreme." - Tsi'tehutate'tuhkwálákhwa' (Where they make themselves sweat)

The Sweatlodge by Randy Cornelius

Cold Showers

After a sweat you would wash up in a cold lake or near by river. If you don't have that luxury to take that another option is taking a cold shower. Cold showers have shown to increase metabolism, enhance immunity, reduce pain, balance sleep cycles and even reduce endorphins. Another way to get this benefit is after a walk or work out slash cool water on your face.

Giving Thanks

Also, from our culture we were to say the Kanehelatúhsla' a greeting of thanks to everything in creation. Every day and sometimes multiple times a day we will do this greeting. As Ukwehu-wé (real, original, aboriginal, indigenous human being) we would do the Kanehelatúhsla' fifty or sixty times in one day. It is one of the first things we should teach our children.

There is much research done that gratitude is the key to psychological well-being. Giving thanks can make us happier, improve relationships, and even help with depression and suicidal thoughts. Giving thanks can help with your sleep. Sleep is vital for having good health. When you don't get enough sleep, it puts tons of strain on the body. That can lead to increasing your risk of become obese, developing diabetes, cardiovascular disease, and other conditions.

The Oneida Nation Museum Object of the Month

By Katelyn Garza

Oneida Museum Specialist

This month's object, much like the month of May itself, celebrates mothers. Created by Onáyoṭe?á:ka artist Mark Fischer, this large copper sculpture entitled Aksotha? Wáhni-tale?, or Grandmother Moon, recognizes the role and responsibilities that women have in the world. Grandmother Moon comes from Sky Woman, who travelled down from the Sky World to eventually help create the world we know today. This is symbolized in the body of the sculpture by the curved linear pattern which imitates a literal path from the world above to the one below. Standing over six feet tall, the form is made of copper, which rusts in a beautiful turquoise color. This sculpture is just one of four in the museum's collection purchased from the artist, and soon to be on display in the museum's Three Sisters Garden. Come see it in person

Wisconsin Waterfalls: Big Smokey Falls

By Kateri Baker

Special to the Kalihwisaks

Just about every Oneida Woman, has had that one Menominee friend. You know the one! The one that is fearlessly Herself in every situation. From Her veracious humor all the way through to Her pain, She owns her power. She speaks, laughs, and loves loudly and unapologetically. It is only appropriate that Big Smokey Falls be the Waterfall Ode to the Menominee Woman. She is bold, beautiful, and undeterred in every perception. Her roar is fierce, yet, soothing. Her presence is unmistakable and Her healing is just as undeniable.

She resides within the beautiful Menominee Reservation at its heart center off Highway 55. You'll find yourself joyfully riding to see Her in the Spring to the Autumn seasons. The turns and "tickle bellies," alone on Highway 55 are almost as fun as She is! Even without the ride, She naturally has that draw power. Many go to these falls for white water rafting and mimic Her boldness. Others, like myself, just go to be close and visit.

She first came into my life at a young age, during a time I needed Her most. This Being has been both a confidence booster and security blanket for me. It only seems appropriate that the Menominee named Her water source, "Muk-wan-wish-ta-guon," according to the Wisconsin Historical Society. The name translates to "Bear's Head." Her name was changed but her true nature is irrefutable. Her strong protective nurturing Spirit came to me when I was feeling most insecure and unsure in every step I took. She must've sensed this unease and pulled me under her protection, like an empathetic hug given from someone who has been there. Soon, I noticed, simply walking next to Her was an energy transfer that gave me courage just by being near Her. When I couldn't draw from Her power, I sat back and watched Her do Her thing. She willingly stepped up and shielded me from pain, even if only momentarily. Her sweet, kind, and nurturing true nature seemed to be shown to only me during these times and I felt lucky to see it.

When I sit near Her, I wonder, "How does a Being, such as She, get to be this confident and radiant?" She is the perfect culmination of all Her experiences. She is as She is and I am in awe.

She rages with grace. The Water flows over and around rock with ease but creates a constant roar that reminds you of Her true power. You have to see and hear Her for yourself to believe it. The sounds of Her are as unique as the Menominee accent! Just as there are Native accents, then there is the Menominee accent; there are Wisconsin waterfalls, then there is Big Smokey Falls! Her sound is a unique blend of constant roar and soothing wisps in the background created by the separation in flowage from the island. No matter which side you stand closest to, the other is in the background offering balance. I find myself walking up and down the bridge many times over, simply for the effect on my ears.

As an Oneida Woman of Wisconsin, there is a divine sisterhood that has been created between us by our Ancestors. Two distinct Tribes but still so connected. Much like the history of the Menominee gracing us Oneidas with this land, Big Smokey Falls, eventually, gives to us, as well. Muk-wan-wish-ta-guon /Wolf River, flows down to Lake Winnebago then back up to us via the Fox River. She naturally comes our way, watching over us, and forever giving to us like a big Sister. For that, there is not enough gratitude I can show to this Feminine Spirit. I can only write my love for Her and encourage other Oneidas to pay Her a visit of respect and appreciation. I make sure to not forget my Oyu?kwa?u-wé (Sacred Tobacco) during my visits. Instead of raising a glass, I lay down my Oyu?kwa?u-wé to give my salutations. She is a gift to us, just as much as She is a gift to the Menominee. May we never forget.
